Fishermen's Union Has Formally Voted to Go to Work

under a call made for that purpose by the executive committee this afternoon, the strike was formally declared off, by a majoirty of 57, in a total vote of 450.

In anticipation of the action of the meeting, the men have been applying all day at the canneries for their nets.

The militia have left for their homes. It is asserted by all the fishermen that the compromise comes at a late day, as few, if any fish have been coming into the river during the last few days. The catches last night were uniformly large, one of the Scandinavian Packing Copmany's men being paid $162 for his night's work, while few of them delivered less than 2,000 pounds.

The appearance of the fish indicates that they have been in the river for some days at least, and it is predicted that as soon as all the boats are out, the river will quickly be cleared of ful. Should the motor demonstrate its fish, and small catches will be the rule until the July run comes.

FIFTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.

Resume of the Important Business of

The first session of the Fifty-fourth congress which has closed, enjoys the distinction of being the shortest "long" session for a period of thirty years. Of the measures which become laws, the most important from an international EVIDENCE OF STEADY GROWTH standpoint, was the bill creating the commission "to determine the true News Gathered in All the Towns of Our Neighboring States - Improveing prizefighting in the territories; permitting appointments in the navy and army of former United States officers who served in the rebellion and mak-A nugget weighing $28 was recently ing one year's residence in a territory a prerequisite to obtaining a divorce

Excepting these, however, the remainder of the 225 bills and resolutions which received the president's approval were not of a character to deserve extended mention. The more important were the bills incorporating the national society of the Daughters of the Revolution, opening the forest reservations in Colorado, for the location of mining claims; regulating proof of death in pension cases; providing for a naval training school in San Francisco harbor; making it unlawful to shoot at any railway train or any person thereon, or to throw missiles into train, and repealing clause 61 of the tariff law providing for a rebate on alcohol used in the arts.

If the session, however, was con-spicuous by reason of its brevity and the limited number of important laws enacted, it resulted in the introduction of a larger number of bills in the house during any similar period for a quarter of a century. The total number of bills introduced during the entire last congress was 8,987, of which 4,405 were introduced during the first session, which corresponds to the session now closed and in which latter the aggregate reached 9,500. Of these 2,300 were favorably reported by the committees to whom they were referred, and scores of them are likely to be brought to the attention of the house next winter.

The Nicaragua bill was one of these measures After many months of consideration in the committee, it received a favorabin report in the face of an absolute certainty that it would not be taken up during this session. The bill to liquidate the indebtedness of the Pacific railways to the government is another far-reaching measure, which was also upon the calendar with a favorable report, but which for prudential rea-sons will continue to slumber there

The popular interest in the Cuban revolution was shown in the large number of resolutions, more than fifty in all, that were introduced and referred to the committee on foreign affairs. After careful consideration, a concurrent resolution was reported, for which was subsequently substituted, in conference, the senate resolution expressing the sympathy of the United States with the insurgents, recognizing their belligerency and calling upon the president to use his good offices to secure the independence of the island.

Measures for which there has been a widespread demand that have passed the house and will probably receive consideration from the senate next session, include the bankruptcy bill, the McCall bill, providing an educational test for immigrants, the labor commission and labor arbitration bills and the bill simplifying the rules of the pension office so as to facilitate the adjustment of private pension cases.

The early weeks of the session were a busy period for the ways and means committee. Of the 187 measures referred to it, thirty were acted upon. Two of the greatest importance were the bond and revenue bills. The bond bill passed the house, was sent to the senate and returned with the addition of an age of silver. The revenue bill died in the senate committee on finance. Among other measures of interest reported by the ways and means committee were the bills permitting the killing of all the fur seals in Alaskan waters; the "filled cheese" bill and the bill amending the law permitting a rebate on alcohol used in the arts.

The committee on invalid pensions broke all previous records for work Upwards of 2,800 bills were referred to it, of which 700 private bills were reported to the house. Among the measures reported in addition to those which passed the house, were bills giving members of state militia a pensionable status; granting pensions to remarried war widows; broadening the scope of the law pensioning army nurses; increasing the pensions of those who lost limbs in the service and providing for the payment of pensions

The pensions committee, which deals with a different class of measures from those which are referred to the invalid pensions committee, disposed of 240 of the 600 bills referred to them.

The finance committee, to which was referred 105 different measures, has succeeded in getting through the senate but three of any importance that have become laws—the filled cheese bill; the amendment to the administrative fea ture of the tariff act permitting express companies to pay the duty on packages valued at not more than $500. The senate committee on pensions shows a better record for accomplished results. Senate pension bills aggregating 1,020 were referred to this com imttee. Similar bills aggregating 220 came over from the house. Two hundred and seventy senate bills were passed by the senate, of which the house passed but 50. On the other hand, the senate passed 110 of the house pension bills out of a total of 220 passed by the house. Out of all this proposed legislation but 83 bills be-

PORTLAND MARKETS.

There has been a very noticeable improvement in business in many lines within the past week or ten days, and wholesalers are fairly well satisfied with the outlook. The salmon industry thus far has put but little money into circulation, and hardly anything has been done with the wool crop, but the remarkable prospects for a great wheat crop have tended to loosen up purse-strings considerably, and a continued improvement is looked for from this time on until next fall.
