Weekly Crop Bulletin.

Weather—The past week has been warm and dry. The week has been a continuation of the weather of the preceding week. There has been practically no rainfall since June 10. The warm, dry weather following the cool, wet weather of May and the forepart of June, has made some soil very hard, and has dried out all soils very much. There were few clouds during the week. There have been some south to east winds in the mornings, but these have been local, being what are termed land breezes, a portion of the diurnal land and sea breeze which prevails on the Pacific coast during the summer season.

The temperature for the past week has averaged 68 degrees, the same as the week before. The past week had not the extreme heat of the preceding week; the maximum or heat of day temperature ranged from 72 to 90 degrees, while the night temperature ranged from 50 to 60 degrees. These temperatures represent the warmest weather, which, as a rule, prevails over Western Oregon during the heat of summer.

Crops—The warm, dry weather has been unfavorable to late-sown grains and to gardens. Fall and winter-sown grain withstands the warm, dry weather though it, too, would be benefited by rain, for it would allow the heads to fill better. The late-sown grain is in fair condition, while that sown after the middle of May is in very poor condition. The dry weather is not favorable to the berry crop, though the crop is in good condition, and very prolific. Corn is growing finely; it, too, would be benefited by rain. The weather is very fine for haying, and the hay crop is being harvested in good form.

Fruit—There is no improvement to note in the fruit prospects. Strawberries are yet very plentiful, though they are gradually being picked. Cherries are ripe; the early varieties are about all gone and the later ones are now in the markets; raspberries, gooseberries and currants are plentiful, and blackberries will be plentiful. Grapes are past their full-bloom and the fruit is now set. All vineyardists report their grapes free from injury from the weather or other causes.

Hops are growing rapidly, and in those yards that have been well attended to they are very fine. Hop lice have made their appearance, especially in yards not well taken care of. Sheep shearing is finished and the wool is being carried to the warehouses.

Garden truck has made good growth, except during the past week vegetables have not grown owing to the absence of moisture; where irrigated they are very fine. The season has been so far favorable to hay, fall and winter-sown grain, to vegetables and to berries; it has been unfavorable to late-sown, spring grain, and to many varieties of fruit.

There are no conditions present to-day that indicate a material change over the current weather. Rain from thunder storms is probable, but otherwise there is little hope for rain. Rode off the Bridge. T. M. Kelso, who lives about two miles south of Hillsboro met with an accident Friday night which may cost him his life.

Mr. Kelso is a member of Phoenix lodge, Knights of Pythias. Probably no action can be sustained against the county, as the public has been warned against crossing the bridge while it was being repaired. Sudden Death of an Old Man. Wednesday evening J. J. Beecham, a Dane, living on the Scappoose road, about 10 miles from Hillsboro, was found dead in the field of his son-in-law Emil Meyer.

Probate—In the matter of the estate of James R. Shepley, deceased; citation ordered to issue to Wm. E. Crosiant, one of the heirs at law, and that the same be served by publication. Appraisal and inventory filed in re estate of Albert Wilcox, deceased, and same not approved, as two of the appraisers appointed by this court were not present at the appraisal.

Marriage Licenses—Andrew Eggiman and Christine Vetter; W. B. McLin and Della Thompson. A Safe Bond. The dull routine of official proceedings in the courthouse has been enlivened with an interchange of pleasantries with one of our townsmen in which the latter did not come off second best.

The authorship was noted at the courthouse and was too good an opportunity to be lost. The bond was returned on account of not being in the language of the statute and the accompanying letter gravely remarked: "The late grand jury made a thorough examination of all bonds on file and had some comments in their correctness, and to overcome anything of the kind in the future, this precaution is taken, so that if any future examinations are made they will 'pass muster'."

The joke would have been on Mr. Pfanner had not a bond, which the letter said was properly filled out, been enclosed. The inaccuracy in a single word by which "and" appeared for "or" made the bond false a one, the jokers overreached themselves. It will indeed be a critical grand jury which will not approve of this particular bond as it now reads, with its 'i's all dotted and every t crossed.

Articles of incorporation were filed Thursday, in the office of the secretary of state at Salem, by the Tigardville Milling Co., to manufacture and deal in flour and mill stuffs. Capital $3000 divided into 30 shares of $100 each. Incorporators, John Gaarde, E. F. Wood and E. J. Godman.

A Gifted Woman. A rare opportunity to Forest Grove people is the coming visit of Mrs. Baxter and her daughter which is announced elsewhere in this paper. Wednesday's Oregonian speaks thus highly of her: "A little girl grew up with Samantha Allen, the immortal Josiah Allen's wife, in Jonesville, Mich., and like Samantha she grew to believe in moral reform.

"Those who heard her in the First Congregational church last fall, can testify to her power. At the conclusion of her autumn trip the Christian Advocate of the mid-continent said that 'Wolverine state might well pride herself on her gifted daughters.' Marion Baxter is one of Francis E. Willard's strong, right-hands, and is now her financier. For a long period she led the noonday meetings in the Willard hall of the Temperance temple, Chicago. That beautiful little auditorium with its marble floors, and frescoed ceiling in cerulean blue, monogrammed for the leaders of white-ribboners, where back of the platform hang two large paintings representing justice between man and man and the three celestial graces, 'Faith, Hope and Charity,' while Marion Baxter was teaching at the noon hour that these three may become terrestrial too, Willard hall filled to its greatest capacity.

"Mrs. Baxter's daughter Beatrice further delights her mother's audiences with her histrionic readings. She is from the Columbia school of oratory and physical culture, of Chicago." School Picnic. On Friday, June 19, the Arcade school closed with a grand picnic, Miss Gertrude Mullins, teacher; Miss Willis, teacher of Pleasant View school, and Mrs. Frutcheon of Mt. Vincent school, kindly assisting. Several of the friends and patrons of the school are worthy of praise for the various ways in which they rendered their most valuable and much needed assistance.

Electric Bitters. Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle at the Miller pharmacy. Ripans Tablets: one gives relief.
