Prices, he says, show a tendency to fall, though the full effect is not yet apparent in the Deccan. The condition of the people is good and the pressure upon them is due to prices rather than to the failure of the crops. Since the rain, prices have fallen 20 to 50 per cent in the northern districts. Lord Elkin's dispatch also gives details of how a quarter of a million of people in the distressed districts of India are engaged in relief work.

Washington, Nov. 30 .- In his annual report, which was made public today, Secretary Lamont renews his previous recommendation that the infantry be reorganized on the general idea of three light and mobile battalions of four companies each to the reg-iment, instead of the numbersome tencompany formation, adopted a century ago, and abandoned by other nations since the development of modern magazine rifles, and he quotes Generals Sherman and Sheridan and Lieutenant-General Schofield in support of the necessity of this reorganization of the infantry.

The completion already of some coast defenses and the approaching completion of other modern batteries renders necessary a larger force of artilleries, but on increase of the army is Linn, formerly of this city, who is asked for. The plan of seacoast defenses involves 100 distinct batteries in over twenty harbors.

The report shows that, whereas on July 1, 1893, in our modern defense, but one high-power gun was mounted, by July next we will have in position seventy high-power breech-loading guns and ninety-five breech-loading mortars of modern design, and by the following July, on completion of work already under way, as provided for, 128 guns and 153 mortars. A battery of two or three of these guns takes the place of the former pretentious fort, and is vastly more effective. The defenses now under consideration are distributed among the ports of Portland, Me.; Portsmouth, N. H.; Boston, Narragansett bay, eastern entrance to Long Island sound; eastern and southern entrances to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Hampton Roads, Wilmington, Charles-Savannah, Key West, Pensacola, Mobile, New Orleans, Galveston, San Diego, San Francisco, and the mouth of the Columbia river and Puget sound. All of the emplacements have been located with a view to carrying out the project of the Endicott board of fortifications, organized under act of congress March 8, 1885, as revised by the permanent board of engineers. The secre-tary says that the department, in making these allotments, was guided by a desire to protect as many of the seaports portant places, and also to utilize to the best advantage the guns for which carriages could be speedily furnished. The total number of emplacements provided for to date is 128 for guns and 156 for mortars, of which ninety-two for guns and 73 for mortars were apropriated for by the last congress.

The number of gun carriages completed and building, all of which will be finished within the next fiscal year, is twenty 12-inch, sixty-nine 10-inch, eighteen 8-inch for guns, and 153 for ortars. By July, 1897, there should be ready seventy gun carriages and 123 mortar carriages.

The total number of guns completed date, since the first appropriation, is sixty-one 8-inch, fifty-six 10-inch. twenty-one 12-inch and eighty mortars.

With the money already provided, there will be completed by June 30, 1897, goventy-two 8-inch guns, eightyseven 10 inch guns, forty-seven 12-inch guns and eighty-eight mortars.

The estimates of the department for the next fiscal year aggregate $10,482,en wreck or a rock, and sank in five 263. With this apporpriation, provision will have been made for high-power gun emplacements, 128 rapid-fire gun emplacements, 300 12inch mortar emplacements, 258 highpower steel guns, ninety-seven rapid fire guns, 290 12-inch mortars, 180 8sengers were transferred to the pilot inch and 12-inch gun carriages, and boat Walter H. Weyler went to the field with 35,000 men in three columns, one of 15,000 under hims if; one of 15,000 under General Echague, and a third of 5,000 under General Munzo. They found Maceo entrenched in a crescent-shaped range of hills. When at the foot of the hills the Spaniards were met with a withering fire that cut gaps in their ranks. Maceo's men shot from behind rocks and trees, and gradually gave way before the Spaniards, who, encouraged by what they thought to be a victory, pursued them.

Suddenly a deafening explosion rent the air, and a scene followed somewhat like the mine herror at Petersburg during the late war. Horses and men were blown high in the air and fell to the earth dead and mangled. The dynamite mine was touched off by John Mso 10's electrician. Maceo then loosened his dynamite guns, prepared by Linu, and more havor was wrought.

Next day, Maceo, knowing of the reserve force under Weyler, retreated to even a stronger position. Then he was attacked by the column under Echague, who was roundly thrashed and driven from the field, losing 800 men killed, besides 1,300 wounded.

Next day Maceo retreated again, maneuvering all the while to entrap Welyer into a field that had been honeycombed with dynamite. Meanwhile, however, General Weyler, hearing that there was danger of an uprising in Havana, because of his failure to crush Maceo, hastened back to that
