CHANDLER SARCASTIC.

A Three-Hour Speech in Advocacy of Bimetalism.

Washington, Feb. 18. - Senator Chandler's speech in the senate today in advocacy of bimetalism was one of the notable efforts of the present sesion, not only for the care with which the senator presented the question from his standpoint, but for the bitter sarasm addressed to Senator Palmer and the Indianapolis convention, the arraignment of silver Republicans who bolted the St. Louis convention, and for the dramatic personal exchange between Chandler and Pettigrew, the latter being one of the bolters from the St. Louis convention. Chandler's speech lasted three hours, and was replete with incident. It was an argument against a single standard of either metal, gold or silver, and a warning against a policy of monometalism. Then the senator turned to the political phases of the question, speaking in turn of Bryan, Palmer and McKinley. Palmer sat across the aisle and was frequently addressed by the speaker as one who had contributed to the election of McKinley. The controversy between Chandler and Pettigrew was one of the hottest personal episodes the senate had has in a long time, the South Dakota senator declaring that Chandler's statement as to the violation of pledges at St. Louis was wholly false. Chandler did not modify his statement, but mutual explanations restored cordial relations. The peroration of Chandler was an appeal to the incoming president and his advisers to heed the needs of the people, particularly on the money question, and a warning of speedy political

Athens, Feb. 18 .- It is generally believed here that the Cretan feature of the Eastern question is now a thing of the past, and the landing of the Greek troops at Crete is not likely to turn out a casus belli between Turkey and Greece.

The absolute decision of Greece to persist in the occupation of Crete and protection of Christians on that island, in spite of the attitude of the powers, is founded on the declaration of the Cretans that they are prepared to shed the last drop of their blood in order to attain their national aspirations, to which they add that they will not be satisfied with anything short of an absolute union with Greece. These circumstances were communicated by Greece to the powers and the policy of the in every point.

Although well intentioned, Berovitch Pasha has shown a lamentable lack of courage during the recent troubles, according to the correspondent. He practically abandoned the direction
