The dance held in the hall Thursday evening was one sided, like a jug handle, as there were six girls and about fifty gentlemen present. There were not enough ladies present so no sets were danced, and it broke up about up about nine o'clock, but we cannot say that they went direct to their homes as it sounded as if some of them wouldn't if they couldn't, and if they couldn't how could they go home until morning.

SCOGGINS VALLEY.

While in one of our neighboring towns your humble correspondent happened to spend the evening at a home bounded on one side by a church and on the other by a dance hall. Among other games it was decided to hold a quaker meeting. The spirits did not move the occupants of the room but undoubtedly did those of the church and ball room for taking a pencil your reporter jotted down the following sentences as they reached his ears—Let us pray—Chose partners—O Lord—All salute—We beseech thee to—Join hands and—Draw near—Circle to the left—Listen to us—First four forward and back—As we—All promenaded—Kneel before—And balance off—Present our petitions—Grand right and left—For Christ's sake—Seat y ur pardners. Your correspondent being in a religious frame of mind was much saddened and just at this moment the spirit moved him and a few of his companions to form a foot ball club to play the following Sunday.
