Prof. Green's recital at George Smith's, Monday evening last, was greatly enjoyed by all present. Next week we will find space for the program rendered.

Mr. H. Taylor Hill has sold his warehouse at the depot to E. W. Haines.
The sale was made by Johnson and Cornelius our popular real estate agents.

Mr. J. F. Sappington and Mr. G. Valentine, of Indiana, were being shown around the city by Melki Johnson last Wednesday. They contemplate locating here.

Mrs. E. J. Patton, who has been ill for some time at her daughter's, Mrs. Ham-mack, in Scoggins Valley, has so far recovered as to come to the Grove. The family and friends are rejoicing.

W. T. Bume, the prominent Portland attorney, came out to Washington county last Saturday, having in his possession a nice fishing rod. If he proves himself a better Nimrod than some of the Groveites, he will do very well.

Mrs. Emma Glass, of Dilley, was here Thursday, to try the expert tooth extractor, Dr. Hiatt and the new preparation administered by Dr. C. L. Large. She had 13 teeth extracted, and went home highly pleased with the dentists work and also with the pleasant effect of the remedy given.

Catholics of Washington county will observe the Forty Hours Devotion, in commemoration of the forty hours during which the body of the Savior remained in the sepulchre, at their churches on the following dates: Cedar Mill May 30, Tigardville May 30, Ver-boort May 16.

A peculiar monument was sent to the college campus this week. It is a part of a petrified tree and is to mark the spot where stood the first school house, which was used also as a church. It is presented by Dr. D. Rafferty and will be put up by Rev. J. E. Walker, as a memorial of the class of which they were members.

Supervisor A. T. Knox with men and teams is doing good work putting the base line road near town in shape.
Another winter will see a first class road bed on this most important thoroughfare of the county. Every encouragement should be given to assist the supervisor in his work for the roads of this district sadly need attention and Mr.
Knox is doing his utmost to make permanent improvement in them.

on streets, was referred to street committee. Superintendent was instructed to see what arrangements should be made in regard to telephone from council building to power house per petition of fire department.

Adjourned to meet next Saturday.

Pill Clothes.

The good pill has a good coat. The pill coat serves two purposes; it protects the pill, and disguises it to the sensitive palate. Some coats are too heavy; they won't dissolve, and the pills they cover pass through the system, harmless as a bread pellet. Other coats are too light, and permit the speedy deterioration of the pill. After 30 years exposure, Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills have been found as effective as if just fresh from the laboratory. It's a good pill, with a good coat. Ask your druggist for

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH CURED.
Gained Fourteen Pounds.

Gentlemen: Over a year ago I was suffering from what a physician called catarrh of the stomach, but his treatment did me no good. I could not retain food on my stomach, and always had a sour taste in my mouth. I commenced taking Dr. Grant's Sarsaparilla and Grape Root and the result is I am now in splendid health. I have a splendid color in my face; my appetite is excellent and is daily improving. My present weight is 129 pounds, I have gained over 14 pounds, and I feel that this good result is due to Dr. Grant's Sarsaparilla.

"Under Which Flag?"

The war of the rebellion is over. That mighty conflict of elemental human passions, with its armed hosts, its mighty battles, its wealth of heroes, its heroic, humorous, grotesque and terrible, is nearly a generation away from the living present. We are looking upon it through the softening atmosphere which time throws around the memorable events of the past. The rancor, the unaliquity, the bitter hatreds that flourished then have grown weaker year by year, until it is to be hoped they have at last been buried forever beneath the flowers which every May sees scattered with impartial tenderness upon the last resting places of the Blue and the Gray. Historians are beginning to address themselves intelligently to the worthy task of recording the annals of the greatest of civil wars. Whittier, Hart, and Reade have already embalmed in immortal verses, solitary acts of heroism, and it will be long before the poets will cease to find ample room for their powers in commemorating deeds of daring and of patriotism that illumine, like stars, the gloomy record of marches and counter-marches. Nor should the dramatist be idle. Surely the time has come when a play should be indeed a "brief abstract and chronicle of the times," neither unwelcome nor offensive. Such a play could be something more than a drama—it would be a page of history. It must be conceived and written without partisanship or prejudice. It must above everything be true. The motives, the passions of that stormy time must be clearly outlined. The loyal Unionist, the ardent Southron, must be shown as they were—each equally devoted to his cause, each equally confident of its justice. The self-seeking neutral, the bandit-like guerrilla, the negro longing for freedom, yet faithful to his old master—these elements cannot be omitted. In such a drama even the humors of camp life, the woes and mishaps of sutlers and substitutes, will find fitting place. Nothing should be omitted that will tend to join the picture with various tints, grave, sombre and gay which the war presented in such astonishing variety and endless profusion. When such elements as these are combined with a strong, romantic story of human interest then power and passion will move as in far off days of the war, and the tender and glorious memories of that time will live again with all their old power to thrill and inspire, and none to sadden or depress. We believe that such a drama has been written and its interpretation will be given in this city by amateurs who live in our midst, for the benefit of the Forest Grove band, at Vert's hall, Friday evening, April 16.
