Insurgent Operations in Havana Provnce Attended With Success

New York, May 5 .- A special to the Press from Key West says: Havana advices show that the insurgents are active in that province. Tapasta was attacked last week by a force of 400 insurgents, and held for an entire day. Some firing took place between the insurgents and the other two blockhouses, but no attack was made on them, the Cubans apparently being content with the victories they had gained. A FORTUNE FOR A TRAMP.

Jacob Loesing Is in Luck if He Can Be Found.

New York, May 5 .- This story has to do with one Jacob Loesing, a tramp who ran away from his home in Havre, France, when a little boy of 16, and who has just been left $38,000 by a rich uncle who died. The man was taken to a lawyer's office nine months ago to be examined as a witness in an assault case. In the course of an examination these facts were brought out:

The man was Jacob Loesing; he was born in Havre; his uncle, who conducted a large flour business at Havre, took charge of him and sent him to a boarding shoool. When the boy was 16 years old he ran away, went to Paris, mastered the English language, earned a little money, made his way to Liverdool and came to this country on a cattle steamer. Finding it was necessary to work, even in America, the runaway went West and obtained a position as porter in a hotel in Iowa. He drifted to San Francisco. There, sad to relate, the wanderer was compelled to serve eighteen months in San Quentin, accused of baving broken into a laundry. When liberated he came to New York.

All this Jacob told the lawyer. The latter did not place much confidence in the man's story, but after giving it careful consideration, he decided that there might be some truth in it, so he wrote to a counsellor at Havre and received the reply that Jacob's uncle had died several months ago, leaving an estate valued at $38,000. It was only for Loesing to go there and prove his not be found.

The Fighting at Velestino.

Athens, May 4.—Dispatches from Pharsala, the headquarters of the Greek army in Thessaly, give further particulars of the recent fighting between Turks and Greeks at Velestino, ten miles west of Volo, at the junction of the railroad connecting Volo with Larissa and Pharsala. The Turkish attacking force consisted of 8,000 infantry, 600 cavalry and thirteen guns. The charges of the Turkish gun cavalry were firmly withstood by Evzones posted on Karnavassa hill. An entire Turkish regiment was decimated. Four Turkish squadrons which attempted a charge were received with a combined rifle and sharpnel fire which mowed down several hundred. The Greek irregulars co-operated with the regulars. Fifty Greeks were killed, and, a major and five subalterns wounded.

A detachment of Turkish cavalry between Pharsala and Domokos, which town is about ten miles south of Pharsala, in the Greek rear. The Greek artillery opened fire upon the enemy's cavalry at long range, and after heavy cannonading forced the Turks to retire, the Greek cavalry pursuing them.

The Turkish commander apparently wished to surprise the Greeks at Pharthem, one from Trikhala, the other from Larissa.

In Panic-Stricken Yolo.

New York, May 4 .- A Herald dispatch from Salonica says: An Englishman who arrived here last night from Volo, where he had been four days, says that the scenes of panic and confusion are indescribable. Law and order have disappeared and all semblance of authority is gone. The whole beach is strewn with baggage, and people are clamoring and waiting for ships that do not come. Rifles are being promiscuously served and cartridges are thrown in heaps in the streets and the people fill their pockets with them.

The Englishman saw the Greeks' flight at Velestino. Fugitives rushing in without money or provisions intermingled with the soldiers who had thrown their arms away so as not to impede their fight. He also saw the captain of an American ship who left Athens on the 28th. He said the people were terribly bitter against the royal family and would kill any of its members if they could get at them. They accused Prince Constantine of having betrayed the army and of being in collusion with the Russians.

The latest he heard was that the king had taken refuge on a Russian warship. The streets were full of armed people. The shops were being plundered.

The Cuban resolution was called up by Morgan, who asked for a vote. Hale of Maine, just returned after an extended absence, desired time to pre-pare his remarks. He assured Morgan there was no purpose to delay the resolution for the mere sake of delay. After proper debate, he said it would be voted on, as he was as anxious as any one to have the resolution disposed of. Morgan endeavored to have a day fixed for a vote, but there were objections.

A NEW COALING STATION.

The United States May Yet Establish One at Santo Domingo.

New York, May 5 .- A Herald special from Wahsington says: General Grant's project for the establishment of a naval coaling station in Samana bay, Santo Domingo, may yet be realized. According to Mr. Henry Smythe, minister to Hayti, and charge d'affairs to Santo Domingo, under the Cleveland administration, the Domingo government is ready to cede such a station to the United States without asking the payment of a dollar.

Mr. Smythe has not submitted an official report on this subject to the state department for the reason that his resignation was accepted before he had time to prepare it, though he had he made an oral report.

The coaling station was to be located at any point in the bay of Samana, or in either of two fine harbors east of Santo Domingo or the Caribbean sea.

STRANDED IN JUNEAU.

Two Hundred Men There Are Unable to Get Away.

Port Townsend, Wash., May 5 .- The steamer Al-Ki returned this evening from an uneventful trip to Alaska, bringing but four passengers and very little freight. A large number of stranded people are at Juneau. They went north without supplies, expecting to beg food from others while en route to the Yukon. They were given to understand they would starve if they started on the trip, so they remained at Juneau. The recent raise in fare from $15 to $32 from Juneau to Sound points preclude their leaving Juneau, and the result is that there are upward of 200 men there, without money or the means of getting either to the mines or back to the Sound.

No court will be held in Alaska for several months to come. A Juneau paper says that there are so few cases for jury trial upon the district court calendar for the May term that the circumstances will not warrant the great resses and three intrenchments. Hefzi expense which the summoning of a jury would entail upon the government.

The Durrant Case.

San Francisco, May 5 .- The attornevs for Theodore Durrant today filed copies of a bill of exceptions on the appeal to the supreme court of the United States. The exceptions are to proceedings in court April 10, when a motion for a continuance was denied and when Durrant was sentenced to be hanged at San Quentin prison June 11.

Where a Withering Fire Was Poured Upon Them From All Sides. New York, May 3 .- A Herald dispatch from Havana says: The engagement which the Spanish had with General Roderiguez in the Purgatory hills, and which was reported as a decisive Spanish victory, turns out to have been the reverse. The Spanish columns encountered the insurgents and attacked sharply, relying on their superior forces. The rebels retreated toward their camp, and succeeded in playing their old trick of drawing the Spanish into an ambuscade. General Castillo arrived with reinforcements while Roderiguez was engaging the Spanish and fell on their flank. The fighting lasted five hours, and in killed, wounded and prisoners, the Spanish lost 280 men. News comes from Santiago de Cuba that 200 volunteers headed by a priest and a prominent physician have joined the insurgents because they were dissatisfied with the conduct of the Spanish authorities, and believed that Gar
