Many Women Earn Money At Home

N every country neighborhood, in any town small or large, women who are in earnest and set their heads to it may originate ways of bringing in money while at the same time they attend to their daily household duties. At a meeting of the Min-Resota Dairymen's association several ladies reported their success in cow One woman, Mrs. Holmes, was fond of cows and had money to buy one. That was some years ago. Mrs. Holmes now has a farm of 240 acres in small grains and pasture. The grain lands gave a phenomenal yield to the acre, the men farmers said when they heard the average was nearly fifty bushels. Mrs. Holmes has now twenty-six cows, which gave her nearly $1,500 worth of butter last year. For farmer that is not a bad income. Mrs. Holmes wisely uses all the produet of her land to feed her stock on

A Maine woman, Mrs. Florence Cummings, who likewise plays the plane, devotes her farm to poultry, hay and dairying. She does all her own housework and sells twenty pounds of butter a week. Country women around Boston have taken up market gardening with enthusiasm, and several of them are in receipt of incomes from this source that many professional men and women might envy. In New England it is becoming common to employ Italian women to do the work in market gardening, and they make excellent help. They do not get drunk or quar-In the west and southwest, of course, however, it is left for women to conduct farms on a grand scale. In California Mrs. Buckingham of Vacaville long since showed what woman can do in the agricultural field; so did the ingenious woman who raised pampas plumes and created a demand for them. In the Panhandle of Texas Mrs. Pauline Whitman owns and operates a ranch of 200,000 acres, on which she raises 15,000 cattle a year.

In another field of home industry may be mentioned Mrs. Kidd, the lady who began making delicious pickles according to a recipe that had been in her family for generations. Year after year she took premiums for her wares at southern state fairs before she ever thought of pickle making as a remunerative industry. Finally it occurred to her that, since her pickles were so very good, she might get some spending money by selling them. She offered some of them at a famous southern hotel. At once they met with favor. Then another and another hotel manager wanted them till a trade be-the was widened out to include Buffalo, Mrs. Kidd first made her delicacles in her own kitchen. As was the case with Mrs. Macready's husband also, ere long Mrs. Kidd's husband had to give up his own work and help his wife with the industry she had founded. A large factory has been built in the rear of the old southern home in which Mrs. Kidd lived, and scores of loyed regularly one which became popular so suddenly that it amounts to a fad. The fad will die a natural death by and by, but while it lasts hundreds of quiet domestic women are getting good money out of the homemade rug business. There are braided and sewed rugs, crocheted rugs, knitted ones and those woven by hand in a way similar to that whereby the most expensive Persian and oriental rugs are manufactured. All over the Union women are catering to the popular fad, learning from aged mothers and grandmothers how these made rugs half a century ago, except that the grandmothers made the rugs for sturdy farm boots to tread upon, and that right heavily, while the granddaughters make theirs for dainty ladies to show off in parlors and even in some cases to hang up for draperies; The rug foundation can be painted or stained with the outline of a colored figure or scene and the rag or wool filling be worked in to correspond, so that the outer surface represents a sort of tapestry picture. To produce the thing quite perfect all the dyes used must also be the unfading homemade ones used by the grandmothers. A young lady in New York city is actually making a fortune from the manufacture and sale of these rugs. She occupies all the floors of one house

GERMAN LUTHERAN CONVENTION AT BLOOMING.

The convention of the Oregon and Washington district of the German Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri. Ohio and other states, was held at Blooming, Oregon, July 17, and opened with services in which the president of the synod at large, Prof. F. Pieper, of St. Louis, Mo., delivered the sermon, based on John 8:31-32. After a liturgical service conducted by the Rev. G. Steele, of Blooming, the synod was organized at 2:30 p. m.

The morning sessions were devoted to the reading and discussion of essays delivered by Rev. Messrs. H. Bohl, of Seattle, and H. Ebeling, of Snohomish, Wash., respectively. The Rev. H. Bohl's paper treated of "Perfect Holiness." After giving a definition of the superscription Perfect Holiness in the introduction, he treated his subject under the following chapters:

(a) With perfect holiness we do not mean the highest degree of holiness attainable in this life, for a Christian leads as holy a life as he can, but rather the state of being and living without sin in thought, word and deed.

(b) Such perfect holiness is demanded of every Christian; everybody should be perfectly holy.

(c) Since the fall of Adam, no man can attain such perfect holiness. (d) Christians strive earnestly to

on "Family Worship." The subject Or.; teacher, J. H. Sahrveder, Port- County Judge Rood on Thursday. was ably treated under the following land, Ore. headings:

(a) What is family worship? (b) Why should we conduct family worship?

(c) How should such family worship be conducted in order to attain the greatest edification?

Both papers were discussed and favorably commented upon by both ministry and laity.

The afternoon sessions were devoted to business matters. In the first afternoon session the venerable president at large, Prof. F. Peiper, reported that the colleges and seminaries of the synod were in flourishing visors. condition and that all the missionsamong them the Home, Negro, Indian Danish German, Brazilian and and continually demanding more la borers. In connection with this he re- them. quested all congregations to send more students to the synod's colleges in order that the great demand for both John Vanderwal was appointed to the preachers and parochial school teachers might be met. The other afternoon sessions were devoted to the report of tice of the peace for South Hillsboro. the Mission Board of this district.
