May Hartly has re-entered school.

Gilbert is now wearing a coat to his classes.

Miss Ames attended at Nordica's recital Saturday night.

Misses Tongue, Cole and Ames visited in Hillsboro Saturday.

Miss Jessie Lancefield visited her sister Miss Georgia over Sunday.

Miss Gertrude Eddy an ex-member of '05, visited Miss Scott Friday last.

Remember the McMinnville College-Pacific University game next Saturday, 1:30, College campus.

Con McNamer, one of the best half-backs Pacific ever had was a spectator at Saturday's football game.

Willard Wirtz expects to go to California for a short visit soon. Upon his return he will again join the sophs.

Rasmussen says that the reason he does not stay in Forest Grove this year is that he enjoys the trip back and forth. Wonder why.

Watson Philbrook was somewhat injured in the Columbia game and may remain out of the McMinnville game but will be with the team against Corvallis.

The Philomathean girls gave a farce entitled "A Business Meeting" and now the mean boys are inquiring it all the Philo business meetings are not farces any way.

The captain of the second team has announced that only those men who get out regularly every night for practice will get a chance to play in the second team game Nov. 21.

There has been some talk of taking a large number of rooters on the O. A. C. trip Nov. 7th. If there is anything that will encourage a team or a strange field it is to be well backed from the side lines. Everyone should go who can possibly make arrangements.

SATURDAY'S FOOT BALL GAME.

Saturday's gridiron struggle on the local field will be recorded with the season's scores as Columbia University 11, Pacific University 5, but this is wrong, honor to whom honor is due, Mr. Murray 11, Pacific 5. This is the score as it should stand for without the help of the most unfair decisions ever rendered in a football game here Columbia University's team would have been defeated.

From the time that the contest commenced till the close of the last half there was a series of rank decisions with Pacific always on the losing end. When there was a chance to award the ball to Portland after a fumble, Mr. Murray was never in doubt for an instant even when every one else could clearly see that it was Pacific's ball, when a Columbia player held in the line this official was conveniently short-sighted; and finally when Pacific made as sure a touch down as was ever made, the referee failed to see the play and allowed a Portland man to carry the ball back over the goal line after it had been downed.

The game was full of sensational plays and with fair officials would have been a fine exhibition of the sport. The field was perfect and the largest and most enthusiastic crowd of the season was on hand to witness the contest. In the first half the visitors played the better ball. Time after time they charged through Pacific's line and gained by a double pass around the end. Columbia had the ball and downed Pacific on the spot where the ball was grounded. Pacific's backs took the ball down the field for about twenty yards with apparent ease. It looked as though

Pacific would score in the first few minutes of the play but a disastrous fumble gave the pigskin to the visitors. Then the tide turned and after five minutes of hard line bucking, Columbia carried the ball over for a touch-down and kicked the goal.

Again Portland kicked off and Barrett ran the ball in fifteen yards. Philbrook and Sweek netted several good gains and then another disastrous fumble gave the ball to Columbia. With the use of the double-pass and some hard line plunges the Cronan brothers and Captain Fredell took the ball steadily down the checker-board and Al Cronan was sent over for another touch-down but failed in an attempt at goal. Columbia sent the ball over Pacific's goal line on the kick off and Philbrook punted into the center of the field. After several more scrimmages time was called for the first half.

After some good sound advice from Coach McFadden, Pacific kicked off and from then on the home team had the better of every play. Almost immediately Pacific took the ball on downs and the back field trio tore through Columbia's line and carried the ball around the end until Philbrook carried it over and downed it behind the goal line. It was a touch down and the crowd cheered but a C. U. man had grabbed the ball after it was downed and thrust it back over the goal line. Here the referee came to the rescue of the visitors and announced that there was no touch down although he admitted that he had not seen the play and in preference to the umpire's word took that of the lines man, who was a brother of two Columbia players. Columbia punted out and again Pacific brought the pig skin down the field. Three times Pacific fumbled and in two of these the ball was knocked from the runner's hand—which Mr. Murray of course failed to see. Each time however P. U. recovered the ball and it was carried over for a touch down and held securely in place for several minutes to give to Portland ample time to examine closely and ascertain that the ball was down.

After the next kick off Pacific held for downs and started for the visitors' goal line but fumbled and although Hall fell upon the ball it was awarded to Columbia by the official from Portland. After more plays Pacific again took the ball on yardage and would undoubtedly have scored within a very few minutes had not time been called. The feature of the game was the work of Pacific's backs, Barrett making several runs of from ten to twenty yards and Philbrook and Sweek plunging through the line at will.

WASHINGTON COUNTY. The field of The News is the first agricultural county of Oregon. First for clover, for onions, for grapes, and in dairying; it also leads in diversified farming and is famous for fine horses, good cattle and blooded sheep and goats. Its hay is being bought, thousands of tons of it, by the government to feed cavalry horses in the Philippines; its wines took gold medals over California's exhibit at the Chicago World's Fair. Its prunes and hops get the top prices in the market, and sugar beets, tax tobacco, sweet potatoes, horse radish, and mushrooms show the variety of its production. Its 18,000 people live in 3,000 great majority own their own homes. Six wagon roads and two lines of railway connect it with Portland, metropolis of the Pacific Northwest, from 4 to 22 miles.

THE GRANGE

Conducted by J. W. DARROW, Press Correspondent New York State Grange

AN IDEAL GRANGE HALL.

Its Size, General Plan and Equipment Described.

[Special Correspondence.]

Since years of experience have developed the real home work of the grange the up to date grange hall must conform to the demands of such progress. For years it has been conceded to be of benefit if the subordinate grange had in its own name and control a place called "home." Because of the grange confining its membership to those chiefly interested in agricultural pursuits this home naturally locates itself out in the country. That it may represent the grange to the passerby the surrounding grounds should be ample for sheds for horses, with a good variety of trees and a lawn to accommodate gatherings of people as occasion may require. The entire outside premises should be kept in an inviting condition.

As to the grange hall itself, the outside design should be in harmony with the uses for which it is built, and this suggests a harmonizing of both church and schoolhouse architecture. To meet all requirements the building should be at least 24 by 40 feet on the ground, with eighteen foot posts on the sides. This will permit the lower part of the building to be eight feet from floor to ceiling and leave nine foot sides for the upper room, which, with an arched ceiling from a system of collar joists, will give a good effect. The lower part of the hall should be divided to accommodate hallway, entrance, kitchen, stairway and a large assembly room, which is also suitable for a banquet hall, and, inasmuch as children under fourteen years of age must now be provided for, this room becomes a very proper place for them, and during the lecturer's hour they can sit with their parents in the grange. This large room below, being warm and light, is very convenient for all members in which to hang their wraps on hook rails around the outer walls. Still further, this large lower room can be used for all common entertainments, and especially is it suitable for this when it has a platform or stage at one end, with suitable scenery.

The upper story of the building should be divided into stair landing, anteroom, property closet, a nursery and the grange hall proper. While the lower rooms should have naked floors, the stairway and all floors above should be carpeted and the grange hall should have finished and decorated walls and be as well furnished as the sitting room of a well to do farmer's home. Annexes for libraries and court scenes should also be provided. Such a grange building will cost about $1,000 to $1,200.

A grange contemplating the building of a hall or home of this kind can start with the following subscription list: "We, the undersigned members of _____ grange, agree to give the amounts of hand labor, team labor, material and money set opposite our respective names for the purpose of building a grange hall at such place and time and in accordance with such plans as the grange may specify."

Such a subscription will give a start which, in the hands of a good building committee, can be made to go a long way toward securing the desired object. It is generally necessary to lend a few hundred dollars to finish and furnish, all of which can be paid off with suppers and entertainments of various kinds.

It will be noted that in planning the rooms the children and babes are provided for. This is to encourage the mothers to go to the grange. The children, woven into the lecturer's hour programme, make the ideal entertainment. Where the children are thus well cared for the parents will become interested. GEORGE B. HORTON.

Importance of the Grange.

The system of grange work is so broad and so varied and so excellent in its conception that it appeals to the practical common sense, good judgment and interest of all law abiding rural citizens, and it has awakened the well wishes of all classes of people throughout our land. Its conception is grand, its precepts pure, its teachings true, its efforts high, its motives noble, and its plans are wise. Such an organization cannot fail in its endeavor, and it will attract the best and noblest to its support. The grange is a character builder, a home maker, an educator and a social benefactor. It is very closely connected with the home, the church and the school, the four forming one vast intellectual chain which brings us the richest fruits of our land.—Michigan Patron.

The Grange in New Zealand.

E. W. Westgate, Master Kanakas Grange, has received a letter from the United States consul at Auckland, New Zealand, asking him to be prominent agriculturist there. A copy of the constitution and bylaws of this grange. It seems from this that the grange has already reached around the globe.
