CONDENSED STORIES.

Costly Error of an Applicant For a Pension and a Policy.

Besides being a statesman, Senator Dryden of New Jersey is also the president of a prominent life insurance company. The other day he received a letter like this:

Dear Sir—I am desirous of taking out a life insurance policy, and as I am from your state I thought I would write you directly, thinking I might get better terms, especially as I am in the best of health and would be an excellent risk. I have never suffered a day's serious illness in my life. I would be glad if you would have one of your agents directed to give my matter personal attention. Very truly yours,
JOHN SMITH.

The next letter the senator picked up had been forwarded to him from the insurance company's main office and was along this line:

Dear Sir—Can't you get me a pension? I served in the Spanish war, contracted a fever in Cuba and have since suffered with weakness of the back and legs, shock to nervous system, diseases of the stomach and digestive organs, vertigo and other ailments until I am a physical wreck. If anything is to be done for me it must come soon. Very respectfully,
JOHN SMITH.

Mr. Smith had made the embarrassing mistake of addressing the application for pension to the insurance office and the letter about the policy to Washington. Had he not done this his deception would probably never have been discovered.

As a result Mr. Smith will receive neither the pension nor the policy. —Boston Post.

Both From Cincinnati.

The young Duchess of Manchester, who is the daughter of Eugene Zimmerman of Cincinnati, was standing in the hall of an Irish hotel waiting for the duke when an excited American tourist rushed up and inquired if she were Miss —, a lady for whom he was waiting. The duchess drew herself up and replied stiffly enough, "I am the Duchess of Manchester." "Oh-h," replied her compatriot, "I'm from Cincinnati too!"

GEORGE A. FULLER.

Overseer of New York State Grange Since 1900.

George A. Fuller, overseer of New York state grange, was born on Edge-wood farm, where he now lives, in 1866. Seventy-five years ago the Fuller family emigrated from Saratoga county, N. Y., to the Black river country and located on this farm, which has been the home of the family for four generations. Mr. Fuller was educated in Ives seminary and the Potsdam normal school. After completing his course in the normal he followed the pursuit of teaching for two years. On the death of his father in 1888 he assumed the management of the farm and since that time has been practically engaged in developing the farm to its highest point of producing capacity. Mr. Fuller has given special attention to dairying and has succeeded in getting together one of the finest dairies in northern New York, the milk from which is manufactured into fancy cheese on the farm for half the year and shipped to New York the balance of the year.

Mr. Fuller has always been a firm believer in organization and co-operation among farmers and in 1889 became a member of Philadelphia grange, No. 114. Soon after joining the grange he was elected secretary and has filled nearly every office in the grange since, serving two terms as master. In 1895 he was elected lecturer of Jefferson county Pomona grange and served until 1898, when he was elected master of that body. In 1900 Mr. Fuller was elected overseer of New York state grange, which position he has since held.

THINGS HAVE CHANGED.

The Governor of New Hampshire and Staff Attend a Pomona Grange.

We had the great pleasure of being present at the session of Eastern New Hampshire Pomona at the hall of Dover grange, Dover, recently, says a writer in the Maine Farmer, and meeting the hundreds of Patrons who with their friends completely filled the large hall and anterooms. To those acquainted with the grange in earlier days the great change in public sentiment was indeed marked, for facing the audience sat the honored governor of the state with his staff rich in gold lace and with them the members of the city government, pastors of the churches, superintendents of schools and other notable officials, who left their business to honor the grange and testify their appreciation of its service to the state. A rich feast was spread by the hard-working patrons of Dover grange, fully 350 being seated at the tables.

Governor Bachelier filled the chair of state master for twelve years, and under his wise administration the Order not only has attained its present growth, but called to its support every friend of the Granite State.
