Less than 50 years ago Gen. Perry when landing on the shores of Japan, was compelled to teach the inhabitants, the uncivilized pagans, a severe lesson. Recently a fine monument was erected in Tokio, in commemoration of the event in memory of the man who laid the first stone to civilize this little empire.

Special interest is being taken by Senators Mitchell and Fulton in Washington county politics, as they both are desirous that the entire republican ticket be elected. Senator Mitchell took the pains to telegraph that State Chairman Baker of Portland will give all the assistance needed to the local organization, and expressed the desire that every man on the ticket be heartily supported. He is especially desirous that the next legislature be republican to a man.

John W. Minto, U. S. Revenue Inspector of Portland, was in town Tuesday inspecting the various drugstores, and other places which are under United States regulations. This calls to mind the liquor situation. It is up to the city to do something relative to this matter. We have a saloon in fact if not in name and if we are legally informed the city cannot touch the parties who are behind it. The litigation of the year will amount to some $600. We are not criticizing but are wondering if things are to remain in their present status.

The Junction City Times of last week pays a high tribute to the ability of Ex-Senator E. W. Haines. The editor of the above paper was clerk of the senate during the time that Mr. Haines served Washington County as senator and he says in part that Mr. Haines "was economical in voting appropriations but not niggardly." There was no play to the gallery with Senator Haines. He was too honorable to adopt grand-stand plays and too sensible a business man to quibble over trifles. Few new members succeeded to the standing accorded Senator Haines. Honesty, energy and real worth alone secured for him the high regard and esteem of his fellow Senators." The above compliment to our candidate for senatorial honors comes from a life of hard work and business experience, combined with those native elements which go to make up the man in whom the public has confidence.
