

FOREST GROVE IN BIOGRAPHY

THE COLUMBIA GALLERY:—The desire to preserve the pictured semblance of loved ones is as natural as life itself and we take pleasure in presenting to our many readers a brief sketch of Messrs. Seifert & Leopold, photographers of the Columbia Gallery. These gentlemen are both expert artists and have spent several years in the business. They do all kinds of photograph work, and viewing. The effort of their life is spent with newly married couples, groups, students, and babies.

DILLEY HOTEL:—This is a very neat and comfortable hotel and is well deserving of mention in the write-up edition. The table is provided with all the luxuries and delicacies of the season and Mrs. Ulm, the popular proprietress, is one of the most hospitable hotel "hosts" on the Road. She has been here two years and is building up a splendid reputation for the Dilley Hotel. We award her a worthy place of honor in these columns.

MRS. F. H. WHITE:—A typical New Yorker and an expert milliner that the writer would not like to leave out of this issue is the above named lady. She has conducted a millinery emporium for twenty years and is still in the old stand doing business. She thoroughly understands the art of the millinery trade and her services are available at a very reasonable margin of profit. She is a business woman that keeps abreast of the times and moreover firmly believes in Journalistic enterprises.

E. W. HAINES, BANKER:—One of the chief causes for the prosperity of this favored section is the development and extension of our banking facilities and the history of this institution has been an unbroken record of success and progress since its inception. It has been conducted on sound conservative principles and its management has been characterized by sagacity, energy, and the most honorable principles. Altogether the affairs of the bank are in a most gratifying condition. The bank is a private institution and Mr. E. W. Haines, the owner, is well and favorably known throughout this section, having operated in general merchandise for nine years with the firm Haines & Bailey. He was elected state senator from Washington county in '98 and re-elected this year at a recent election.

M. PETERSON:—A good hardware store is a great incentive to a town and to maintain a leading position in this important branch of commercial enterprise is no ordinary feat. Mr. Peterson, the hardware, furniture and queensware merchant of Forest Grove, is winning and though established but six months has built up an excellent run of custom. He has operated in these lines for twenty years and was located in Almena, Kansas, prior to pitching his tent on the Pacific Coast. He served the interests of that city in various offices of honor and trust for several years. As mayor seven years, clerk for some time, and several terms as alderman. He is a gentleman of marked business ability and hails from the ever memorable and noted fatherland.

MILLS & HINES:—Horseshoeing is the specialty of Messrs. Mills & Hines and the constant swing of their doors and stampede of the horsemen hereabouts amply attest their knowledge that these gentlemen are expert artisans in their special branch of trade. Mr. Mills the senior member of the firm has followed the business for a quarter of a century and has been in Forest Grove ten years. Mr. Hines has made horse shoeing his specialty for some time. These gentlemen are both Native Oregonians and we take pleasure in awarding them a place of honor in these columns among the celebrities of Forest Grove.

J. T. BUXTON:—A knight of the anvil that merits distinction is the above named gentleman. He has operated in this line for 26 years and understands all about the ins and outs of the trade. He keeps skilled workmen and guarantees satisfaction every time. He is well equipped for all kinds of general blacksmithing and repair work. His shop is headquarters for horsemen hereabouts. He caters effectively to the public and we take pleasure in according him generous mention.

H. G. KING:—Every country has contributed its quota of energy, capacity and mental force to the development of this great "Commonwealth" and no country is more characteristic in its contribution than the fatherland of the King under consideration. He is a real estate dealer in improved lands and has operated here since the 1st of November 1902. He is a very highly intelligent gentleman to meet and has officiated as Justice of the Peace. If you want information or bargains in realty, you will make no mistake to call on or write "The King," Real Estate Dealer of Forest Grove.

DR. V. L. DIMMICK:—Dentistry is advancing these days by leaps and bounds and it is more than ever necessary to seek only those practitioners who are well educated both in theory and practice and who are also high minded conscientious and sympathetic. In Forest Grove in biography it is proper that our dentists should occupy a leading position and Dr. Dimmick is a gentleman who has no superior in his profession in this section of the state. He has been here two years and is a graduate of the North Pacific Dental College, Portland. Dr. Dimmick has the faculty of inspiring confidence is gentle and sympathetic and is well adapted, indeed, in every way for his calling. His record has been gilt-edged in all the relations of life.

WARD LUMBER COMPANY.—The lumbering interests of this section are very important and this flourishing firm must therefore receive due honor in these columns. Mr. Ed. M. Ward, manager, has operated in this capacity six months and was engaged in the logging and contracting department for some time. The Ward Lumber Company, of Forest Grove is prepared to fill orders of all kinds of dressed and undressed lumber and building material, including door, windows, mouldings etc. Mr. Ward is a son of Dr. Ward, of this city, who has practiced here for twenty two years, and who has served his people in various offices of honor and trust. He is a distinguished graduate of the famous Hopkins University, California.

WM. C. GRAY:—A New Yorker that has resided in Dilley 12 years the 5th day of July and whose record bespeaks for his thrift, honesty and enterprise, must be given a place of distinction in biographical edition. He is a blacksmith whose work bespeaks for itself, and his friends are numbered by the scores among the farmers. He gives satisfaction and has built up a splendid trade. He is a firm believer in "printers ink."

MRS. S. E. MONTGOMERY:—A review of Cornelius without due mention of Mrs. Montgomery, the popular post mistress, would be entirely derelict indeed. She has discharged her duties as an official of Uncle Sam with precise efficiency since '89, and therefore is entitled on her merits alone to high praise in these columns. Her daughter Mrs. Barrett is assistant post-mistress, and Mrs. True is a teacher who is well and favorably known throughout this section in pedagogical circles, she having followed the broad field of teaching for some time.

GEO. T. REA:—It has been well said that he who causes two blades of grass to grow where only one has grown before is a public benefactor. Mr. Rea operates but a small tract of land—ten acres, yet he has demonstrated to himself, the community and the writer of this sketch that a farm well tilled, a heart well drilled, and a hand well filled will make any man happy. He has operated his fruit, garden and chicken ranch two years and has officiated as secretary in the Upper House of Legislature and various county offices in the East prior to pitching his tent on the Pacific Coast.

G. TALBURT, MAYOR OF CORNELIUS:—Mr. Talburt, mayor of Cornelius, has been here since '74. He has been a frugal, thrifty and industrious citizen, and has stormed the battle and the breeze all these years. For twenty-five years he stood in the front rank among the agriculturalists. He is now a retired farmer, enjoying a well earned "repose." He is a capitalist and money loaner, and has one of the most homelike palatial residences in the county, and 86 acres adjoining the city. Mayor Talburt is a lover of horses and is engaged to some extent in raising standard bred trotting horses. He is held in the highest esteem by all who know him and anyone desiring further information of this section will find Mr. Talburt of Cornelius, Washington county, Oregon, a bureau of information, and will do well to communicate with him. In social, political, and commercial circles, he is rated as gilt-edged throughout.

DR. L. BAILEY:—In noting in these pages sketches of the progressive men, here is a gentleman that we take pleasure in awarding a shining place. He operates the warehouse of Cornelius and handles grain and produce of all kinds; wheat, oats, hay, potatoes; etc., always paying the highest spot-cash prices the market affords. He has conducted this enterprise six years and followed the mercantile department ten years. Dr. Bailey is a graduate of the state university of Iowa, medical department, and practiced medicine here ten years. Owing to his health he espoused the field of commerce for operation and stands in the front rank of the progressive men of Washington county.
