Mrs. O. Brown recently received the sad news of the death of her brother, Mr. Isaac Dixon, who succumbed to heart failure Aug. 14, at the home place at Brockville, Ontario. Mrs. Brown feels the demise severely as she had made her home with Mr. Dixon several years before coming west, and had intended to return to the old home in the near future for a visit.

Saturday afternoon, "Governor" Brown, a rancher, was found burned to death upon his timber claim on Pebble Creek, between Buxton and Vernonia. He had been burning some dead timber, and when found his body was lying between two logs, showing that he had been held by them, as if in a vise, until the flames had roasted him to death. The dead man was 60 years of age and well known throughout the neighborhood. He leaves a wife and a son.

Mr. Sibley, of Los Angeles, California, was here during the first of the week for a few days visit with his son who is connected with the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Company. Mr. Sibley is a widely traveled gentleman and possesses much interesting knowledge of the country in general. During the past month he has made an extended trip through the Pacific Northwest and says that from what he has seen of other sections he believes this locality far ahead in the way of progress and desirable advantages. Previous to his residence in California he resided in Southern Georgia and frequently returns there on business and is well informed as to the rapid changes in the conditions of that country, brought about by the settlement of northern people who have gone there prepared to remain and make for themselves a home.

A Country of Linguists.

Almost every native of Iceland, even the peasants and fishermen, can speak at least one foreign language besides his local Danish dialect. Some years ago it became a fad to study languages, and now a person speaking only one tongue is looked down upon as extremely ignorant. English leads; then come German and French. Papers in these three languages are read extensively in Iceland and may be found in all the village reading rooms.

The Head and Feet.

The connection between the head and feet is well known. A hot head is ordinarily relieved by a hot footbath. So cold feet tend to congest the brain and other internal organs. Sometimes cold feet are caused by tight lacing or tight fitting shoes. But it is as much a suicidal act to hasten death by compressing the lungs or the feet as by compressing the neck with a rope.

A Serious Decision.

Beatrix (aged six, after remaining in deep thought for quite two minutes, addressing her mother, who has been choosing frocks for her)—Mummy, dear, before you buy the frocks, I've thought it all over, and I think I'd rather be a boy.—London Tit-Bits.

Confined to His Room.

Benefactor—How is your husband now, my dear woman? Poor Woman—I am sorry to say, sir, he is confined to his room. Benefactor—Could I see him? Poor Woman—Possibly, sir, if you applied at the county jail.

Nothing but Praise.

"Mr. Richley had nothing but praise for your work for him before the citizens' committee," said the friend. "Yes," replied the lobbyist gloomily, "nothing but praise."—Philadelphia Press.

Perfection.

Husband—H'm—er—what's the matter with this cake? Wife—There can't be anything the matter. The cookery book says it is the most delicious cake that can be made.
