A baby railroad engine passed through the city Tuesday afternoon. This engine was built at the Vulcan Iron Works in San Francisco in 1862. After it had taken on water, it ran down the track, ringing its tiny bell wheezing and slopping water out of its tank. The engine has been in use on the Scio branch of the Southern Pacific.—Oregon City Courier. There must be some big ones at Oregon City.

"Bill had a bill board," says an exchange. "Bill also had a board bill. The board bill bored Bill so that Bill sold the bill board to pay his board bill. So after Bill sold his bill board to pay his board bill, the board bill no longer bored Bill. Another suggests in line with the tale of Bill's board bill and Bill's bill board that if Bill's bill board bored Bill as much as Bill's board bill bored Bill, why not "board" Bill with a board from Bill's bill board and throw Bill's board bill and Bill's bill board overboard.

Teachers' Local Institute.

A session of the Teachers' Local Institute was held at the school building last Saturday beginning at 10 o'clock. It was well attended and resulted in doing much good. At 10 o'clock a. m. was opened by S. C. Sherill, principal of the Cornelius school, on the subject of "Mental Arithmetic." At 11 o'clock on the subject of "How the Lewis and Clark Fair will Affect our Educational Interests" E. S. Evendon, principal of the Beaverton school, occupied an interesting hour. The afternoon session was begun by "Class Exercises in Phonics" with Miss Grovaline Baldwin, teacher in the primary grade department of the Forest Grove school. Prof. J. R. Robertson, of P. U., addressed the meeting on the subject of "Available Material for an Educational Exhibit." At 3 o'clock Edyth Tozier-Wethered gave an interesting lecture to the children of Forest Grove, and it was quite well attended.

—There's a pretty girl in an Alpine hat,

A sweeter girl with a sailor brim,
But the handsomest girl you'll ever see
Is the sensible girl who uses Rocky Mountain Tea.

The Firemen's Dance.

The Forest Grove Fire company held a most successful dance at Ver's Hall last Friday evening. The attendance was good and a neat sum was realized. Baskets of lunch were sold at auction which afforded much merriment as each lady who furnished the basket had her name inside, and the purchaser was supposed to dine with the lady bearing that name. Walker's orchestra furnished the music which was of its usual high standard.

Atwell Is Made Postmaster.

The appointment of H. C. Atwell as postmaster of the Forest Grove post-office was announced last Friday. Mr. Atwell has served four years in his present position to the general satisfaction of all. Owing to the big increase in the business of the postoffice at this place, he has decided to make some very important improvements in the office, which will greatly improve the service.

SHOOTING BIG GAME.

Danger When the Bullet Fails to Stop the Brute's Advance.

The disturbing element in hunting elephant or seladang or rhino has been always to me at least the feeling of uncertainty as to whether or not I could stop the animal if I wounded it and it charged me, as it did on an average of once in three times.

Based on my experience, therefore, I should place the elephant first and the rhino third after the seladang, which is fully as formidable as the Cape buffalo and is mis-called the bison all over India. Each of these animals is dangerous on different and individual grounds. The elephant, though less likely to charge than any of the others, is terrifying because of his enormous strength, which stops at no obstacle, and the extreme difficulty of reaching a vital spot, especially if, with trunk tightly coiled, he is coming your way.

I know of no sensation more awesome than standing ankle deep in clinging mud in dense cover, with the jungle crashing around you as though the entire forest was toppling, as the elephant you have wounded comes smashing his way in your direction. The seladang is dangerous partly because of the thick jungle he seeks when wounded, but more especially because of his tremendous vitality and his usual though not invariable habit of awaiting the hunter on his tracks and charging suddenly, swiftly and viciously. It requires close and hard shooting to bring down one of these six foot specimens of oriental cattle.

The danger of the tiger and of the lion is in their lightning activity and ferocious strength. But you have the shoulder in addition to the head shot if broadside, or, if coming on, the chest, all sure to stop if well placed. The reason the rhino is so formidable is because its vulnerable spots are so hard to reach. Its brain is as small in proportion as that of the elephant and may be reached through the eye if head-on, or about three inches below and just in front of or just behind the base of the ear, according to your position for a shot.—Outing.

REMEMBER IN A SICKROOM

That medicine bottles should be kept out of sight.

That garrulous friends should be treated in the same wise fashion.

That a rubber-tee bag is as useful as a hot water bag.

That everything about the room should be scrupulously clean.

That it is sometimes safer to humor sick people than to argue with them.

That rapid recovery from illness often depends more upon nourishing food than upon medicine.

That sweet smelling flowers should never be permitted in a room where there is a very sick person.

That both light and ventilation can be regulated by placing a tall screen between the bed and window.

An Old, Old Story.

How ancient is the servant problem? A correspondent of the New York Post, referring to a letter from the Duchess of Ormonde, written in 1668, quotes from an epistle dated North Yarmouth, Me., March 26, 1785, as follows: "I have been without any but Betsy about a fortnight and am determined to continue so rather than endeavor to hire one of this country. The pride of independence is so prevalent here that the people had rather slave at home than live in my kitchen in plenty. Were I to take them to my table they would have no objection to oblige me. The want of good domestics is general; therefore I wish a method could be found to render us less dependent upon them."

Why He Waits.

"I went to the trial of that brain testing machine," he said.

"Yes?" she returned wearily.

"I let them try it on me," he continued, feeling sure he would arouse her interest in due time.

"Yes?" she responded with the same evident weariness.

"It didn't work," he persisted.

"Of course not," she said, with some emphasis.

It took him some time to figure it all out, but when he did he decided to postpone his proposal for at least another week.—New York Press.

The Tibetan Bible.

The Tibetan Bible consists of 108 volumes of 1,000 pages each, containing 1,083 separate books. Each of the volumes weighs ten pounds. In addition to this there are 225 volumes of commentaries, which are necessary for the understanding of the Scriptures. The type from which the Bible (or Kab-gyur) is printed requires rows of houses like a city for storage.

Couldn't Be Possibile.

"Your symptoms," pronounced the physician, "indicate hydrocephalus."

"What's that?"

"Water on the brain."

"It can't be that, doctor," said Mr. Jagway, greatly relieved. "I haven't drunk a drop of it for six months."

—Exchange.

In Luck.

First Citizen—Aren't you drinking a little more than usual? Second Citizen—Yes. My wife has a cold in her head and can't smell a blamed thing.—Albany Journal.
