Five thorough-bred Jersey catf, three cows and two yearling bulls, from the Hazel Fern Ladd Farm were driven over the Wilson route, Monday morning. About three days will be taken for the trip so as not to exhaust the animals. They have been purchased for A. G. Beal's dairy ranch, situated near Tillamook City.

The debate held at Walla Walla Friday evening between Whitman College and Pacific resulted in a victory for the sons of Marcus. The papers commented favorably on the splendid effort of Shively, the leader of the P. U. team. His argument was characterized as the most brilliant and finished piece of debating held in that city.

We had the pleasure, last Saturday of a visit from R. M. Watson, former editor of the Tillamook Independent, which he recently sold to the Herald of that place. Mr. Watson says that when the saloons were voted out it materially effected business in that city. Mr. Watson is a hustler and is looking for another opening, and says if he don't find it pretty soon he will come to Forest Grove and embark in the real estate business. He says Forest Grove has a wonderfully bright future.

The event was a very pleasant one and the proceeds netted over $18 which will go toward buying furnishings for the new church.

Forest Grove can indeed be proud of its local talent in the musical line. The Walker Orchestra has been rendering at the Opera House lately all the latest musical hits just out from the publisher. Nearly all the pieces played were from the Shapirs-Remick & Co. of New York, successors to the old and well known firm, as the Whitney-Warner Publishing Co. and such pieces as Moonlight Serenade, My Lady of the North Waltzes, Under the Rose Waltz, Bubble March Two-Step—need only to be heard once to take the public's fancy, everybody was enthusiastic over the music and fully appreciated the chance to hear a high grade of music seldom played in the city before.

The lecture given at Marsh Hall, Thursday evening by Dr. Tenney of San Francisco, on "Education in Heathen Lands" proved a treat to those in attendance. Besides being a brilliant speaker, Dr. Tenney illustrated his talk with slides that were especially good. Some of the scenes presented which showed former friends to this city at work in their respective fields of missionary endeavors, were heartily applauded. The surprise was all the greater because Mr. Tenney was unaware that the pictures contained faces familiar to his hearers. Among the pictures exhibited were scenes showing John Miller, P. U. graduate, now in India; Rev. E. Walker, brother of L. C. and Sam Walker of this city, now having charge of a mission in China, and others well known here.
