

All Humors

Are impure matters which the skin, liver, kidneys and other organs can not take care of without help, there is such an accumulation of them.

They litter the whole system. Pimples, boils, eczema and other eruptions, loss of appetite, that tired feeling, bilious turns, fits of indigestion, dull headaches and many other troubles are due to them.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Remove all humors, overcome all their effects, strengthen, tone and invigorate the whole system.

"I had salt rheum on my hands so that I could not work. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it drove out the humor. I continued its use till the sores disappeared." Mrs. I. A. Brown, Rumford Falls, Me.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

Arsenic and Cereplene.

A curious story is reported concerning a barque which arrived recently in port having in her cargo three hundred casks of arsenic. The crew slept very near the large array of barrels containing the drug, which gave off constantly an indescribable odor. They soon all noticed the same thing, and several of the tars became aware that they were becoming abnormally stout. One man gained twenty-five pounds. The aggregate extra weight put on by the entire crew was little less than four hundred pounds. This was attributed to vapor generated by the action of the sun on the cask and inhaled by the seamen while they slept.

One Man's Theory.

Mrs. Newkid—You talk about the joys of single blessedness, but, according to statistics, more bachelors commit suicide than married men.

Mr. Oldbach—Yes, that's true. Mrs. Newkid—Oh, you admit it, do you? Then, I suppose you can explain why it is so?

Mr. Oldbach—Certainly. They are driven to desperation by other people's babies.

NAGGING PAINS

Newport News, Va., July 22, 1903. Last summer while recovering from illness of fever, I had a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism in the knees, from which I was unable to leave my room for several months. I was treated by two doctors and also tried different kinds of liniments and medicines which seemed to relieve me from pain for awhile, but at the same time I was not any nearer getting well. One day while reading a paper I saw an advertisement of S. S. S. for Rheumatism. I decided to give it a trial, which I did at once. After I had taken three bottles I felt a great deal better, and I still continued to take it regularly until I was entirely cured. I now feel better than for years, and I cheerfully recommend S. S. S. to any one suffering from Rheumatism. 613 3rd St. CHAS. E. GILBERTSLEWIS.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or some other acid poison in the blood, which when deposited in the muscles and joints, produce the sharp, cutting pains and the stiffness and soreness peculiar to this disease. S. S. S. goes directly into the circulation, all irritating substances are neutralized and filtered out of the system, the blood is made pure and the general health is built up under the purifying and tonic effects of the vegetable remedy.

Write for our special book on Rheumatism which is sent free. Our physicians will advise without charge all who will write us about their case.

"How do you account for the fact," asked the doctor, "as shown by actual investigation, that thirty-two out of every hundred criminals in the country are left-handed?" "That's easily accounted for," said the professor; "the other sixty-eight are right handed."—London Tit-Bits.

"Say," said the girl's dear little brother, "are you a baseball player?" "No," replied young Mr. Slowton, "what made you ask that?" "Oh, nothing, only when ma was askin' 'er, the other day, whether you was ever goin' to come to bat, she said it looked to her as though you was playin' for your release."—Ex.

Mrs. Tittle—Wasn't it disgraceful the way these women talked during the play last night? Mrs. Tattle—Well, I should say so. Sarah Smookins was trying to tell me the fuss in the Brindles family, and those two women made such a clatter I couldn't hear more than half she said.—Boston Transcript.

"You are an hour late this morning, Sam." "Yes, sah, I know it, sah." "Well, what excuse have you?" "I was kicked by a mule on my way here, sah." "That ought not to have detained you an hour, Sam." "Well, you see, boss, it wouldn't have if he'd only have kicked me in dis direction out he kicked me de other way!"—Yonkers Statesman.

MISSIONS OF CALIFORNIA.

Historic Piles Almost Our Country's Only Ruins.

The century-old missions of California, built by Franciscan monk and Indian neophyte, might well be likened to "the temples of silence," writes J. Torrey Connor in the Four-Track News. Upon the crumbling adobe walls the wild mustard hoists its yellow banners; in the roofless arcades, where tread of priestly feet is heard no more, sunshine and rain have wrought their will; lizards crawl over the blackened shrine, and bats cling to the rafters of the sanctuary, beating the air with noiseless wings at the approach of a footstep.

These historic piles, almost the only ruins of our young country can boast, are accounted one of the sights by all latter-day pilgrims to the Golden State; but, as a rule, only the more accessible of the missions are visited, the inconsequent tourist sandwiching them between flying trips to the ocean, the mountains, the giant trees, the gem-like lake, the golden-fruited groves and the smiling valleys of the land where it is always summer.

The tinkle of the vesper bell, echoing across wide stretches of pasture, is mingled, now, with the harsh clang of the street car gong; and on the very thresholds of the missions may be found the paper lunch box and the empty sardine can of the globe-trotter.

The religious processions, halting before wayside shrines, and the sandal-brown-robed padres, journeying from south to north, are gone from the highway. The alcalde, who ruled the pueblos with iron hand, the dark-visaged Indians, the stern-faced Spanish soldiers—where are they? Gone; and gone, too, the caballero, or Spanish gentleman, with his tinkling guitar and his love songs, and, likewise, the soft-eyed senorita with her mantilla, telling her beads beside the quaint old confessional.

An Incident of History.

Julia Ward Howe had just written "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and was reading it to Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

"Well, Lizzie," she asked when she had finished, "what do you think of it?"

"Great!" was the reply. "But you are boasting man again in defiance of our glorious principles. Sit down now and write another to be called 'The Battle Her of the Republic.'"—New York Telegram.

A Candid Child.

Lady Visitor—Your little girl seems to be very much taken with me, Mrs. Stepwell.

Mrs. Stepwell—Yes; and she doesn't often take to strangers. You think Mrs. Gippur is real nice, don't you, Agnes?

Agnes—You said she was a cat, mamma; but she doesn't look a bit like one.—Boston Transcript.

A Contrary Opinion.

"There are few great actors left," said the man who takes a melancholy view of things.

"On the contrary," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes, with a touch of asperity, "great actors are, to my personal knowledge, getting left every season."—Washington Star.

Queerly Procured Evidence.

Many years ago a ship was chased at sea on the suspicion that she was a slaver. During the pursuit her captain dropped something overboard. When overhauled the old tub was taken to Port Royal for trial. There was nothing on board to sustain the charge of slave dealing, and there seemed every likelihood of its owner recovering damages for illegal seizure and detention. But another ship had passed in the night in the wake of the others. She had witnessed the chase and flight, but had stopped to catch a shark by the way. In the stomach of the shark the sailors found a tin box. In the box were the papers of the fugitive vessel. These proved her to be a slaver of the most unequivocal character, and upon their evidence she was condemned and confiscated.

Machinery Tones.

Engineers judge of the condition of their machinery by the tone it gives out while running. Every engine, whether stationary or locomotive, has a particular tone of its own. The engineer becomes accustomed to that, and any departure from it at once excites a suspicion that all is not right. The engineer may not know what is the matter; he may have no ear for music, but the change in the tone of his machine will be at once perceptible and, being instantly recognized, will cause him to start on an immediate investigation.

Things Worth Remembering.

Do not forget that it isn't necessary to be disagreeable in order to disagree with the other man.

If we took as great pains to say kind things as we do to think unkind ones, life would be one long metropolitan May.—Success.

In this glorious land of the free the politician seems to be a necessary evil.

Motherly Advice.

"Johnny," said the Cleveland mother, "I want you to quit using such language as that."

"Why, mother," replied Johnny, "Shakespeare said what I just said."

"Then you must quit associating with him," rejoined the cautious woman. "He's not a fit companion for you."
