Things are looking fine in this part. It is not within the memory of the oldest settlers that grass has been so high at this time of the year. Most of the cropping is done and a good deal of garden has been made. Although it is feared that most of the early fruit has been badly injured by the frost, there will be an abundance yet, if there is no more frost.

WINDSTORMS.

The Distinction Between a Cyclone and a Hurricane.

The term cyclone is applied to a tornado of limited diameter and destructive violence. All storms, therefore, in which the wind has a circulating movement about a central area of low barometric pressure may properly be termed cyclones. Cyclones occur most frequently in those parts of the world which are subject to monsoons and take place at those seasons when the monsoons are changing. They sometimes extend over many thousands of square miles.

Tropical storms are known in the West Indies as hurricanes. These violent windstorms are of a diameter of from fifty to a thousand miles, where in the air moves with a velocity of from 80 to 130 miles an hour round the central calm. Hence this term is applied to any storm or tempest in which the wind blows with terrific violence. In the Philippine Islands and on the southeastern coast of Asia such tropical storms are known as typhoons. The general disturbances of the middle latitudes are usually referred to as simply storms or areas of low barometric pressure.—London Answers.

SCOTLAND'S KILT.

The Origin of This Ancient and Picturesque Dress.

Some say that the kilt was the out-come of sumptuary laws enacted during the reigns of Mary and of her son, James VI. of Scotland and I. of England. These laws more or less directly suppressed the ancient tunic, which fell from the shoulders to below the knees, and had in the remoter parts of Great Britain and Ireland formed the outer dress of men from Roman times. When this was condemned, the wearers evaded the law by dividing the tunic at the waist, the upper part becoming a doublet and the lower the kilt.

The kilt, however, must have been of earlier date, for it is shown as a separate garment, neatly quilted from waist to knee, on many mediaeval crosses and memorial slabs, including those at Kilkerran and Kilmorie, which date from before 1500.

It is from this quilting, or "quilting," that it takes its name, and no doubt the sumptuary regulations promoted its general adoption.

The latest cure for consumption is to breathe coal dust. It does seem that any self respecting microbe would scurry out of such an atmosphere.

The balloon sleeve is to return. Perhaps an evolution of this fashion may lead to the solution of the dying machine problem.

A Washington scientist says that blonds are disappearing. Has fashion decreed against the peroxide?

A Philadelphia paper says there are thirteen ways of winning a woman. The old method of asking her, however, is the one that will still be adopted by most men.

If a man's mental horizon is confined to the rim of a dollar and you take away the dollar, that man is poor indeed.

Collection of the Scholar's Work

Last Friday afternoon was a half holiday at the public school, when a collection was made of the student's work for the exhibit at the Lewis and Clark fair. A large number of parents and citizens were there in the afternoon to see the work. Several desks in the different rooms were laden with the compositions, drawings, maps and paper cuttings of the little folks.

Temperance Talks

BY THE W. C. T. U.

SAVE YOUR BOYS

Mother—"Our boy's out late nights."

Father—"Well, we must tax the saloons $50."

M.—"Husband, I believe John drinks."

F.—"We must put up that tax to $100."

M.—"My dear husband, our boy is being ruined."

F.—"Try 'em awhile at $200."

M.—"Oh! My God! my boy came home drunk."

F.—"Well, well! we must make it $300."

M.—"Just think, William, our boy is in jail."

F.—"I'll fix those saloons. Tax 'em $400."

M.—"My poor boy is a confirmed drunkard."

F.—"Up with that tax and make it $500."

M.—"Our once noble boy is a wreck."

F.—"Now I will stop 'em; make it $600."

M.—"We carry our poor boy to a drunkard's grave today."

F.—"Well, I declare! We must regulate this traffic; we ought to have made that tax $1000."

HOW TO DRINK A FARM

Bob Burdette gives this simple recipe: "My homeless friend with a chromatic nose, while you are stirring up the sugar in a ten-cent glass of gin, let me give you a fact to wash down with it. You may say you have longed for years of the free, independent life of the farmer, but have never been able to get money enough together to buy a farm. But that is just where you are mistaken. For some years you have been drinking a good, improved farm at the rate of a hundred square feet a gulp. If you doubt this statement figure it out yourself. An acre of land contains 43,560 square feet. Estimating, for convenience, the land at $43.56 an acre, you will see that it brings the land to just one mill per square foot. Now pour down the fiery dose and imagine you are swallowing a strawberry patch. Call in five of your friends and have them help you gulp down that five hundred-foot garden. Go on a prolonged spree some day and see how long it requires to swallow a pasture land to feed a cow. Put down that glass of gin! there is dirt in it—one hundred feet of good, rich dirt, worth $43.56 per acre."

SALOONS MAKE CRIMINALS FASTER THAN THE CHURCH CAN RECLAIM THEM.

You may build a church in every street, and make your religious organizations as complete as you will, but as long as you allow the saloons to be open you will make criminals faster than you can reclaim them.—The Temperance Cause.
