The stork disappears and we look into the cradle and behold a male child. After running the gauntlet of measles, mumps and chickenpox, he enters school. At the age of ten he is a red-headed, freckle-faced boy and the terror of the neighborhood. At the age of twelve he is an apprentice in a printing office. At eighteen he has acquired two cases of long primer and an army press, and is the editor of a country newspaper. At twenty he is married. At thirty he is bald headed, stoop shouldered and the father of a large family. At thirty-five he is a corpse in a cheap, pine coffin, and as 500 delinquent subscribers file past his bier for the last look, they are heard to say: "He was a good fellow but he couldn't save his money."—Ex.

A Few Features on "The Trail."

The most wonderfully trained animal perhaps in the world is Princess Trixie, in the trained animal show on The Trail at the Lewis and Clark fair. This horse has an actual accomplishment in figures and music, and can describe how a person is dressed. Trixie can count the number of persons in any given row of seats and tell how many ladies and how many gentlemen it contains. There is also a trained elk which ascends a high precipice and leaps thirty feet into a basin of water. When you "Hit the Trail" don't pass Trixie by, you'll miss a good show if you do.
 Another legitimate and instructive show on the Trail is the wonderful railroad journey from Moscow to St. Petersburg, Russia. Seemingly no amount of money has been spared to make this show a truly wonderful spectacle. You enter a regular railroad coach and take a seat. The train starts with all the reality possible and the scenery seen from the coach windows is superb. You leave St. Petersburg and travel through beautiful scenery, cross the Siberian desert and experience a snowstorm before reaching Port Arthur—for a time the seat of the Russo-Japanese war, and then on to Moscow. The scenery is said to be accurate in every detail.

Temperance Talks

BY THE W. C. T. U.

"I'd rather be dumb,
 And always mum,
 Than pray like some,
 'Thy kingdom come,'
 Then vote for rum."

THE PRESIDENT'S POSITION

One day last summer Carrie Nation, of hatchet fame, walked into the quarters of the Anti-Cigarette League at Chicago and punched a hole in the picture of President Roosevelt with her umbrella. She declared that the President chewed and smoked tobacco and was "no good any way." Miss Lucy Page Gaston disputed this point, and when Carrie Nation said she would pay the league $50 if it could be shown that the President did not use tobacco, Miss Gaston sat down and wrote to Secretary Loeb. He promptly replied that the President never used tobacco in any form in his life. The story doesn't say whether Mrs. Nation made good or not, but the facts about the President are interesting and every boy ought to know them.—The Pilgrim Teacher.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC

Helps—the brewer and the distiller, the saloon keeper, the saloon lessor, to fill their pockets and the sober man to become a drunkard.
 Injures—the manufacturer, the dry goods man, the grocer, the book-seller, the picture maker, the butcher, the milkman, the laborer, etc., the school, the church, the home, the country. Let us ponder whether we shall keep the liquor traffic for the sake of three unproductive interests, or shut up the saloon for the sake of all these productive and beneficial interests.—Temperance Cause.

In every $100 worth of boots and shoes you buy, labor gets $20.27. In every $100 worth of furniture, labor gets $23.77. In every $100 worth of hardware, labor gets $24.17. In every $100 worth of worsted goods, labor gets $13.55. In every $100 worth of woolen goods, labor gets $12.86. In every $100 worth of liquor, labor gets only $1.23.
