A. M. Price, cashier of the First National Bank of DeWitt, Iowa, and wife, arrived in this city Monday morning to visit the former's mother and sister on Fifth street south. Mr. and Mrs. Price are on a tour of the western country and are visiting the fair. They will depart Saturday morning.

Dierke's Band is the musical attraction in chief at the Lewis and Clark Fair now. Half a dozen other good bands help to supply the music, so that the Exposition grounds have plenty of melody. There's music in the air and something doing every day and hour at the big western fair.

One of the most popular places at the Lewis and Clark Exposition is the "Rest Pavilion" adjoining the Abraham Lincoln home. The state of Illinois has built this cozy pavilion so that visitors may stop a while and rest upon the broad portico. Rustic chairs and rockers are free to all. The Lincoln home as reproduced at the fair, is a center of interest.

The regular services at the Christian church will be continued through the summer. There is no reason why the religious service should not be as helpful in summer as any part of the year. Remember the hours. Sunday school at 10; preaching at 11; Christian Endeavor at 7; preaching at 8. All are invited. Will make special effort to make the evening service interesting. Subject of sermon Sunday morning, "The Temptation of Christ." Subject Sunday evening, "Things Which are as Stars in the East to Bring Us to Christ."

The young folks have been interested in a pair of young mules, which have been conspicuously displayed on the corner, near Johnson & Johnson's meat market, this week. These mules are very much like other mules although a little smaller than large mules. One is a black mule and one the other is a gray mule—but both are mules. These mules are fortune tellers and for ten cents will walk right up to a rack and pull out an envelop containing your exact fortune—a mule fortune. It takes three mules to get a good fortune. Tried it yet?
