

SSS FOR THE BLOOD

"S. S. S. for the blood" has grown to be a household saying. When the blood is out of order, or needs treatment from any cause, this great remedy is the first thought of and used by thousands of people all over the country, because it is superior to all other blood purifiers. It is a purely vegetable remedy, and while it penetrates the circulation and forces out all poison and morbid matter, it also builds up the entire system by its fine tonic effect. During the winter months the natural avenues of bodily waste have become dull and weak and failed to perform their full duty, the blood has become sluggish and an extra amount of poisons and waste matters have accumulated in the system and been absorbed by it. With the coming of Spring and warm weather the blood is aroused and stirred to quicker action and in its effort to throw off these acids and poisons the skin suffers. Boils, pimples, blotches, rashes and eruptions break out and continue until the blood is cleansed and made pure. S. S. S. is the ideal remedy for this condition; it clears the blood of all impurities, makes it rich and strong and these skin troubles pass away. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Chronic Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison and all other diseases of the blood are cured by S. S. S. Book on the blood and any advice desired, free of charge. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Glory of Another Kind.

Sir John Furbert, who has been identified with the National Red Cross Society since its organization in 1868, and is said to know more about Red Cross and ambulance work than any other man in Europe, is also an old experienced volunteer.

Some years ago, as he relates in his recent book, "In Peace and War," Sir John accompanied the British volunteers to Belgium, where, encouraged by the sight of many Belgian comrades with hemmed breasts, some of the Britons were inclined to follow their example, and consequently required to be closely inspected.

One day Sir John spotted a man on parade who astonished him by the number of his medals. He was evidently flattered by Sir John's notice, and swelled out his chest quite noticeably.

"You seem to have seen considerable service," observed the knight. "In what wars have you been engaged?" "Bless you, I've never been in a war," returned the resplendent member of the citizen army. "My father and I were awarded these medals at agricultural shows for a special breed of pigs, for which we are famous."

His Excuse.

"Ah-hah, squirrel!" chuckled Hi Spry, the village wag and cut-up, upon encountering the old codger next morning after the date of the appearance of the greatest show on earth. "Keched ye in a yarn! Told me ye was goin' to take boy to the circus and I seen ye right smack up on the tip-top seat last night, without a single sign of a boy with ye!"

"Took the boy I used to be, years and years ago!" returned the veteran, crabbedly. "I'm in my second childhood, goiram ye!"—Puck.

World's Stock of Gold.

The amount of gold in Europe when America was discovered is believed not to have exceeded $225,000,000. In the 404 years until 1896 the world's production is estimated at $9,000,000,000—half of which was added to the money supply. Including the estimate for 1905, in the ten years beginning with 1896, nearly $3,000,000,000 in gold has been mined—almost a third as much as during the preceding 404 years. This despite the fact that the Boer war for two years closed the Transvaal mines. The production in 1903 was $325,000,000; in 1904, $350,000,000 and for 1905 it is estimated at $400,000,000. The world's stock of money gold in 1897 was approximately four and a quarter billions. By the end of the present year it is estimated that it will be almost six billions—an increase of nearly 50 per cent in nine years.

QUEER STORIES

It is said that American tourists spend a million dollars a day in Europe.

Two of the big department stores of Chicago are now owned and controlled by women.

Fully one-third of the land in Great Britain is owned by members of the House of Lords.

All males who sell newspapers in the streets of Moscow are compelled to appear in uniform.

The dolphin is the swiftest fish. For short distances it can swim at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour.

Not every one knows what flower is meant by the pimpernel in the famous lines:

The white lake blossom fell into the lake,
As the pimpernel dozed on the leaf.

Every year a layer of the entire sea, fourteen feet thick, is taken up into the clouds; the winds bear their burden into the land, and the water comes down in rain upon the fields, to flow back through rivers.

Plants with white blossoms have a larger proportion of fragrant species than any others; next comes red, then yellow and blue; after which, and in the same order, may be reckoned violet, green, orange, brown and black.

A typical South African household, described by Olive Schreiner, had an English father, a half Dutch mother with a French name, a Scotch governess, a Zulu cook, a Hottentot housemaid and a Kaffir stable boy, while the little girl who waited at table was a Basuto.

It is a pretty English wild flower of the primrose family, and commonly known as "poor-man's weather glass," because its petals are so sensitive to moisture that they droop before the coming rain. Garden burnet is sometimes confounded with this English plant, because it is called by the French "pimpernelle." But the pimpernel which "dozed on the leaf" is a slightly poisonous, acrid plant, not at all suitable in a salad.

The battle of the herring was the comical name given to a fight between an English force and a French detachment not far from Orleans in 1429. The English were conveying a large quantity of supplies, mainly herrings, for it was Lent, to the army that was besieging Orleans. The English had sixteen hundred men, the French six thousand. The former repulsed the assailants and saved the herrings, so the battle was named in honor of the supplies.

A memento of the Kaiser's recent visit to Morocco is a splendid full-blood negro of gigantic stature whom the Emperor brought home with him from Tangier. The negro was selected for the Imperial Guards on account of his great size. "Othello" was designated as tambourine player, but as he had been used to flowing Arab attire, he took badly to the light tunic, and still worse to his jingling hand instrument, with which he publicly rapped the bandmaster on the head during his first performance. The Moor has now been withdrawn from the band, and the Emperor is pondering what to do with his "black diamond."

Some recently invented chronographic cameras by Lucien Bull of Paris take successive pictures at rates of from one thousand to two thousand per second. The source of light is the spark of an induction coil, which, it is calculated, endures only about one two-millionth of a second, so that with improved mechanism the successive images could be taken at a far more rapid rate than is now employed. Six hundred images per second, however, suffice to show clearly the moving wings of a dragon-fly, and with eleven hundred or twelve hundred images per second, sharp pictures have been obtained of bees and house flies in flight.

Habit in Appetite.

The so-called cravings of appetite are purely the result of habit. A habit once acquired and persistently followed soon has us in its grasp, and then any deviation therefrom temporarily disturbs our physiological equilibrium. The system makes complaint and we experience a craving, it may be, for that to which the body has become accustomed, even though this something be, in the long run, distinctly injurious to the welfare of the body. There has thus come about a sentiment that the cravings of the appetite for food are to be fully satisfied, that this is merely obedience to nature's laws. This idea, however, is fundamentally wrong. Any one with a little persistence can change his or her habits of life, change the whole order of cravings, thus demonstrating that the latter are purely artificial, and that they have no necessary connection with the welfare or needs of the body. In other words, dietetic requirements are to be founded not upon so-called instinct and craving, but upon reason and intelligence.—Century.

The Evil of Inheritance.

It is not so bad when a rich man cuts off his heirs for spite. Inheritance has worked enormous mischief ever since there were fortunes to leave. In most cases it is a misfortune to be an heir.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

We have more fear of a little crazy man, or a little drunken man, than we have of two big sober men.

Every good rain develops a lot of lean farmers.

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.

As She Is Spoken.

"Are you going to take that little trip with me I spoke about last week?"

"I haven't thought about it."

"Well, think of it this week, will you?"

"Yes, if I think about it, I'll think about it."

"By the way, I saw you on the street the other day and you never noticed me."

"I never noticed you."—Puck.

He'd Do the Rest.

"Darling," queried the young man with the nobby tie, "do you love me well enough to dwell in a furnished room and live on bread and water after we are married?"

"Y-yes, I think so," she replied.

"And, say, dearest," he continued, "is your er-salary as typewriter large enough to enable you to furnish the room and the bread?"
