THURSDAY, JANUARY 26, 1906.

The Board of Trade has a great work to perform during the coming year—the bringing of factories and new enterprises to this city. Forest Grove in order to maintain a substantial growth and to retain its supremacy as the metropolis of Washington County must necessarily secure a greater payroll. With a greater payroll, will come an influx of population, the building of homes, and an era of general prosperity unprecedented in our city.

"More political trash has been sent to this office for publication during the past month than we could print between now and election time, but without thought of compensation for the labor and expense of carrying them. The columns of the News are the same to us as the goods on the shelves are to the merchant and if the office seekers wish to saddle their burdens upon us they must first show the color of their money. We are not here for our health, if we were, we would get out of the newspaper business. We aim to chronicle the news and give our readers their money's worth but we positively refuse to do political boosting unless we are paid for it."—The Springfield News.

The new primary law makes it imperative for every voter to register if he wishes to have a voice in governmental affairs. While the registration in this city and vicinity has been as large as expected, it is feared that many will fail to register. The Oregon City Enterprise, speaking on this subject says: "It is necessary that every voter not only register but at the same time declare his party affiliation if he expects to vote at the primary election. If he does not comply with these two requirements he will not be allowed to vote at the primary election. Electors should lose no time. By so doing you will be able to take part in the primary election and besides you save yourself a great deal of trouble when you come to vote at the June election."

The Prohibition party of Oregon is planning to open its campaign about March 1, when it expects to hold a state convention and put out a ticket. John G. Wooley, standard-bearer and candidate of the party for President in 1900, is expected to be in Oregon at that time to take the stump for the cause. Mr. Wooley is now on his way from New Zealand, and will probably arrive in San Francisco February 20. He will spend a few weeks on the coast, and make some Prohibition speeches. W. P. Elmore, Mayor of Brownsville and president of the Brownsville bank, is being boomed as the Prohibition candidate for Governor. Thus far his name has headed the list of possibilities, and in fact is about all on the list there is.

Editor News:—
A meeting, under the auspices of the State Horticultural Society, will be held at Forest Grove on Saturday, February 3, beginning promptly at 10 a. m.
Hon. E. L. Smith, president of the state Board of Horticulture, Mr. A. J. Mason, President of the Hood River Apple Growers Union, Mr. H. M. Williams, Editor of the Rural Northwest, Professors E. R. Lake and A. B. Ordeley of the State Agricultural College and Hon. W. K. Newell, Commissioner for the first horticultural district, will all be present to address us.
There will be experts present who will answer every question relative to diseases and insect pests.
Members of Washington County who are at all interested in fruit, flowers or shrubs are cordially invited.

The advent among us of the San Jose scale, in addition to our other fungus and insect foes, make it imperative that heroic and united action be taken to combat them.

These meetings are being largely attended throughout the state, and it is hoped that the citizens of this county will not be behind other counties in grasping the seriousness of the situation and expressing by their attendance, their appreciation of the efforts being made in their behalf by the gentlemen above named.

It is not often that you will have the opportunity to hear, at one meeting, so many speakers prominent in horticulture. Further notice will be given as to place of meeting.

A Correction.

An error in proofreading in our write-up of the proposed Carnegie Library made the dimensions read 24x76. It should have been 54x76. The Sunday Oregonian not only made the same mistake but also stated that Professor Joseph Marsh was the son of the first president of the institution. Professor Marsh is a brother of the late President Sidney H. Marsh.

A Suggestion.

Time is at hand for the political campaign. Are you or any of your relatives or acquaintances A CANDIDATE FOR OFFICE, either state, county or city? If so, let us furnish you with ADVERTISING MATTER. With a handshake, a pleasant greeting and a little reminder, say a neat card, you are sure "to be in the running." Why not let us print you some attractive cards and thus keep your name before your constituents in an effective and catchy manner?

School Board Meets.

The school board met Saturday afternoon in the clerk's office. The members present were: H. T. Buxton, chairman, A. G. Hoffman and I. K. Weitzel. After the reading and approval of the minutes of previous meetings, matters of business were considered.

The following bills were allowed and eight warrants ordered drawn for same: Hancock, Gordon & Elliott, for hauling of seats $1.00; K. N. Staehr for supplies and text books $3.41.

A communication from Principal E. Allen was read in which the attention of the school board was called to the need of maps, charts and globes in the various grades.

The discipline of the school and the work of the teaching force was stated to be excellent. Statistics as to the enrollment up to the month of December were given.

A petition from Misses Gordon, Baldwin and Jensen calling for an increase of salary was read but no action was taken, although the matter was thoroughly discussed. The clerk has already received several applications from teachers outside of the city.

The clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for furnishing the wood supply for the coming year. Last year a contract for 40 cords of fir and 20 cords of oak was made.

The attendance in the different grades is now 361.

Unending Warfare

By William Bittle Wells

There can be no such thing as a conclusive struggle between the forces of corruption and righteousness. In the great contest between good and evil, right and wrong, the battle has been raging since the world began, and it must continue as long as human nature remains the same. The end can come by a radical readjustment of human thought and motive—at once impossible and chimerical. Yet the world is growing better. Progress is being made. But it is because one man, one set of men, one nation has marshaled the forces of thought and progress and light against the forces of darkness and despair, and fought and bled and died, that good and freedom and righteousness should prevail, rather than evil and tyranny and corruption. So, as we look down through the ages, upon every side we see the earmarks of this awful unending struggle, and men stand out as really great men, strong men, as they have hindered or helped the truth, and as they have brought Light into men's minds and lives and actions.

Today we are in the midst of a great battle—a battle for decency in public office, honesty in positions of public trust, civic righteousness, preservation of our national life. A significant victory—the most significant, we believe, in half a century—has been won. But it is not final. It means greater effort, more self-sacrifice in the future—eternal vigilance, if the ground is not to be taken unawares. Yet there are apparently well-meaning men to day who pooh-hoo every victory for righteousness, in as much as the "reaction" must take place. The "reaction!" What is this reaction if it is not the getting together of boodlers, corruptionists, schemers, dissolutes and disloyal politicians, whose selfish and unrighteous aims would corrupt and bankrupt our cities, bring our states into shame and disrepute, and even wreck the sacred foundation-stones of our national life and bring it to degradation and ruin! Reaction forsooth! Name it aright. It is the apathy of decency and the alertness of evil. It is the unending warfare between righteousness and corruption—the beginning of the turn of the tide when devils and politicians will have their day of triumph. The question with men is, Upon what side are you going to fight? Unfortunately this is so. There ought not to be any question at all about it. Every decent man ought to stand for decency. Every intelligent man ought to know that righteousness is better than unrighteousness; that honor is better than dishonor; that honesty is not the best policy—it is the only policy. It would seem, too, that every patriotic man in private life, every senator and congressman, would guard his national honor, the integrity of the institutions of this great nation, as he would his own life. But this unending struggle must go on among high and low, in state and national council chambers, in the secret rooms of life insurance companies, in all forms of business, in all human activities. Yet the problem is simple—almost foolishly simple—a choice between good and evil. Strange, passing strange, that men, men should deliberately choose that evil and not good should prevail! Today, however, this nation has struck the ringing note of righteousness, and at this season that marks the advent of a new year of hope and promise, there ought to be a deep, reverent reconsecration of every American whose soul contains a love of this great nation, and its glorious and inspiring history, to the end that this republic shall endure; that corruption shall be eliminated and that the patriotic fire of his ancestors shall glow in his veins with renewed vigor. The great struggle for righteousness shall then not want for men who will fight with unquenchable ardor and enthusiasm in a greater battle and a greater cause than even liberty itself.—From The Pacific Monthly for January.

Over-Burdened Women.

Many a man sees his wife bend and tug at burdens that strain the back and the heart alike, without any idea of the outrage. Children follow in too quick succession to allow the mother time to recuperate. The womanly organs become displaced, there are debilitating, disagreeable drains, with the added pain of inflamed or ulcerated parts. In this condition the woman bravely tries to carry her household load, afraid to take the rest she needs lest a meal will be late. No wonder she is pale, weak, wretched, surly of temper and snappish of tongue. She would be false to nature if she were anything else. No persons need help so much as the class of whom this woman is the type. And for such women no help is so sure, so wonderful, as that given by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It restores all the womanly organs to perfect health. It establishes regularity in their functions. It restores the strained and shattered nervous system. It clears up the complexion, rounds out the form and makes life a daily happiness. "Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol or whiskey. It is the best medicine for women. Nothing can be "just as good" as a substitute. Tell the dealer so if he offers a substitute.

"I wrote to you in 1902 about my case," writes Mrs. Ella W. Robinson, of Nuttong, Va. "I was then in a bad condition, and your reply was that I probably inherited the trouble from my mother, and you prescribed Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. About that time I had an attack of fever and was sick for quite a while, so failed to get your 'Prescription.' In December following was married and then my husband bought me two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Before I began to take it I had bearing-down pains at monthly periods, also dizzy spells. After I had taken one bottle I felt better and had no more pains. After taking the second bottle felt better than ever in my life, and in September gave birth to a twelve-pound baby girl. I am very thankful for your good medicine, and shall tell my friends what it did for me, and shall recommend it to all who are afflicted. We think it the best medicine in the world."

Not only the Original but the best Little Liver Pills, first put on the market up over 40 years ago, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, have been much imitated but never equalled, as thousands attest. They're purely vegetable, being made up of concentrated and refined medicinal principles, extracted from the roots of American plants. Do not gripes. One or two for stomach corrective, three or four for cathartic.
