A peculiar sentence was pronounced upon Frank T. Hall, the first of the week by Judge McBride. Hill it will be remembered, was arrested for burglary. He was tried and sentenced to serve seven years in the penitentiary but released on parole pending good behavior. He was told to go home to his family but any misconduct on his part would call down upon him the sentence to the state's prison.

Invitations are out announcing the wedding of Miss Gertrude Smith and Mr. Albert H. Eiler of Portland. Miss Smith was raised in Forest Grove and has many friends here. Mr. Eiler is a member of the firm known as Eiler's Piano House of Portland. The wedding ceremony will be pronounced at the Portland Hotel, on February 22, where also will be served the wedding breakfast. The honeymoon will be spent in Honolulu after which the couple will make their home in Portland.

The city police force has been unusually active the past week. The latest of its achievements was the interruption of a little social "rough-house" indulged in last night, as is the custom by a select crowd of college students. However, the 10-second chief of police was unable to get his running gear up to the test speed contracted for by the city so the students were able to show a clean pair of heels and leave only tracks to be investigated by the recorder.

The work of laying ties for the street railway was begun last Friday and has been rushed right along through the good weather. The progress made this week has been rapid and the outlook is real encouraging. The actual time to be spent in constructing the line will be comparatively short and cars should be running by early summer at the most. The only delay that will hinder the immediate completion of the enterprise will be in receiving the final equipment. If no unforeseen difficulties arise by the end of the week ties will be laid up to Pacific Avenue. The force of men now at work is somewhere between 15 and 20—an average of 17 during this week. The rain will retard the work some but will not effectually delay the early completion of the road. The rails will be ordered as soon as they can be handled and poles will be set next week. The earnest and harmonious way in which the Transportation Company is managing the undertaking, has won the confidence of the citizens, and the best results are sure to follow in all the transactions necessary to execute the venture.

Look Up When Speaking
"I don't talk half as much do," said the preacher to the "yet your voice holds out twice as mine. Why is it?"
The lawyer said he couldn't. "The difference in the position of your head when you are speaking it," said the elocutionist preacher looks down upon the gation, a lawyer looks up to the That drooping of the head vocal cords and makes the voice more difficult to produce than that of any other professional
