Who's your Tailor?

The most skillful cutters and tailors are to be found in the metropolitan cities.
This is one of the many reasons why we can give better values than the local tailor can—at a little more than half his price.
You'll appreciate what the easy feel is in one of our suits.
We'll show you an assortment of 500 styles of woollens to select from.
Made to your measure—taken by us.

To Improve the Conditions of Our Public Schools
To encourage local pride in beautifying the school premises; to foster improvements of the school grounds; to provide better footpaths along the roadsides in the rural districts; to protect the farms adjoining the school grounds from pestilential weeds now allowed to ripen and disseminate their seeds during the Summer season, the County School Superintendent of this (Washington) county offers the following rewards to the schools producing the best essays consisting of not more than 1,000 words each, written in the pupils' own handwriting, and pertaining to any or all of the above named lines, and recounting work actually accomplished between Arbor Day (April 13, 1906) and November 30, 1906:
To the school producing the best essay, a reward of $5 is offered.
To the school producing the second best essay a reward of $2.50 will be given.
Said essays must be based on conditions of facts certified to by the teachers in charge of the contesting schools.
All improvements must be made by the work of the school, either directly or indirectly, and essays must be written by pupils classified within the first eight grades of the school.
Essays must be forwarded to the County School Superintendent, so as to reach him not later than the 15th of December, 1906.
In awarding the prizes the committee will be governed by these considerations:
1. Amount of work accomplished on above named lines.
2. Manner of treatment of the subject.
3. Orthography, Grammar, Syntax, and Punctuation.
M. C. CASE,
County School Supt.
Dated this 21st day of March, 1906.

MUSIC'S MIGHTY REDEMPTION
In It There is but a Single Universal Speech.
"In the mighty realm of music is but one single speech." Music the universal language which other languages were confused confusion of Babel left unconfused. The white man and the black man, the red man and the yellow man, together, however different they find it to be to talk to each other, both sexes and all ages may press their emotions simultaneously in virtue of the power of the distinguish side by side those but concordant notes which in harmony there is not only no demand, for all the qualities which childhood, adolescence, and old age supply. Thus a music is much more frequent love of painting or sculpture, will reach the hearts and feelings of the majority of more quickly by singing them than by showing them a picture. The sensitiveness of the melody and to harmony is so we not only seek to gratify bent upon recreation, but amidst of the hardest labor we find it if we can.—London Catholic.

Queer Little Blonde
From an account of the (England) Art club's annual in the Doncaster Gazette, also goes in for portraiture, off her father's head her hair good, but the execution lacks in artistic finish.
In the London Mail's desert parade in honor of the king, the reporter said: "I had only in their scarlet sent an unpleasant contrast warmly clad members of a force."
From the windows of a B. "We have cleared a Scotch remains of high class over a big reduction."
Not a Born Forger
The indorsement of checks simple thing, but, as the following will show, it, too, has its difficulties.
A woman went into a bank she had several times presented drawn to Mrs. Lucy B. So time the check was made by of Mrs. M. J. Smith—M. J. husband's initials. She came to the paying teller and asked should do.
"Oh, that is all right," he indorse it as it is written."
She took the check and, in hesitation, said, "I don't make an M like that."
