 The regular meeting of Gale Grange will be held in Grange Hall next Saturday. The special features of the program beginning at 1:30 p. m., will be a talk on "Gardening, How and When to Do it," by Dr. Bishop. This will be followed by a debate on the question "Resolved, that equal suffrage would be beneficial to the state of Oregon." Affirmative, Hon. E. W. Haines, Mrs. A. T. Buxton; negative, Prof. H. L. Bates, Mrs. A. B. Todd.
A Free Lecture
 The Rev. Homer M. Street will deliver his famous lecture on "Prohibition Folly" at Forest Grove on Tuesday, evening, April 10th, at the Opera House. This lecture is not directed against precinct local option but against all prohibition enactments where the people of one precinct are allowed to control the affairs of those of other precincts.
 This lecture will probably be delivered in every large city from Portland, Oregon, to Portland, Maine. You will miss something of unusual interest if you fail to hear it. Every one is pleased with this lecture except the drunkard, the men who run low dives and the fanatical prohibitionist.

famous Dixie Jubilee Singers, and it goes without saying that it will be worth the money.
ATHLETIC COMMITTEE.
Glee Club Concert
 The Oregonian has the following to say of the Ladies Glee Club of Pacific University, which sang at the First Congregational Church in that city on Thursday, March 29.
 "The concert given by the Ladies Glee Club of Pacific University at the First Congregational Church last night was a great success from every standpoint, and a substantial sum was realized from the silver collection which was made for the Herrick Hall rebuilding fund. The glee club, which is composed of 20 of the best singers of the Pacific Conservatory, was ably assisted by the Alpha Zeta male quartet and by Mrs. Pauline Miller Chapman, soloist.
 The programme was above the average and decidedly out of the ordinary glee club grove. A cantata entitled "The Lady of Shalott," by the chorus and soloists, was beautifully rendered and the club showed the careful training of Prof. Frank T. Chapman, director. Miss Maude Shannon, Miss Gladdys Hartley and Miss Ethel Moseley were the soloists and their fine voices were appreciated by the large audience. Miss Shannon has a good voice, its quality being mellow and full. Miss Frances Clapp was the accompanist for the cantata. The second part of the programme was made up of a group of six Netherland folk songs rendered by a mixed chorus and two soloists, the latter being Professor C. E. Bradley and H. H. Markel. Following this, Mrs. Chapman gave two delightful numbers, which were enthusiastically encored. Mrs. Chapman's voice seemed peculiarly adapted to the acoustics of the church auditorium, and she was in unusually fine voice.
 Numbers by the Alpha Zeta Quartet, the Ladies' Quartet, the Choral Union and a solo by Mr. Markel finished the fine programme."

at Oregon City, Thursday, March 29, 1906, was buried in Forest Grove last Saturday. She was a pioneer, both of Oregon and Washington. She was the widow of John Tucker Scott, who died in Forest Grove in 1880. The family lived in Washington Territory, near Olympia, during the time of the Indian War of 1855 and experienced some hair breadth escapes during that war. Several times they were forced to flee before the savages, intent upon massacre. It was at the close of this war that the Scotts moved to Forest Grove, where they lived until the death of Mr. Scott. Mrs. Scott with her son the late Chas. W. Scott, removed to Portland, where she had since resided almost continuously. She was a member of the First Christian Church of Portland, always a conscientious, faithful Christian and highly regarded by all with whom she came in contact.
 She leaves of her immediate family, two sons by her first marriage, Jacob G. Stevenson, of Klamath Falls, and Robert Stevenson, of Gales Creek, and a daughter, Mrs. Ellen Scott Latourette, of Oregon City. Her surviving brothers and sisters are J. P. Echler and Mrs. M. C. George, of Portland; Mrs. C. F. George, of Seattle; and Mrs. Isaac Clapp, of Cherryville, Kansas. Her stepson and daughters are: H. W. Scott, Mrs. M. F. Cooke, Mrs. A. S. Duniway, Mrs. C. A. Coburn and Mrs. H. L. Palmer, all of Portland.
 The great concourse of friends and relatives which attended the funeral services of Mrs. Scott, which were held at the residence of Judge and Mrs. M. C. George, at Portland, attested to the great worth and reverence felt for this woman throughout the Northwest. Dr. J. F. Ghormley and Rev. E. S. Muckley of the Christian Church, conducted the services in Portland. The family burial grounds are located here and the interment was made here with a simple service after which the funeral party left for Portland.

in low heads because of the reduced cost in spraying. The treetops thinned in winter.
 Spraying is carefully done, and insure a good crop many apples are picked off the tree so as to allow others to thoroughly mature. When the apples are picked, the grower wipes them and the union sends packing crew of four packers and inspector to pack the fruit. Spraying wagons are used to haul the apples. No grower packs his own fruit because he cannot do it as cheaply as the union, and second, because stamp of the union adds seventy cents to the price of the apples. The union buys boxes, paper, spraying material and other supplies in quantities so gets reduced prices. Boxes furnished the union at eight and a half cents, while individual boxes would have to pay eleven cents for them. It is because of this care that the Hood River apples become so famous. The care and operation which characterizes the Hood River organizations should be an object lesson to other growers in other sections.—Fruit and Produce News

Why Hood River is Famous
 HOOD RIVER, ORE., MARCH 14.—Hood River is an object lesson in co-operative, intensive farming. The individual holders are small, averaging about twenty acres, for it is believed that this acreage is the size of a farm that can be thoroughly worked. Division fences are done away with, saving expense, and acting as a hindrance to cultivation. The trees are trimmed in the hollow vase fashion to let in the sunshine, which gives the deep red color to the Spitzenbergs. The growers do not crowd their trees. Each tree top starts about two feet from the ground. The farmers believe
