

LOCAL ATHLETES WORSTED

Illient Brethren From Out of the South-land Stack up Points

Action speaks louder than words—the Quaker track team of Pacific College certainly proved this last Saturday afternoon, when they silently stacked up sixty two points on top of our fifty five, thus defeating us by a margin of several credits. The weather was cool and brought out many an oxford and white garment, which of course was pleasing to Manager Bump both financially and aesthetically. While hair splitting records were made, the meet was excellent from the spectators' point of view for each team tried to fight and fight with book-agent perseverance and determination to win their respective chalk marks. The meet was free from win-in-a-walks and this kept the bleachers in dreaming.

P. U. was unfortunate in not having Ston and Weathered in the game; only needed to tie them for three points to have won. Huston would have rubbed Pemberton for a clean and in the 100 and Weathered had stood a good chance in high jump.

The light of the day of course was Peterson. Although he had his points on wrong in the 100 he won out a margin and had some left for the fornia relief fund. He scored 19 points. "$10,000 Sam"—the pride of the Freshman Class, tied with Hodson of Newberg, for second honors a score of 13. Their man, W. Pemberton, is also a good man, "Pete" to put his shoes on right and then to touch the tape first in the 220. Both the hurdle races were pretty. Both the 120 and 220 the outcome almost a tie. In these two events Clough and Prideoaux ran neck and neck, Clough for the Quakers, pulling the first event and Prideoaux the second. Macy ran a fast half mile, in 2:07. Fletcher had just a good mile but none the less Macy show his best speed in the

New Course Arranged for at College for Winter

The Athletic Committee has arranged for a course of entertainments to be given at the college next year. There will be three entertainments in the course and it is expected that they will excel those given here this year. The first is a concert which will be given by the Lulu Tyler Gates Company. Lulu Tyler Gates is said to be the best celloist in the United States. She will be assisted by first class violinists and other skilled musicians. The music will be of a very high character.

The second entertainment will be given by a noted magician who gives his exhibitions with the aid of electricity, radium, etc.

The last entertainment of the course will be given by the Dunbar Male Quartette and Bell Ringers. This will be one of the most attractive entertainments judging from the appreciation shown the Parland-Newhall Male Quartette and Bell Ringers this year.

As a whole, the entertainments this year have been a success and the Athletic Committee has done well to give students and friends the benefit of another such series.

LECTURE ON BEETHOVEN

Prof. Chapman Comments Upon Great Composer

A most interesting and instructive lecture was delivered by Prof. Chapman before the music students and friends in the Association room last Friday evening. The subject of the lecture was "Beethoven" but it was quite out of the ordinary line of biographical lectures because Professor Chapman has had access to some very valuable material, not commonly published in the books on Beethoven's life.

This material relates to the many disappointments in Beethoven's life and of his struggle for success, rather than to a study of his compositions.

Among other things Professor Chapman gave some very interesting incidents of Beethoven's childhood.

Beethoven's grandfather was an exporter of wines and his eldest son Johann was addicted to the use of wine so that while yet a young man he became a confirmed drunkard. Johann married against his father's wishes and our composer was the second son born of this union. Beethoven, the composer, showed musical talent when only four years old and after receiving thorough preparatory instruction from his father he became a pupil under Pfeifer, who, Beethoven says, was the best teacher he ever had. At the age of seventeen Beethoven went to Vienna to study under Mozart. When called home on account of the death of his mother Beethoven had to borrow the money to pay his expenses. He was forced to teach on account of financial difficulties, but he disliked teaching because he felt that he should compose music.

Beethoven was subject to melancholy and moody spells which grew as he himself grew older. His father became so dissipated that Beethoven had to take charge of his two younger brothers. In doing this he gave up his cherished plan to study under Hayden. Later friends, who recognized his ability, fulfilled his cherished desire and sent him to Vienna. A great affliction befell him when from the effects of a severe cold he became deaf. Beethoven was very sensitive and worried much as the deafness grew worse. Nevertheless it is a fact that his best composing was done after he became deaf.

It seems that all Beethoven's plans failed one after the other. This Prof. Chapman said was very hard on Beethoven, the man, but no doubt did more than any thing else to develop his genius.

These few with other equally interesting incidents Professor Chapman wove into a very pleasing and instructive lecture. Another such lecture would be greatly appreciated.

SOLILOQUISMS

By EVE

With the advent of the "muck rake" its '23 with "strenuous."

It will be, in order next for our city council to license second hand stores.

First call for the "man with the muck rake."

Second call for "frenzied."

Last call for "strenuous."

We are not surprised to hear that the automobile club, after eating dinner at a Hillsboro hotel, did not care to go any further in Washington County.

A United States senator is credited with the remark that affairs are so bad that when the senate roll is called, he doesn't know whether to say "present" or "not guilty."—Frenzied Thoughts, Brownsville Times.

At the meeting held the other evening to discuss plans for the 4th of July, it was suggested that we secure a U. S. senator to deliver an address here on that occasion. That should be easy for about that time Oregon will have four senators.

Marshal Ganger of Hood River is becoming famous fast, even in our distant section. Like many other country policemen during that desperado's short career, he found a Frank Smith, whom he searched but found nothing but a tiny toy pistol and a box of caps.

Won't it be consoling to be assured occasionally, as the future citizen of 'Frisco will be, that the house which you occupy is earthquake proof especially when the word "earthquake" recalls the horrors of the recent disaster. EVE is rather of the opinion that he will take his in Oregon, where the Lord was a little more generous with materials.

If the American people love to be humbugged, as has been said, isn't the honest merchant going at it wrong to gain their affections?
