BANKS

Mrs. J. C. Moore is very sick with la grippe at her home in Greenville.

Mr. Winieke of Greenmountain, died Monday morning of pneumonia.

A terrible cough and cold—la grippe, is epidemic, and nearly everyone is suffering from it.

Mr. J. P. Killen another old veteran G. A. R. man is dangerously sick with complications of diseases.

"Scarlet fever" and "Measles" are raging all around. A little child of Mr. Hart died last week and many more are afflicted.

Dr. M. H. Parker of Greenville, is laid up with kidney trouble and his wife and four children are down with the measles and scarlet fever. Dr. Parker is an old veteran G. A. R.

Greenville beats the world for beautiful girls and dances. Last Saturday the Maccabees gave a dance at their hall. About 100 couples were present, ice cream, cake and sandwiches were served. A fine grand time was had and everybody happy—music to beat the world.

Railroad! Railroad! is all the talk! The crew of teams, men, scrappers—about 400 are here, the construction train is here and the track is graded—ties laid—steel rails spiked, and engine in town. So after waiting all these long 20 years we have the roaring engine reverberating from mountain to mountain. Soon a passenger, mail, and freight train will be running.

Greenville is dead—the railroad went two miles east of the place, and left the town high on the beach, deserted, wrecked, stranded—like Goldsmith's Deserted Village. Moores have been in Greenville 55 years, have sold out and are going away with the postoffice. Those old land marks are fading away. The Maccabee Hall, the blacksmith shop and Dr. Parker's store will be at the dying of the old town. If the electric cars come by Greenville from Forest Grove the town may still live.

Fares!

All aboard for Forest Grove!

Maybe you can get a job greasing curves on the new street railway.

I'd rather be a street car conductor in Forest Grove than alderman in San Francisco.

It was better to have lived in Lesser Forest Grove—the Forest Grove of yesterday—than the Greater San Francisco—the San Francisco of yesterday.

The grass is growing in Tillamook so they don't care whether its Chamberlain or Withycombe that becomes the next governor of Oregon.

If it was not made in Oregon throw it away. You can't give it away, anymore. Don't send it to San Francisco unless it was made in California.

J. N. Hoffman has had his "Prince Albert" and "Tuxedo" all ready to back into for nearly a month but if he don't hurry he will be too late for the "London Season."

Don't let anyone tell you that Oregon is slow. This week the "Made in Oregon" is on, the Farmers' and Shippers' Congress at Coos Bay, the Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F. in Portland, the State Grange in Albany, and a girls' minstrel show in Forest Grove.

The nervous tension seems not to be so great, during this campaign, as the preliminary battle for the nominations. However the under currents of the two great parties are silently pushing onward and will come up with a great crash in June. Be prepared to be surprised, for all people may not think as you do.

Step by step the natives are being accustomed to the street railway. The officials of the Forest Grove Transportation company, realizing that the sudden approach of a wholly equipped trolley car would perhaps be the means of depopulating the town, are educating the inhabitants by having the workmen push around a few hand cars, dericks, etc. The first car to reach the postoffice by way of First Avenue came on Monday and was propelled slowly by six men so as not to cause any suicides.
