The guest were next divided into groups, each group to contribute editorials, ads, society news or locals to a newspaper which was dated eight years from that evening.

Conservatory Notes

Two new teachers are added to the Musical Faculty for next year. Miss Ethel Moseley and Miss Frances Clapp will act as assistant piano teachers.

Their pupils will be under the supervision of the Director and will also be restricted to those in the beginning grades. Miss Cadwell will not return next year and will be missed as she has done good and conscientious work in her teaching.

Miss Waggener has had two years of Post Graduate work and how greatly she has advanced in technique and more particularly in her interpretative power was also evident the Thursday night of her recital.

It is the intention of the Director to fill all vacancies as far as it seems wise with competent and advanced students. This gives them the necessary normal training which professional students must largely gain by experience.

A vocal teacher has not yet been engaged to take Mrs. Chapman's advanced students. Miss Maude Shannon has been retained as first assistant.

This concert will be given by Mrs. Pauline Miller-Chapman, mezzo-soprano, Mr. F. Conrad, cellist, and F. T. Chapman, violinist.

The celebrated trio in D Minor by Mendelssohn for violin, cello and piano will be given. Mrs. Chapman will give an Oratorio Aria, a group of ballads, and one number by request.

Miss Wagner Gives Recital

The track team met in the gymnasium Monday night and chose Mr. Lawrence to captain the team next year. Lawrence is an enthusiastic athlete and a great favorite with his fellows. He has been in athletics two years; as a member of last year's track team he was a good point winner and this year he won the "varsity" "P" in the first meet.

Inklings From San Francisco

AN EASTERNER'S VIEW

The President of one of the largest advertising concerns in the East—a man whose business it is to keep his finger on the public pulse, and whose training has developed keen instinct for the "pointing of straws," writes significantly concerning the growth of San Francisco: "I hear many shrewd business men in the East talking of going to the Coast, believing that now is a good time to get in, when San Francisco is rebuilding. This confirms my conviction that San Francisco, five years hence, will have a much larger population than it had before the fire."

HOTELS

Business interests of non-resident property owners, together with the fascination to travelers presented by the Phoenix-like growth of the new city, is bringing an increasing travel to San Francisco. Every effort is being made to provide accommodations for transient guests. The St. Francis Grill Room will be able to feed the guests who will temporarily abide in the picturesque wooden annex now being erected in Union Square, and which will be ready for occupancy by the first of July. The completion of the Fairmount will be rushed and is promised for January.

The pioneer downtown hotel will probably be the Oaks Hotel, a ten-story class A building, proposed for immediate erection on the site of the old hotel on Third Street.

The Toy Hotel, to be constructed on the site of the former Union Square Market, Powell and O'Farrell, is planned to have all modern, fire-proof devices—including metal doors and window casings. Structure will contain 450 rooms and is estimated to cost about half million dollars.

The demand for high class apartments will be met by the early construction of a number of commodious buildings, the plans for which are attracting attention through their many unique features combined with absolute security from fire. Prominent will be the Denicke Apartments on Mason and Sacramento, to contain 800 rooms, and involving an expenditure of nearly $1,000,000. If these plans are carried out, the building will make a most harmonious neighbor for the handsome Fairmount across the street.

Sutter street will have a steel and reinforced concrete building designed for bachelor apartments. It is to have 200 connecting rooms arranged in suites, each with a private bath.

On Mason, between Bush and Pine, the Daniels' Apartments will likely be among the first to rise in this popular residential district.

Old San Francisco, famous the world over for her hotels and restaurants, will be surpassed in this respect by the new city.

The immediate building of so many high-class and artistic structures, scattered over the entire area of the burned district, will have a most beneficial effect on the style of architecture which will dominate the new city.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE

The concentration of business in the Merchants' Exchange expresses the great need for office facilities. Adopting a broad policy, Secretary Friedlander has permitted the first floor plans of the buildings to be converted into temporary offices, and the ingenuity of the tenants is shown in novel ways. The Stock Exchange is operating in full swing, operations being conducted with the old time vim that speaks volumes for confidence in financial circles.

SHIPPING

Import and export trade have shown no change from normal conditions. The great activity on the water front, so characteristic of San Francisco, has maintained its usual proportions. In fact the immense freight carriers of the trans-Pacific lines are loading and unloading an increased tonnage at the busy docks. Sixteen hundred and forty-three tons of silk, tea and rice was the last cargo of the Hongkong Maru. Fifty-three vessels, with cargoes to all parts of the world, sailed from this port a few days ago within forty-eight hours—the largest fleet within ten years past.

SOLILOQUISMS

By EVE

School let out in the dead of winter this year.

And Bryan will be the next president.

How would you like to be a beef packer? Its much more congenial being the beef trust than the man who ate the beef.

The Hood River Glacier says "And the next day it rained." It has been raining ever since in Forest Grove and for sometime before.

At its present rate the Oregonian will have William Jennings Bryan, president of the United States before Roosevelt has finished his term.

The only way that Chamberlain was elected, as near as we can tell—for the benefit of those who don't "understand it"—must have been from the fact that he got the most votes.

In Walla Walla County by an agreement, the Democrats made their nominations the other day by direct primary. Over 1100 votes were cast and the county thinks that the Primary Law is a great success. It is quite likely that Washington will adopt a primary law as soon as they can.

And still some people cannot understand why Gov. Chamberlain was re-elected and maintain that it was a surprise. Those people however are about 2500 less than those who do understand and we are still puzzling over the estimation of how many people have to be surprised before it can be called a "surprise."

Murphy Has Runaway

On last Monday, early in the afternoon, the team belonging to the well-known delivery man, Mr. Murphy, became frightened on Main Street and made a break for liberty. Nothing was badly damaged, however, and the team was stopped after turning the corner west on First Avenue North. The wagon was turned over but everything was put into service again shortly after the incident.

"Give me time—only give me time!" Pleaded the man, desperately. "I will, said the Judge. "Five years."—Ex.
