

FINE ACCOMMODATIONS

The Immense Throngs of People Who Will Visit the Jamestown Exposition to Be Well Cared For.

The great expositions of the world have usually been held in or near metropolitan cities. The knowledge of this fact has caused some to question whether Norfolk will be able to furnish adequate hotel accommodations for the immense throngs which next year will visit the Jamestown Exposition. No anxiety need be felt, however, on this score.

The Jamestown Expositions peculiarly fortunate in its situation. Although it is but a scant six miles from Norfolk, it is hardly a greater distance from Portsmouth, Newport News or Hampton. It is within a few minutes ride of some of the most famous seaside hotel resorts in America: Ocean View, Virginia Beach and Fortress Monroe, or Old Point, long famous as an all year health and pleasure point. The cities enumerated above are well equipped with modern hotels, and cottages for the accommodation of summer visitors line the shores of Chesapeake Bay, the roadway to the sea, and the Virginia coast.

Several large hotels are now building in the cities near the Exposition, and a number of temporary hotels are going up in the vicinity of the grounds. Further to assure comfortable and attractive accommodation for its guests, there is being constructed within the Exposition grounds an Inside Inn, which is unique among Exposition hotels. This Inn will be a real hotel—not a hastily constructed barn with shallow partitions, built for a day. It will be a permanent affair, lasting after the Exposition is over, and will add one more to the well known resorts of the section.

It will have a frontage of 650 feet and a depth of 450 feet, and will be three stories high. It will contain nearly one thousand rooms, accommodating two thousand guests. It is located near the main entrance of the Exposition and faces Hampton Roads, separated from this sheet of water only by a shady boulevard. To the left of the hotel is a splendid grove of stately oaks; to the right, separate some hundred yards, is the Amusement section of the Exposition, named by General Deane "The Warpath." At the rear of the Inside Inn is the Forestry and Horticultural Exhibit. It will be an en from these items of surroundings at the situation of the Inn could not be improved.

At other expositions the chief, if not sole, advantage of the Inside Inn is that its guests were saved the annoyance of going to and coming from the exposition in crowded street cars or in conveyances speeding over dusty roads, for as a rule, expositors, especially those whose visits was brief, did not leave the grounds, once they entered. The advantage of being able to change from social or other functions of the night might be added, together with economy resulting from a location on the grounds, whereby extra admission fees were saved, but there were compensating disadvantages; insufficient space for rooms, thin partitions did not keep out sounds, inadequate attendance and unsatisfactory service.

The Jamestown Inn will suffer none of these disadvantages. While the management of the property is in the hands of a company, the Exposition has the right to insist upon first-class service for all patrons. The future will be built on the most modern plans; its furnishings will be of the first-class and its arrangements comfortable in every particular. There will be single and in suites, and without baths.

The first story will contain a large public writing rooms, ladies' lounge, a buffet, a dining room each with American and European guests, a shop, postoffice, public stenographer's room, and in fact everything usually accompanies the accommodation of a first class hotel. There will be a large convention hall, and parts of the first and second story will have a seating capacity of a thousand. There will also be a ball room, where a thousand or more guests may be served. The two upper floors, containing about five hundred rooms each, will be used for sleeping quarters. A piazza will encircle the building, enabling the guests to secure fine views of the pageantry on the roads and ashore. Taken all in all, this Inside Inn will have whatever advantages a first-class seaside resort may offer, together with those incident to proximity to an exposition.

A Record Breaker.

Some of the weather prophets of our town who have seen old Sol shine furiously in all his glory for many generations, say that last Thursday was really the record breaker for heat, and the majority of our citizens sitting in the shade clad in summer garb answer with a long drawn out "amen." The mercury stood at 103 without the slightest bit of air. As a result of this several workmen ceased toil, and a fine horse worth about $200 and owned by John McNamer, passed on. This steed was a blooded animal, and was ridden by its owner in the grand parade here Independence Day.

Some Recent Fiction in Our Free Library.

The library in the Free Reading Room is making a new departure in order that its patrons may have the benefit of some of the most recent fiction, and already many are gladly taking advantage of the plan.

Some new books have been bought with money recently given by the Fourth of July committee and the State Study Club. Among them are "The Jungle" the famous novel which roused the Packington investigation; "The Spoilers" an Alaskan romance; "For the Soul of Rafael," an exquisitely told and delicately handled romance of old California; "The Long Day," the dramatic story of a New York working girl's life; "Coniston," whose author, Winston Churchill needs no introduction, and "Silas Strong," "A Leaf from nature's book" by the author of "Eben Holden."

These and others to be bought at regular intervals will be rented for so small a sum that every one may enjoy now and then "the latest books." They will be known as "the cent-a-day" books, will not be allowed out for more than seven days at a time, and at the end of three months will become part of the free circulation.

SPARKLETS

By H. W. SPARKS.

How few of us, after all, really blush when we hear from the pulpit, the thundering dictum: "It is a disgrace to grow rich."

At least two Americans, good and true, can safely make faces at the ice trust this year, Walter Wellman and Lieut. Peary, who have ice to melt.—American Press.

Ikie, the nineteen year old son of Moses Jones, who runs a hay ranch near Jayville, has started up a boot-black establishment in town. Now the old man is making hay while the son shines.

The tallest man in the world—nine feet two and a half inches—recently came to our shores. Just wait until he meets our tallest woman on earth—nine feet seven inches. She is just tall enough to "look down on him."

"The Packers, the Private Car Lines, and the People," by J. Ogden Armour, is not a misfit. The packers and private car lines have had their separate and distinct laughing spells. The people are coming in with that laugh which is the best.

So bright was the electrical display around the switch-board Friday night that I wonder if Ray Terrier Williams, Forest Grove's popular hello boy, couldn't almost see across the great divide and hear old Gabriel calling him up to call him down.

Senator E. W. Haines makes a dandy motorman. The way he shoots the car along and handles the safety valve would make an old maid smile for joy. He's a good engineer on the trolley, but what's more he can engineer a bill through the state legislature.

A young lad from Nehalem was in town last week—a foot racer too or at any rate his money talked louder than words and made the local sprinters look like a plugged Canadian quarter. The lad's name was Mow. Now wouldn't that give you the hay fever?

A young fellow was talking with his mother-in-law the other day, who had just given him her daughter in marriage. The old lady asked her new son for his favorite passage of scripture. With a long drawn out sigh he said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

Many a person who has received unbounded joy and inspiration from the pen of Eve in his Soliloquisms, has wondered who this sage could be and from whence came his wondrous power. Now that he has gone to Santa Cruz, California, to live on razor clams, and among summer girls, and to bask in the sunshine of the sunny south, I venture to draw aside the mystic veil to let the appreciative audience know that Eve was none other than our own Willard Herman Wirtz, who has spent most of his days and a good deal of money in our city beautiful. Eve graduated from Pacific University this year with honors, and will pursue his chosen work of journalism. He is a clever lad, a good fellow, and here is success to him and his pen.

Last week the grinder of this dope stepped on a big ugly spike and punctured his right pedal extremity; since then he has received just sixty three best-I-ever-saw recipes from friends in person and through the mail. Everyone had at some time cured a serious case of lockjaw or insomnia resulting from the puncture. Now here is just one or two: Smoke the foot good with North Carolina Plug Cut, the patient to do the smoking—this was suggested by a tobacco dealer; bind a piece of packing-house pork on the wound—this was received from Chicago; bathe the foot in boiling coal oil, Standard brand, it may scald the foot but after ten minutes you can't feel the nail incision till the burn gets well—John D. Rockefeller kindly sent this from abroad. Three score other recipes are on file and will be turned over to the Forest Grove hospital. They are all dandies, and are recommended most highly by every prominent undertaker, tombstonemaker and florist of America.

"I don't like to raise hens" Says old rich Jonnie D; "For I can't go upon the street Without they lay for me."

THIS IS JUST TO RIVET YOUR ATTENTION.

"The Forest Grove Press Club" will give a banquet in the near future. The spread will not be limited to typetickers and editors, but every body must recognize the best type—of beauty, and be able to print a kiss. Tickets are now on sale at Harry Martin Luther's harness shop. He calls the affair a bride party and predicts a strapping bit of fun for awl, and says he can print the lines without a tug.

A PEEK AT A PEEK-A-BOO.

"Oh Susan Jane Don't be insane," Said mother in hot water, "In open clothes You'll surely 'froze' My darling little daughter." But Sue couldn't Or she wouldn't Hear the words of admonition She took a hike Upon her bike In that open work condition The wind it blew And sister Sue Felt oh, so awful chilly She caught, she froze Not cold of nose But just a glance from Willie.

Think it a Holdup.

A party of eastern capitalists, who are seeing the country from the private Pullman car "Thesius," refused to pay $10 demurrage last week, charged against their car by the Northern Pacific Terminal Company and only paid it after the car had been cut off the southbound Southern Pacific Overland. They thought it was a hold-up game.

Clyde Cornett, who died, last Thursday near Tillamook, formerly lived here and spent his childhood days on a farm near Banks. He was 28 years old.

VANISHED TREASURES.

Masterpieces of Art That Are Lost to the World.

The "Venus de Milo," which has been in the Louvre for many years is, as all the world knows, an imperfect piece of sculpture, though it is the greatest treasure of its kind the world has ever seen. A great reward would be given the man who could find the missing parts. About 1878 the most important of them—the right arm—came to light in London and was proved by experts to be genuine. The owner, however, refused to part with it and concealed it for fear it would be stolen. Unfortunately he died without revealing its hiding place, so it is as much lost as ever.

A bronze drinking cup which was stolen from an Egyptian temple in 1739 and brought to Europe has miraculously disappeared. On it is engraved the whole history of the Pharaohs, and it could easily be sold for $100,000. In fact, the French government offered a reward of $14,000 for its discovery, but the famous cup has vanished, probably forever.

Another treasure which has vanished in as strange a way is the Marcella vase of the Dresden collection. This is the only piece missing from the famous Dresden Marcella collection, the value of which is said to be $75,000. It bears the cross arrows and the lion's head. Not long ago the vase was said to be in England, but, be that as it may, the person who rediscovers this treasure may command any price in reason for it.

How it is possible that a treasure so large as a painting could be lost sight of entirely is not easily explained, but this has often happened. One of Reynolds' paintings, "Countess of Darby," which is considered his best portrait, has disappeared. Not long after it was painted it disappeared from the collection of the Earl of Darby and has never been heard of since, though it would bring $150,000 to the finder. There are also two Van Dykes and a Rembrandt missing, for which collectors are willing to pay $200,000. The Earl of Crew would give a large sum for the return of a Cupid which some vandal cut from the portrait of the former Countess of Crew and her son, who was painted as the sprite.—St. Louis Republic.

Indigestion.

The following cure for indigestion is recommended by the eminent Dr. Bond in the London Lancet, a medical journal of world wide repute. "The indigestion must be a very hopeless one," says Dr. Bond, "which will not yield to a diet of a small cup of warm milk to which a teaspoonful of rum has been added, followed by a plain biscuit or two and some very mild cheese, paradoxical as this combination may seem." According to Dr. Bond, there is a subtle harmony between these ingredients that does the business.

Knew She Was Pretty.

Lille (to visitor)—Don't you think that I look just like my mamma? Mother—Hush, child! Don't be vain!
