Boy Injured.
Antone Herman, the fifteen-year-old son of William Herman of Verboort, was thrown from his horse last evening while riding after cattle. He fell on his head and is still unconscious. It is not known how seriously the boy is injured.

Free Methodist Camp Meeting.
The camp meeting of the Free Methodists at Naylor's Grove is well attended. There is a goodly number of campers and meetings are held morning, afternoon and evenings. The services are held in a large tent and another one is used as a restaurant where campers are furnished meals at cost. The most prominent speakers are Presiding Elder, W. N. Coffee, of Portland and President Beers, of the Free Methodist Seminary, Seattle.

Request of Civic Improvement Society.
Monday afternoon at a special meeting of the Executive Committee of the Civic Improvement Society, it was voted that the citizens be requested to have lawns and private property cleared of weeds and rubbish before the meeting of the Willamette Valley Development League and that the Secretary furnish each one of the local papers with a copy of this request for publication. M. F. FARNHAM, Secretary.

Many Improvements About Town.
M. E. Hall, the painter, has made arrangements to build an addition to his residence.

A cement sidewalk will be put in along the Cox property on Pacific Ave. It will be appreciated by many.

Roe & Buxton's store is to undergo repairs and alterations. Mr. Fuqua the owner, has practically decided to make needed improvements.

L. L. Hollinger is renovating the house, formerly known as the Boos residence, and will move in a day or so.

Chas. Mertz and Harry Goff have improved the general appearance of their residences. Both have painted them a pretty green.

Mr. Gilles, who recently bought the Jerome property, is planning to build a silo. Several farmers in the Banks neighborhood, have used them several years with success.

It is probable that several of the most progressive business men of our city, will experiment in oiling the streets. This is a move in the right direction. Cities of smaller size have tested the proposition and it has proved a decided success. Hubbard and Gervais in Marion county have their streets oiled.

Another noteworthy improvement is the construction of a sidewalk on the M. E. Church property, from the corner of Second Avenue to the entrance to the church building. This is one of the most frequented sections of the city and the walk will be appreciated by many.

Professor James R. Robertson and family left yesterday for Berkeley, Cal., where they will reside. Professor Robertson has accepted a fellowship in the department of history and will do research work in the field of American history. Whether he will remain more than a year or not will depend largely on the health of his family.

His work here has been heavy and broad and Professor Robertson believes that a year in California under new surroundings and climate, will prove most profitable. He has become deeply attached to Pacific University, and his love for the school is as strong as ever and next year will see him in the chair of history, refreshed and full of energy and enthusiasm. The best wishes of our citizens follow him and his family to the sunny climes of California.
