"Our old friend Fred Watrous, one of Forest Grove's most successful merchants, was in Springfield Monday and made a pleasant call at the News office. Mr. Watrous is a great user of printer's ink and attributes his mercantile success to his extensive advertising. While in Forest Grove we built a good many full page ads for his firm and were agreeably surprised to hear Mr. Watrous say that he had never had the results from his advertising since we left the Grove that he had while we were building his ads.—Springfield News. It will be remembered that Editor Beebe of the Springfield News was formerly foreman of the Washington County Publishing Company and at the time when Mr. Watrous refers to the great results of his advertising. It was done in The News, the best circulating medium in Washington county, which claims a larger circulation and more eager readers than any other paper. It pays to advertise in a paper that is read.

Watrous-Huber

Miss Ollie Huber was married on last Saturday to Mr. Frank L. Watrous at the county seat, before the County Judge. Miss Huber is well known here, her parents living at Dilly. Mr. Watrous is employed by the firm of Watrous, Caples & Co. The News extends congratulations to the happy couple.

Lyda-Killin

Miss Eval May Killin was married to Elmer E. Lyda on Monday. Both young people are well known in this part of the county. Their parents being old residents of Washington County.

HALLOWEEN SOCIAL EVENTS

merry voices were heard in many quarters of the city, much laughter being created by the usual Halloween gipsy fortune tellers.

COLLEGE GOBLINS GATHER.

The college classes held their revelries at the home of Mayor Peterson and the Freshmen were duly initiated through the mystic clouds that must be penetrated before one really becomes a bonafide college man.

The Academy Classes held "jinks and revelries" at different residence of city. The E. E. Williams and the Rasmusen homes were overflowing with "spirits and hobgoblins."

TOWN "SPOOKS" AND FORTUNE-TELLERS MEET.

The Misses Shannon entertained a large circle of friends in this city last evening, many were told of mysteries future life held in store for them, while the maidens looked over their shoulder into the shining mirror that might reveal the name or even the initials of her future lord and master.

REBEKAHS ENTERTAIN

The Lodges of the city were not to be overshadowed by the pranks of the young folks, so the Rebekah Lodges of this city invited the Rebekah Lodges of Hillsboro and Gaston and the Odd Fellows of this city and their wives, and as an excuse for the jollification of the evenings pranks, celebrated last night, the sixty third anniversary of Rebekah Lodges. Their hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the reception hall in pink and green, the Rebekah colors, and the dining room in green and yellow. The anniversary exercises were first performed after which an excellent program was rendered. In one of the corners of the room the gipsy fortune teller presided and the large number of guests were told their fate. A bountiful banquet was served and all present speak of this social event as one to be long remembered in the history of lodge doings.

Wee-ha-ha's Entertain

The Social season in Forest Grove was initiated in earnest last Friday by the members of the Wee-ha-ha Club of this city at the home of its president, Mrs. J. S. Buxton. The club is a new organization, having only started last winter, and since then has held many important social events. The club meet every two weeks at different residences of the members. "Five Hundred" is the past time of the evening and many beautiful presents are given to the fortunate winners of that social game. At its last meeting Miss Jessie Buxton received the first honors and Mrs. Willis Goff was the recipient of the booby prize. The members of the Wee-ha-ha Club are: Mrs. J. S. Buxton, president; Mrs. A. B. Caples, secretary; and Mesdames Willis Goff, Wilbur McEldowney, Chas. Roe, Mayne Abbot, G. Larrimore, C. F. Miller, Frank Gordon, John Thornburgh, Macrum and Jessie Buxton.

The Lulu Tyler Gates Company which is to appear here November 15, in Marsh Hall is one of the best companies of its kind in America. The Pacific Wave of October 23, the U. of W. Weekly has this to say: The Lulu Tyler Gates Co. presented the first number in the lecture course for this year on Friday night, October 19. The program was excellent in every particular. Seldom has a more capable gathering of artists been seen on the college stage than those making up this company.

Miss Adams, the cellist, plays with great feeling and perfect technique. Her splendid numbers fairly enraptured the large audience, and she was recalled for repeated encores.

Mr. Smith in his vocal selections also struck a popular chord in the audience, and came in for his share of applause.

The accompanist, Mr. Snyder, played but one solo selection, but appeared in all the musical numbers, and was heartily received.

Mrs. Gates, of course, was the bright star of the evening. She is without doubt the best reader that has been heard in this city. Possessing a rich and wonderful voice, a handsome face and perfect figure, with a manner bewitching in its naturalness and perfect poise, she received an ovation from this college audience such as seldom excelled in the best theatres of the country by the first artists.
