H. C. Atwell Speaks at the Salem Cherry Fair.

"Homer C. Atwell of Forest Grove, president of the state horticultural society who was introduced by President F. W. Power, and who spoke in response to the address of welcome on the 'Fruit-Growers and the Labor Problem.' Mr. Atwell is a leading prune-grower of Washington county and expressed his joy at again being in Salem to take part in another horticultural gathering. He expressed his conviction that Salem is to be to Oregon what Des Moines is to Iowa and Lincoln to Nebraska—not only the capital of a mighty commonwealth, but a center of culture, of manufacture, and of commerce; and that the time would soon come when no transcontinental railroad reaching the Pacific northwest would consider its system complete without a line into Salem.

The speaker alluded to the progress made by Salem in horticultural matters and said its fame as a nursery center and its reputation as a prune-growing and prune-packing center had become world-wide.

He commented favorably upon the growing frequency of fruit exhibitions and expressed the hope that the Salem cherry festival would become a permanent annual event.

The speaker referred to the value of such exhibitions as stimulating the production of better fruit, by offering to the grower high standards of comparison; as conducive to good citizenship, by inciting growers to strive for the best attainable; as promoting immigration, by advertising our resources; and as attracting buyers, by informing them where superior fruit in large quantities is to be obtained.

The speaker referred to the labor situation, in the following language: "The unparalleled prosperity of the past two years has so stimulated production and development, in all lines, that the demand for labor greatly exceeds the supply. This condition is general throughout the country, and bears with especial severity on the fruit-grower, for these reasons:

"1st—He cannot secure sufficient labor at any reasonable price, because he can not offer steady employment the year.

"2nd—He can not afford to pay the wages which other industries are willing to pay.

"3d—His produce comes on with such a rush and in such volume, that he must have a great excess of labor, within a limited period, or lose his crop.

"Railroad building, logging, mining and house-building can adapt themselves to a scarcity of labor, without serious loss; but the cherries, berries, and prunes must be harvested at a certain time or not at all; and yet labor will flock to those other industries and leave the poor fruit grower to lose the results of his year's labor.

"Last year the prune growers of this Willamette valley lost 50 per cent of their crop, simply for want of sufficient help. This state of affairs is likely to continue indefinitely, especially on this coast, which is expected to furnish lumber for the whole country, from now on.

"Certainly such a condition merits serious consideration. We can not hope to ease the situation for many years by following President Roosevelt's suggestion relative to race suicide. A possibility of relief has been suggested in the adoption of the system, long in successful operation in the colonies of the British empire, whereby the government undertakes the importation, in limited numbers, of foreign laborers, under contract, to work in agricultural pursuits only, for a limited number of years, and under governmental espionage and regulation, such laborers to be returned to their homes, at the expiration of their term of service. The adoption of this plan would apparently be out of harmony with our political system.

"Our whole governmental fabric has been built up on the theory of protection to American labor. I heartily approve of this principle, believing it to be vital to the perpetuity of our free institutions; and I should sincerely deplore any attempt to overturn it; and yet, no matter how wise a law, or how sound a principle, there may arise a condition when a temporary modification of it may be not only wise but imperative.

"It appears to some that such a condition now confronts the fruit industry of this coast; and it might be well to consider whether the system I have alluded to could be adapted to our own labor. Any body of contract labor could be profitably engaged, when not employed in other agricultural pursuits, in the clearing of our stump and brush hillsides, and thus adding millions of dollars to our assessable valuation. It is to be understood, of course, in connection with this suggestion that, should labor conditions in this country change so that our own people were available for the work, these aliens would be returned to their native country.

In the first baseball game in the Yamhill County League played last Sunday between Carlton and McMinnville the former won out by a score of 6 to 5. It will be remembered that the Colts defeated Carlton on Decoration day by this same score. Those in the league are Carlton, McMinnville, LaFayette, Sheridan and Dayton.

Ray Giltner is at present employed by Wescott & Son who run an up-to-date general merchandise store at Gaston. They have just moved into their new store building and are doing a fine business.

Tunis McCreary and family who recently moved here from Camas, Washington are delighted with Forest Grove, with the schools and general conditions and will make this their home.

STATE ACTIVITY NOTES.

The banquet tendered to the Hon. James R. Garfield, Secretary of the Interior, at the Portland Commercial Club Saturday evening, was a most representative affair. Judge George H. Williams presided as toast master, and talks on behalf of Portland and Oregon were made by Gov. Chamberlain, Senate Fulton, State Senator Haines of Forest Grove, Judge Lowell of Pendleton, and others, while Secretary Garfield, Commissioner Ballinger of the General Land Office, F. H. Newell, Director of the Reclamation Service, and others responded on behalf of the visitors. The trip of these high officials of the Interior Department at this time is of especial importance to Oregon, as shown by the many prominent people from over the State who attended the banquet.

The successful organization of the Portland Country Club & Live Stock Association is assured. Nearly $100,000 of the $150,000 capital stock of the corporation has been subscribed. One of the crying needs of Oregon has been a permanent live stock association and the stock is being rapidly taken up.

All Oregonians will be gratified to learn of the organization of the Portland Rose Festival Association, assuring an annual rose show, and the wide publicity to be given future events will be a great benefit to the State generally.

A large and representative delegation left Monday to attend the banquet to Vice President Fairbanks at Seaside, given under the auspices of the Astoria Chamber of Commerce. The party will act as an escort to the Vice President on his return to Portland.

In six weeks more the colonist rates to Oregon will be in effect again, continuing for sixty days. In order to get the full benefit of them, every commercial organization should get busy with their correspondence with prospective settlers. During this vacation period the boys and girls have time to write their friends "back East" and tell them about the Oregon country. As an illustration of what can be accomplished by this means, the school children of a single district in one of our coast counties doubled the school population of that district merely through correspondence, necessitating the construction of a new school building.

A city can prosper only as far as the country which supports it prospers. The wonderful prosperity of Oregon is reflected in the building record of Portland for the six months ending June 30th. This city led the 34 principal cities of the country in the percentage of increase in building over the same period of last year, with a gain of 78 per cent.

Lower Rates on Condensed Milk.

The Harriman lines announce a substantial reduction in the freight rates on condensed milk in carload lots to Missouri river common points. The rate is now being published by the Northwestern railroads, but it is not known just yet when it will become effective. This will be within a short time, however. Formerly the rate was 85 cents a 100 pounds in carloads, and the new rate will be 75 cents. This applies to all factories on the Pacific Coast. This rate will be a decided help to the industry in the Pacific Northwest, which is constantly growing and is extending to new markets.—Oregonian.
