Is Cake, Fulton and Cake the combination?

What's the matter with Washington County having a fair?

Fast bicycle riding on the sidewalks should be prohibited for two reasons. First because it is dangerous and second, one riding bicycle will tear up more plank than a hundred pedestrians.

Banks and Cornelius are two of Washington County's growing and hustling towns. This is because they have within their limits hustling and enterprising people. May they grow more.

Those who believed Harry Orchard's story which he gave in the Haywood trial, are disappointed in the verdict acquitting the latter. But those who disbelieved it, and there are comparatively few—are also equally surprised that there wasn't a disagreement.

If the $20,000,000 fine—or whatever the amount is—was actually paid by the Standard Oil Company, instead of oil consumers, there would be some justice in the fine. But as it is a slight advancement in oil—over which no one seems to have any control except the company itself—the fine will soon be paid by the people.

Senator Foraker of Ohio, wants to be told by Secretary Taft who is to make a speech in that state in September, where he intends to start to revise the tariff which Foraker says Taft stands for. If neither of these men know where to begin let them ask the man who buys farm machinery; the man who buys railroad iron; the man who buys shoes—ask any consumer.

Joaquin Miller has declared that there is too much George Chamberlain in the state for him to try for the United States senatorship, but thinks there is a better opening for him for the presidency of the good old U. S. A. Perhaps when he travels over the states as he has over Oregon there will be too much Bryan, or, as a matter of fact, too much Roosevelt.

The recent reciprocity agreement between the German government and the United States which went into effect July 1, is causing the manufacturers whose goods have had the benefit of high tariff, to complain severely. Everyone admits that the tariff needs revising but no one seems willing to make the start, except in the case between the governments above mentioned when the president took the step opened for him by the act of Congress, July 24, 1897.

County School Supt. Case's annual report which was published in The News last week shows a healthy condition of the schools in this county, and it brings to mind the necessity of a county high school. There were 151 students turned out of the eighth grade schools this spring, who have no higher branch in which to secure a public education and for this reason a large percentage of this class will stop their learning at this degree. Some, or many we hope, will enter Tualatin Academy and finish up, but this is not likely as the cost begins too early in their rise. If there was a high school to prepare the student for the University, instead of the academy there would be more finished product than there is now.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

A Philadelphia man is building his own coffin. A man must have some diversion in a town like that.—Washington Post.

A Pittsburg judge has decided that suicide is not a crime. If not, it is usually a great mistake.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Scientists have discovered that pigs have souls, but probably they mean only the pigs that have four legs.—Philadelphia Press.

The latest Kentucky feud fight was at church. Some feudists were killed, but the serious thing was the disturbing of the congregation.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Mr. Fairbanks managed to get into the spotlight as a lifesaving hero just when some people thought his boom had gone down for the third time.—Washington Herald.

In the matter of the Tobacco Trust the Department of Justice is going to prove that it hasn't been neglecting its business by smoking up at a great rate.—Washington Times.

Czar Nicholas has been unable to please himself and the people of Russia at the same time, so he has decided to please himself and let the people make the most of it.—Buffalo Times.

If Japan and the United States can't be forced to fight, a scrap between Loeb and Metcalf would probably be the next best thing for a midsummer diversion.—New York Commercial.

We thought so. After all the excited surmise and debate over General Bell's statement that "there is something wrong in the army" it turns out that the general didn't say it.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Vice President Fairbanks has the consolation of thinking that there are probably more voters in this country who wouldn't refuse a proffered cocktail than there are voters who would.—Boston Globe.

The clamor over the Fairbanks cocktail is likely to continue until a package of cigarettes, a plug of tobacco or a poker deck is discovered in the pockets of one of the other presidential aspirants.—Washington Post.

HOWE'S OBSERVATIONS.

What is home without home cooking?

Drifting is the motive power of loafers.

About all some men are good for is to wear a campaign button.

Nearly every man complains of being greatly annoyed by fools.

If you don't look carefully after your own affairs, who do you imagine will?

A woman doesn't think a man cares for children if he refuses to let them impose on him.

There are lots of happy people but they are unnoticed in the noise the wretched make.

The "well enough" that some people are willing to leave alone doesn't have to be very good.

You often hear of a gambler winning large sums, but you never hear of him saving anything.

If the salary is large enough, there is no position so difficult that the average man isn't sure he can fill it.

There are many indications of bravery, but carrying a pistol in a peaceful community isn't one of them.

When people long for "a congenial soul," they mean some one who gives them the impression that they are pretty smart.

The real young can never see how anyone who is old could once have been good looking.

There would be more good complexions if women used more care in putting it on even.

Listen to any man long enough and you will hear him say: "They depend on me to do everything."

Most people adopt popular clamors in order to appear intelligent, rather than because they feel abused.

The average man is a great deal more apt to let his pleasure than his religion interfere with his business.

Talk with almost any man long enough, and he will tell you of a good position he has been offered in another town.

The man long ago gave up carrying a carpet bag, but you will still occasionally see on a train a woman with a bird cage.

Have you ever stopped to admire the self-control of the man who can pick up a lead pencil without marking on something?

There would be no scarcity of harvest hands if more young men learned

Colts Met Their Waterloo.

It gives us great pain and mental anguish, but we must say it: The Colts met their Waterloo last Sunday when they met the McMinnville contingent for the last game of the series of three, score 13 to 2. Thus the series goes to the visitors as it makes two matinees we have dropped.

Up to the seventh it was a nerve-racking exhibition and the strings of every fan were stretched to the limit, but in the fatal seventh the visitors opened up the ginger jar, filled the bases and "Maud" Holman pounded out a sizzling drive in left velct and trotted around the paths for a home run, bringing in the other men. Five scores were made in this canto and a like number in the eighth. After the swatfest in the seventh the Colts didn't seem to give a rap if they did die and the ball was thrown away on several occasions. If there had been some shifting of positions after the visitors began to land on Betties and Davis put in the box it might have been a more pleasant tale to record. For Davis certainly made good in charming style after he was placed on the knoll, not a man saw first and one of the lobsters chopped the ozone like he was making sauer kraut and bit the dust at the end of the firing line. Generally Betties doesn't warm up good till the last three innings but Sunday he was at a fine temperature during the introduction and up to the sixth. Moore has a pretty keen wing himself and could have made good as a relief.

But it is no use crying over spilled milk especially when we have a Condenser right here in town. McMinnville had a corking good team and one which nothing but errorless ball could have beaten. They did not make a costly error.

Maud the kicker didn't hardly open "her" head but certainly made hay while the sun shone. He pelted out a home run, three two-sackers, and two three-pillow bingles.

Swan and Rooper, both O. A. C. players, put up capital ball especially little Swan; he did his work on third station like a duck and had a beautiful wing to first. But he did not have the advantage of our own Willie Schultz much. Carey who got badly corked in the last half put up professional ball during the entire matinee.

Getter caught a fine game and looted bases charmingly. One of our scores was made by him and the other by Wirtz.

The crowd was one of the largest that has gathered to see baseball services in the Grove this year and was almost entirely free from all ragging, a feature which was entirely unlooked for. Not a fault could be found with the umpire's decisions. Line up:
