I stooped or lifted. Even at night the pain all there and mornings I awoke lame and sore,

A Tramp In Command.

[Copyright, 1907, by C. H. Satchell.]

During the Cuban revolution the American ship Curlew, carrying arms and ammunition to the Cubans, had among the crew a shanghai man entered by the name of Jones. He had been a tramp along the water front.
He had conversed with sailors. He knew all about first mates and second mates. To have "back talked" would have been to solicit a broken head.
The part of wisdom was to saw wood and say nothing until the steamer ran into Key West or some other port and then seek to make his escape. She ran down to the port named with the tramp keeping quiet, but doing a great deal of thinking. He wanted to take care of Jones and get back to New York without any scars to boast of.

The tramp's plan to desert the steamer didn't pan out. Men were stationed at the gangways to watch. The cargo of "sewing machines," as the boxes were marked, came aboard through the efforts of strange men, and when duly stored away under the hatches the Curlew put to sea. As she left the harbor a revenue cutter sent in search of her entered it. It was a bright, clear morning, but the captain of the cutter didn't see her. Even when his attention was called to her name he screwed up his eyes and winked and blinked and read her name backward and said he had never heard of such a craft as the Velruc. Jones had been patient and hopeful. Now he was mad and desperate. The others might run their heads into the lion's jaws if they would, but their death would not matter to the 80,000,000 of Americans left behind. As for him, he wanted to live on. As a tramp he was expected to live on. He had aims and ambitions to be carried out before being hanged or shot.
He therefore informed the second mate that he had objections to filibustering and demanded that the steamer at once be headed back. In return he was knocked down and jumped on.

For the next three days, while the Curlew was sneaking her way across the gulf and keeping an eye open for Spanish gunboats, all the officers and most of the crew made a football of Tramp Jones. Every few minutes he was knocked down or kicked or cuffed.
At least once an hour he engaged in a fight in which he was invariably worsted. They tried to batter the life out of him, but only succeeded in making him madder. He had just been kicked for the five hundredth time since leaving Key West when the sun went down, the tropical darkness descended, and with it came a fog thick enough to be cut with a knife.

The steamer had been crawling along the Cuban shore to hit the rendezvous.
In a bay not two miles away when the fog came down was a gunboat in ambush. She heard enough to be sure that a smuggler was at hand, but when she crept out of the bay the lookouts might as well have been blind men. She drifted and the smuggler drifted, and by and by they were within a quarter of a mile of each other.

The Spaniards gave themselves away by their voices. The crew of the Curlew were as whist as mice. Orders were issued to brain any man who spoke above a whisper. For fifteen minutes there was the silence of death aboard. Then the gunboat began firing into the fog at random. She fired shells that went screaming into space in a way to make the hair stand up. She fired solid shot that whizzed and groaned and hunted for something to mash.
She fired grapeshot that came aboard and struck down four trembling men.
A shot tore through the pilot house.
A shell made matchwood of a boat hanging at the davits. The Spaniards didn't know that they were hitting anything, but it was a good time to practice.

There were brave men aboard the filibusiter, but the firing drove them to cover, and they crouched and trembled like children. She was under a haphazard fire for half an hour, having four men killed and six wounded, and then the Spaniards steamed back into the bay and dropped anchor. She had blown the United States sky high, and her commander patted himself on the back. When the firing ceased Tramp Jones looked around to find himself the only man on deck. He had been kicked so often that he no longer felt fear. He realized that he was the time for the steamer to escape, and he went man hunting. He found the engineers and firemen in hiding in the coal bunkers. He hauled them forth and kicked them to their posts. He found captain and mates hiding in their staterooms. He swore at them. He cuffed them. He gave them the boot. He played basket ball with their carcasses until he had driven them to their stations. He found the roustabouts lurking and shivering and wondering why death lingered, and he tired his arms with cuffing and his legs with kicking. It was he who gave the order for the engines to back. It was he who gave a course out to sea. It was he who held the whole outfit up to the mark for three long hours, or until the Curlew finally crept into the rendezvous.

Then there was an awakening on the part of captain, mates and crew.
They shook off their fear and swarmed for Tramp Jones. He had humiliated them. He had taken command. He had made them look like 15 cents.
The tramp seized a handspike and fought nobly, but when he saw that they were too much for him he threw down his weapon, leaped overboard and swam through the sharks to the shore.

"Is it the captain that is?" inquired the Cuban general as the tramp reached the beach.
"Oh, no, my friend," was the reply.
"It is the captain that was. I have resigned my position." M. QUAD.

FOR SUMMER COTTAGES.

Fascinating Rattan and Willow Furniture in Artistic Guise.

There is a fascination, an attractiveness, about the new rattan and willow furniture that is irresistible. Never have furnishings for cottages, bungalows and porches been presented in such an artistic guise without in the least detracting from the simplicity

BRASS HATSTAND.

that is their chief charm. And it is not merely a question of old friends in new dress. In many instances it means entirely new designs or combinations of materials and colorings.

A willow chiffonier is one of the distinctive novelties, and its compactness and fine lines impart a note of attractiveness not characteristic of willow furniture; also in the willow group is a new table with leather top, the color scheme of this piece being exceptionally good. Maple and cane in combination have been so skillfully blended that they resemble bamboo, and in settees and armchairs they will contribute this summer to the decorative furnishing of many a porch and home, judging by the attention they have called forth.

For summer cottage use, though not in the willow, reed or bamboo class, is the hatstand here shown. It is of brass, arranged in tiers and intended for the main hall as a substitute for the old fashioned hatrack. Another artistic addition to cottage furnishings is a lamp on the order of the handsome one on view in the accompanying sketch. It is of copper in antique finish, with paper shade decorated in typical Japanese fashion.

COPPER LAMP SHADE.

Lemon Juice For Toilet Uses.

On every washstand a lemon or two should be kept. Nothing is better for the toilet than the juice of this fruit.
It is refreshing to the taste, and it is cleansing to the skin. A few drops squeezed into the water with which the teeth are cleaned not only will aid in keeping the tartar away from them, but it will also make the breath sweet and pure.

Lemon juice rubbed on the face aids in keeping the skin soft and fresh. If persistently used it will remove freckles, and when applied to the hands it will whiten them.

An excellent thing for the nails is to cut a lemon in half and dig the fingers vigorously into the pulp. This is a far better way of removing stains than by too hard rubbing or scrubbing with a brush, which injures the nails.

Two Iced Drinks.

Tea Nectar.—Make one and a half pints of tea and when it has drawn for three minutes pour it off into the bowl in which it is to be served. Sweeten to taste with white sugar, add the juice of a lemon and a wineglassful of brandy.
Ice for an hour, decorate with thin slices of lemon cut into quarters and serve in small glasses.

Coffee Nectar.—Sweeten some strong coffee to taste and to each pint add the juice of half a lemon and a wineglassful of brandy. Stand on ice for an hour and then serve in small glasses with a teaspoonful of whipped cream on each.

Eggshell Flowerpots.

Eggshells may be used to advantage in rearing delicate plants for trans-planting. The shells, cut in halves, are filled with earth and set in a box also containing dampened earth. A hole is made in the end of the shell to allow drainage. A single seed is then planted in each shell, which is easily broken when transplanting is done, without the slightest disturbance of roots.

This use of eggshells is the discovery of a gardener who claims that they are vastly superior to the little pots generally used for the purpose.

Wifehood as the Test of Womanhood.

The Good Woman Who Makes a Bad Wife.

Marriage was a serious thing to the grandparents and great grandparents of the present generation. No woman entered lightly upon wedlock. She knew that she was going to found a family, and that she must be equal to all the responsibilities of the position she assumed. She must be able to order her own household; to knit, sew, spin, make bread, butter, soap, candles, and indeed care for and clothe a whole family. She must not be craven when the whoop of the Indian warned of a dreadful ganger. She must stand by her husband, gun in hand.

How many women of to-day could undertake wifehood under such conditions? Few indeed. Not because the modern American woman lacks courage, but because she lacks as a rule the physical health which is the indispensable qualification for a life such as was lived by the women of the past.

That is why a good woman may be a bad wife. Virtue and goodness are excellent things in women, but to guide a house and bear children demands above all sound physical health.

WOMEN CONVICTS.

To a great number of women the house they live in is almost on a par with a prison. It is prison-like in the monotonous regularity of daily duties; prison-like in the absence of all pleasure in what is done or joy in the doing.
And the reason is to be found in womanly ill-health. Few women realize how intimately the general health is related to the health of the delicate womanly organs. A woman may suffer with heart "trouble," disorders of kidneys, liver or stomach, or with nervous prostration as a result of a diseased condition of the womanly organism. Many such women "doctor" for years for various diseases and wonder why they don't get better. They can't get better until the womanly organism is entirely cured of its diseases.

This is not theory. It is a statement of simple facts founded upon the testimony of hundreds of thousands of women who have been cured of womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. They had been just "dragging around" for years, with throbbing heads and aching backs, nervous, dyspeptic, miserable. The once fresh colored cheeks had grown sallow, the eyes were dull, the body had lost its plumpness. They had in numerous instances tried many doctors and medicines, exhausting the local medical skill at their disposal. At last some friend or neighbor who has personally proved the curative power of "Favorite Prescription" recommends the use of this medicine and that in almost every case means another sick woman made well and strong.

ASTONISHED THE DOCTOR.

"When I first wrote to you I did not think I could live till I could get an answer to my letter," says Mrs. Isaac S.
Harris, of Gayville, Yankton Co., S. Dak.
"At that time I did not tell you everything. When I wrote you I had just got home from the Hospital at Minneapolis, Minn. Had been there one month. Could not see as I was benefited any there, so I came home, thinking there was no help for me, and every one here said that I could not live. I would have sinking spells every day. Sometimes they would last an hour or more and I would be so weak it seemed almost impossible for me to breathe at all. Had night-sweats for three months, and my clothes would be just as wet as could be. Had uterine trouble also till I thought I would lose my mind; also had heart trouble so badly I did not know what to do. I suffered everything one could think of. We paid out so much money for doctoring, and there was nothing that did me any good till I consented to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and
'Golden Medical Discovery.' I did not have any faith in these medicines at all, but I am only too glad to say that in three days after taking the medicine I could see a change for the better. In a week I could sit up and then I commenced the treatment for uterine trouble.
In three weeks I was able to be around the house some. I have taken nearly twelve bottles of the medicine and still continue to take it. I am getting better right along, can ride or walk any place. I can never praise your medicine enough.

"The doctor here says that he never would have believed that your medicine could have done so much for any one if he had not seen what it has done for me. He also told me to keep on taking it, for he could not help me. I thank you a thousand times for your kind advice and for your medicine."

SAFE AND SURE.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is unrivaled as a safe and sure medicine for the cure of womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It is the best preparative for motherhood, giving vigor to the body and buoyancy to the mind. It so strengthens the organs of maternity that it makes the baby's advent practically painless. A tonic for nursing mothers it has no equal. It increases the nutritive secretions and strengthens and nourishes both child and mother.

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free.
All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr.
Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Accept no substitute for "Favorite Prescription." There is nothing "just as good" for weak and sickly women.

A WONDERFUL BOOK.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical
