PROF. FRANK TAYLOR

Chosen as Prof. Marsh's Successor
Miss Yancey Succeeds
Mr. Coons.

Professor Frank C. Taylor of Nebraska succeeds Joseph W. Marsh as teacher in Latin and Greek, who had held the chair of classics for more than forty years in Pacific University. Prof. Taylor began his schooling in Massachusetts, combined it in Michigan and later in Nebraska. His preparation for college was made at Franklin Academy. In 1890 Prof. Taylor received his A. B. degree from the University of Nebraska, making the classics his major work. He took special work in Sanskrit and other languages. Prof. Taylor comes to his present position from a successful thirteen years as academy principal at Weeping Water Nebraska. The school feels confident that they have secured in Professor Taylor a valuable member to the University.

Prof. Frank C. Taylor

Miss Yancey of Missouri takes Mr. Coons place as instructor in the academy. Miss Yancey was graduated from Hardin College in 1903 of which institution her father is president. Between the years 1903-07 took work at the University of Missouri receiving her A. B. degree in 1907.

The New Hall.

The opening of Herrick Hall was most informal nevertheless family life goes on with the old time regularity. Although part of the house is still unfinished the girls' rooms on the second and third floors are practically in order. The dining room, also, is complete, even to the light fixtures. The furniture and pretty china provided by the generosity of a Portland gentleman make it the most attractive dining room connected with any of our colleges. Even with the parlors still unfinished the general comfort of the family is greater than under the cottage plan of last year. Each day now sees some advance in details that give completeness to the spacious building and it will not be long until the whole house is in order. The ladies of the First Congregational church of Portland have given furniture for the parlors which will soon be finished. They will be homelike and beautiful. The Working Society of the Congregational church of Forest Grove will furnish the Reception Room with mission furniture. These pleasant surroundings and the added charm of an open fire on winter evenings or Sunday afternoons promise a cheerful resort for the large family. In addition to these gifts individual friends or churches have kindly promised to give the money for some of the girls' rooms. It is by such generosity that the furnishing of so large a building in a manner appropriate to the dignified plans of the architect is made possible.

The greatly increased number of girls who have applied for rooms is sufficient assurance that such a home is a necessity of college life. Many of the girls were in the old Hall at the time of the fire. Their appreciation of the new home is shared by all the other girls and their cheerfulness under temporary inconvenience has been most helpful to those who have the household in charge. It is eighteen months since the fire and it is refreshing to see the eastern side of the campus enlivened with the girls who are again at home. Sunday afternoon the chestnut tree was the meeting place both for young men and young women, while Miss Yancey read "The King of the Golden River." Until the parlors can give a common meeting place it is hoped fine weather will permit Sunday afternoon readings under the chestnut tree. In a few weeks, however, we promise our friends a house warming which will afford an opportunity to see how attractive a home is provided for the young women of Pacific University.

Conservatory Notes.

The music department of Pacific University has a more promising opening than ever before in the history of the conservatory. The registration of the past week was unusually large, and if it is continued as customary throughout six or eight weeks, will give a large percentage of increase over preceding years. The large number of students already studying in this department has necessitated the purchase or rent of several additional pianos.

There are now on the conservatory staff eight teachers. Those beginning work here for the first time are Miss Sheehy, Miss Sewell and Miss Lieser in the piano department and Miss Hartley in the vocal department. Miss Sheehy comes here from Portland and was for some time a student under William Sherwood the noted pianist and teacher of Chicago.

Miss Sewell and Miss Leiser are students of our own conservatory and being among the most talented of those studying here are sure of success in their work. Miss Hartly is also a student of Pacific University conservatory, and of Mrs. Walter Reed, the well known contralto of Portland. This last year she has had a large class of her own in Hood River.

All the conservatory work is under the personal supervision of Prof. and Mrs. Chapman and with such advantages it is expected that this year will be the most prosperous ever enjoyed.

PROSPECTS FOR FOOTBALL

Game Saturday with High School.

Last year, prospects for foot-ball in Pacific looked rather gloomy, only two or three of the entire squad were foot-ball men. This year out of the squad of 15 first team men of last year, twelve are present. Last year it was necessary to whip a team into shape out of entirely green material. This year the following named gridiron veterans are present and will be out for strenuous practice from Monday on, Humphreys, Waterman, Lawrence, Bryant, Gwynn, Abrahams, J. Ward, C. E. Ward, A. C. Allen, Brown, Aller, and H. E. Ferrin. We also have the addition of Jasper Williams, who played star ball on Columbia University team last year. Besides these several are eligible to foot-ball honors, with the necessary practice. Archie Hahn is expected the first of the week. Games are scheduled with several teams of the state. Next Saturday Pacific will meet Portland High School on the home grounds. As this is the first foot ball game Pacific has had with the high school for several years it is up to the students to back the foot-ball team with that "do or die spirit" which cannot lose. Every man should be out on the field for practice every day from now on. We owe this both to our coach and our "alma mater."

CAP AND GOWN CAUSE ROW

Seniors at Pacific Disrupted Over Question.

The question of cap and gown is threatening to disrupt the senior class. Following the time-honored custom of this university one faction of the class, together with certain members of the faculty, hold that it would not do for the class to be graduated without appearing in scholastic garb. These say that the robes lend dignity to the commencement season and that a long established custom should not lightly be thrown aside.

There is another faction that maintains this custom is undemocratic and should be discarded. They say that it is needless folly and expense, and that it is time the University broke away from it. This latter faction has obtained many supporters among the undergraduate body, and the outcome of the fight is awaited with interest.

The question caused a stormy time at the meeting for the organization of the senior class, which was held behind closed doors. The discussion grew so warm that order was maintained with difficulty. It was not settled, however, and still hangs fire to come up again at a future meeting. The class was organized and the following officers elected: President, Herbert Hayes Arnston; vice president, Estler E. Silverman; secretary, Gordon Clapp; treasurer, D. L. Allen; sergeant-at-arms, S. B. Lawrence; class poet, Frances Clapp.

A College Band Organized.

Under the direction and leadership of Vernon Gould, a University band has been organized. It is the first time in our history that the institution has had a purely student band. The students in the company represent nearly every class in school. The band is composed of the following members: Gould, Markee, Hope, C. Brown, Fowler, Knight, Gwinn, Bryant, J. Ward, T. Holmes and Jessie.
