quote the book from cover to cover. It was suggested to him that he was getting part of his punishment in the cell but he says "no, that is no punishment." He and his wife own considerable property at Hillsboro.

Mrs. M. J. Barth formerly of Council Grove, Kansas, but now of Los Angeles, is here visiting her daughter Mrs. Walter Rosewurm. Mrs. Barth likes Oregon and Forest Grove so well that she may induce her husband to move here in preference to California.

I. M. Clark, wife and daughter, Miss Morgie, of Lincoln, Neb., are spending a few days with J. W. Stillwell and family of this city. They are on their way to points in California to spend the winter. They were old friends of the Stillwells back in Nebraska.

Dr. Ward reports to The News this morning that the school house will be thoroughly fumigated, but wanted the attention of the public called more particularly to the condition of the toilets at the school where nearly 500 children are obliged to go. He insists that that is where the disease we are now fighting comes from.

The two gypsies that were lodged in the county jail last week on account of their peculiar actions in gaining a lodging have been released. Nothing could be found against them and they had recommendations from different towns showing that no licenses had been charged them for selling their trinkets.

The somewhat disturbed financial situation in the East and South is causing industrial institutions in the older states to investigate the opportunities for a more advantageous home in the great Pacific Northwest, or at least this would be indicated by the fact that the Portland Commercial Club has had more correspondence on this subject within the last sixty days than during the previous twelve months.

Miss Josephine Baber entertained the Quienientos club last Friday afternoon. Mrs. Wilbur McEldowney won the prize which was a beautiful hand painted cup and saucer. Those present were: Mesdames Frank Gordon, John McCrum, Arthur Caples, Charles Hines, Mayne Abbott, Willis Goff, Wilbur McEldowney; and Misses Josephine Baber, Bertha Williams, Maud Buxton, Dollie Hinman and Minnie Myers.

Hugh Smith has just heard from Peter Peterson that he is much improved. Mr. Peterson has been very seriously ill since the latter part of December and last week the doctors thought they would have to raise his scalp to remove puss from his brain. He had the headache for the past two years which has probably been caused from the accumulation of this puss on the brain. His many friends in this city are very glad to hear of his improvement.

Hon. Ed. H. Webster, chief of the Dairy Division of the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, has notified W. L. Crissey, Secretary of the Oregon State Dairy Association, that he will arrange to have one or more government representatives in attendance upon the State Dairy meetings of both Oregon and Washington during the present year, 1908. December 10th and 11th have already been chosen as the date of the Oregon meeting.

Ben Schnorr, who is not so sleepy as his name would indicate, is languishing behind the county bars because he tried to pull off a "stunt" at Garden Home recently. Ben had been working for a rancher at the place in question and took it into his head to get part of his entrepreneur's coin easier than through toil. He crawled under the house with brace and bit and proceeded to bore a series of holes in the floor. However the brace did not help him a bit and he is now waiting for a preliminary trial.

At their last meeting the Odd Fellows had a big feed and installation of the following officers: A. L. Sexton, noble grand; Hiram Gould, vice grand; R. M. Taylor, secretary; S. E. Todd, treasurer; John Kelsen, warden; Chas. W. Mertz, conductor; H. H. Clark, right supporter; L. G. Morley, left supporter; R. C. Walker, Outside guard; Miles Watrous, inside guard. On January 22, the Odd Fellows will institute a grand encampment, the third degree of the fellowship, and prominent members will be in attendance from Portland including Grand Master Richard Scott.

The immigration to Oregon and Washington this year ought to be double that of last. In no other two states has every character of crop yielded so enormously and commanded such a high price. People in the older communities are disposed to move, and the Pacific Northwest should get more than its proportion of new citizens, but to accomplish this all the commercial bodies must work in harmony and individuals must participate through private correspondence, which is the strongest influence of all.

Mrs. A. L. Sexton and Miss Alice Curtis went down to Kelso the first of the week to attend the wedding of Miss Ora Curtis and Scott Thompson at the home of the groom's parents at high noon today. The bride has been a student in Tualatin academy here for some months and her parents live at Silver City, Idaho. The groom is a brother of Miss Grace Thompson of the Paris millinery of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside at Kelso after a trip to Seattle and other Sound cities.

Two well known people formerly of this city will be united in marriage this evening at Santa Rosa, California, when Miss Mae Hinman will become the bride of Lee Boyd. Miss Hinman left for California Tuesday and was met at Sacramento by Mr. Boyd. They will make their home in Santa Rosa, where the groom has a good position. The bride is the daughter of Carl Hinman and was raised and received her education in this city. Mr. Boyd formerly attended Tualatin Academy and was a member of the college track team. These parties have a host of friends in this city who wish them many successes in life's career.

Just the other day a young lad seventeen or eighteen years of age traded a pistol to a twelve year old school boy of this city. The little fellow took the man-killer over to school with his pockets full of loaded shells, and had great sport out of the dangerous weapon. When his teacher was out of the room he pointed the pistol around in different directions and snapped it as he would a toy gun and in the evening a crowd of boys gathered in the basement and shot to their hearts' content. Professor Wilkerson seized the pistol and has it in his possession. To avoid trouble actions as that of the big boy should be discontinued.

MEETING A CROCODILE.

The Animal and the Hunters Were All Taken by Surprise.

While looking for a hippopotamus it was the fortune of the author of "Uganda to Khartum" to encounter a crocodile under somewhat unusual circumstances. He was following a fresh track leading through the dense undergrowth from the lake inland. Two men accompanied him, one carrying his camera and the other his second gun, while he shouldered his rifle.

Suddenly I heard a rustling noise in front of me and realized that some creature was approaching, but what? It could not be the hippo, because there was no thunderous tread, but I had no time to think, for the creature, whatever it might be, was upon me in a second.

At two yards I discovered what it was—an immense crocodile more than twelve feet long.

I was right in its path, and there was no possible escape on either side, so I stood still with my rifle at shoulder and waited. The "crocodile" did not wait, however, and in some remarkable way it hustled me to one side, almost knocked me over, and endeavored to make his way to the water.

To dispute his right of way would have been folly. I realized only a horrible, soft, wriggling mass pressing against my legs in a most sickening way. Why he did not bite me I do not know. At first I thought he had done so as he brushed against my leg, but I found it was only his horny scales that scraped my shin. And he was more taken by surprise than I was and forgot all about his huge jaw and the lasting impression he might have made upon my legs.

After he had passed I turned to see how the men would fare. One had got back to the shore and so was no longer in view. The other man with the camera was the funniest sight. His head was stuck fast in the thick brambles, and his legs were in the air, the camera of course in the mud beside him.

I do not think the "crocodile" could have seen him, for he had literally taken a header into the bush, and his legs were far above the crocodile's jaws.

Business Hours in Honolulu.

Business manners in Honolulu lack the strain and flurry of the mainland city. The hard, white, anxious Chicago face no man wears here. The dodging and hurrying to go around the man in front are never seen. The accent of life is on men, not money or machines. There is not much doing before 10 o'clock, and at 4 the safes are locked, the desks are shut, and the men who do things are off for a ride or a swim or a game of tennis. Here a man does his business.—Chicago News.

The Drew Automatic Carrier

To the Dairy Farmer: The Drew Automatic Carrier cannot fail to appeal to you affording a splendid opportunity of improving your business operations.

First—By saving time and labor, which means reducing cost of production.

Second—By insuring cleanliness which means increased value of your products and healthier live stock.

Third—By greatly enhancing the value of the stable manure, through not allowing the liquid portion to be lost in wheeling or pitching from one place to another.

These are a few of the advantages derived from installing an Automatic Drew Carrier, but they are enough to show the business farmer that it is one of the best paying investments he can make.

The following testimonials speak for themselves:

Mitchell, Lewis & Staver Co.,
Portland, Oregon.

Gentlemen—In reply to your enquiry will say that the Drew Carrier is ALL RIGHT. No man with five cows can afford to do without one as a labor saving device. There is nothing can be put in a barn that will equal it. I would do without a hay fork sooner than a Drew Carrier. A Drew Carrier is used 365 days in the year and a hay fork only in haying time, and further the manure saved from 5 cows and 3 horses over the usual way will pay for the outfit in one year.

I have a cheap Iron Truck with a flat rack suitable for hauling hay on 7x14 tight bottom. Nine months out of the year this outfit stands where the manure is dumped on it and when loaded is spread upon the land. I save the manure and the labor of taking it up off the ground.

Yours truly,
A. W. GILLIS.

I ordered an automatic litter carrier last fall and it works fine. The best labor saving device on the farm.

Yours respectfully,
C. C. STERLING.

New Ulm, Minn., Jan. 18, 1907.

The carrier works very good, and I am much satisfied with it.

Yours truly,
A. W. BERGSTROM.
