EXHIBITION OF STUDENTS WORK.

Excellent Exhibit of Mechanical Drawing and Art Classes in Marsh Hall Saturday.

Contrary to her usual custom of giving only one exhibition a year, Miss Bain gave a semi-annual exhibition of students work Saturday. Several new features were added to the exhibition this year which included poster work, mechanical drawing, china painting and a casting from the clay modeling class.

That a number of the students are taking an active interest in poster work and are making rapid progress was clearly shown. The poster class has not confined itself to mere poster work but also to reproductions in crayon of landscapes, figures and to pen sketches. To most observers the exhibit was a revelation of the possibilities in this line of art for developing an appreciation of the beautiful, and much credit is due to Miss Bain for her success in bringing out this expression of feeling.

The exhibition, however, was not confined entirely to posters but in-

PACIFIC DEBATORS MEET.

Japanese Question Thoroughly Discussed, Decision Rendered in Favor of the Negative.

The second practise debate of the college teams took place in Gamma Sigma hall last Wednesday evening. Both the Philomathean and Alpha Zeta societies postponed their meetings and supplied a good audience for the contest.

Those who attended the first debate noticed the improvement made by both teams in the last week. The teams took their own sides of the question, and this fact, together with the added preparation made the debate very interesting to the hearers. The rebuttal work, which was very satisfactory, showed that the men are getting the question well in hand. The judges for the evening were Prof. Chambers, Dr. Boggess, and Prof. Ben Kori; their decision was in favor of the negative. After the debate the faculty members who were present criticized the debate and various parts of the argument used.

THIRD YEAR GIRLS VICTORS.

Win Basket Ball Game From Second Year Girls by a Score of 12 to 9.

The interest manifested in the game Thursday evening between the girls of the third and second year classes of the Academy shows that basket ball as a sport is not dead among the girls of the institution. The strict prohibition placed upon games of this kind, make it impossible for any degree of success to be attained in the game as a college sport. And if it is dead as a college sport, how can local enthusiasm possibly be effective? Much might be said on the subject, but suffice it to say that the game Thursday was full of spirit, considering the restrictions placed upon it.

The game was not one sided. Indeed all of the girls played well. The third years perhaps showed better team work and were evidently more versed in the game. The work of Miss Avery for the second years however almost counterbalanced this and at the end of the 1st half the score was 9 to 6 in favor of the 3d years. The second half did not change the relative standing of the score, the final points being 12-9 in favor of the third years. Miss Koerner sustained a severe ankle sprain during the game and her place was filled by Miss Smith. Coach Hahn referred the game.

The line up of the teams was as follows:

3d Years	2nd Years
Peterson (Capt)	Center McDonald
Todd	(Allsworth (Cpt))
Koerner	Guards
Smith	(Weist)
E Allsworth	Forwards
Bishop	(G Thomas)
	(Avery)
	(Ireland)

Miss Farnham Presents Famous Pictures to Herrick Hall.

Any gift to the institution is always a source of pleasure to the students for as long as they are in school they can either use or enjoy it. This is especially true with regard to the gift of ten beautiful pictures by Miss Farnham. These pictures, which are uniformly framed in dark brown frames, have been hung in the lower corridor and the reception room of Herrick Hall. The pictures add much to the beauty of the furnishings and the institution feels greatly indebted to Miss Farnham for her gift.

The pictures are reproductions in sepia of the following master-pieces: The Sistine Madonna..... Raphael The Immaculate Conception..... Murillo Dance of the Nymphs, Morning. Corot The Fighting Temeraire..... Turner Portrait of Mona Lisa..... Da Vinci The Nativity..... Corregio The Gleaners..... Millet The Syndics of the Cloth Guild..... Rembrandt Spring..... Botticelli Surrender of Breda..... Velasquez

Kappa Delta.

Kappa Delta society held a very pleasant meeting last Thursday evening. The program was unusual, being briefly a "clever stunt" by each member. They were all very clever, ranging from book reviews, piano and vocal solos to funny stories.

The business meeting immediately followed the program. This is the last meeting for this semester.

Evening on Rollers

One of the most enjoyable skating parties of the season was given last Friday evening by C. Franklin Koch. The crowd was congenial, the chaperons delightful and every one aided in making the skate a great success.

Those present were the Misses Stearns, Bollinger, Wilson, H. Chalmers, Whealdon, H. Allsworth, Bowie, M. Templeton, Elder, Lake, Harbison, Peterson, E. Fletcher, Hoge, Hoffman, Rasmussen, Chandler, Messrs. Miller, Weather, d. Humphreys, A. Robinson, Koch, Mason, Imlay, R. V. Abraham, R. I. Abraham, J. Ward, C. E. Ward, H. E. Ferrin, Hope, R. Abraham, Peterson, Bryant, Peters, Mrs. Cook and Prof. Cook acted as chaperons.

Y. W. C. A.

Dr. Grenfell's work in Labrador was the subject of last week's meeting. It proved one of deep interest. Miss Goldie Peterson, the leader, gave a brief sketch of Dr. Grenfell's life. An Oxford graduate with promise of a brilliant future as a physician. He gave up his plans to work among the poor fisher folk of Labrador.

Instructive papers on his work and the people were given by Misses Florence Templeton and Grace Thomas. Selections were read from "Dr. Grenfell's Parish."

His life is one of true heroism and missionary devotion. The hospitals he has had established are of an immeasurable benefit to the people.

Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Walker spoke about conditions and customs in China. The method and effect of binding women's feet; the distinction and separation of classes; superstition, education and briefly of Y. M. C. A. work there.

At the close of the meeting a class for the study of China was organized with Prof. Chambers as leader. The class will begin work with the new semester, and will use Smith's "Uplift of China."

Miss Hartley was in Portland Friday.

Principal Bates was in Gaston Friday.

Miss Whealdon's sister spent Sunday with her.

Miss Frances Abernethy was out from Portland Saturday.

A. C. Allen visited his "cousins" in Hillsboro Thursday.

Mr. Gwynn's brother has been visiting him for the past week.

John Peters was visiting on the campus Thursday and Friday.

The local Oratorical contest takes place in Marsh Hall Friday evening.

Examinations will occupy students attention this week.

Miss Edith Allsworth was the guest of Miss Goldie Peterson, Saturday and Sunday.

One thing Pacific needs more than a new gymnasium, is to have the old one swept out.

S. B. Lawrence goes to Monmouth Saturday to attend a meeting of the State Oratorical Association.

Miss Koerner has been confined to her room, the result of a sprained ankle received in the basket ball game Thursday evening.

Word has been received announcing the engagement of Chester Fletcher ex. '06 to Miss Helen Palmer of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Miss Nora Emmel T. A. '06, who is now a member of the Sophomore class of Willamette University, will lead the girls' debating team which is to meet McMinnville.

Mr. R. A. Baldwin, a former student at Pacific is leader of one of the Debating teams and a member of another at the University of Mexico. He is still working on the Ship Subsidy question.

The Athletic Committee has recently selected a committee consisting of Lawrence Ferrin and Ward to arrange for a minstrel show, the proceeds of which entertainment to be applied to athletics. It is urged that students who desire to help in such an enterprise, should give their suggestions, appropriate songs, or anything that would aid in making this entertainment a success, to this committee. Seventy-five dollars is needed to meet Pacific's athletic undertakings.

IN QUEST OF AN HEIR.

The Great Napoleon and What Might Have Been.

Had Josephine borne Napoleon an heir the history of France and indeed all Europe must have been very different. In the hours of triumph after Wagram Napoleon realized that had the young German fanatic who had come to attempt his life been successful in his mission one thrust from that vulgar kitchen knife which the lad concealed would have shattered all the glories whose fashioning had caused such rivers of blood to flow. He resolved upon the divorce of Josephine. He would take as his wife a princess and found a dynasty. Whom should he marry? Should it be a princess of the Russian royal house or a princess of another? He slept in the palace of the man whom he had but newly reconquered, the emperor of Austria, and slept, as fate would have it, in the very room in which the heir for whom he prayed was destined to die. Under the roof of the son of the Caesars he resolved to marry that man's daughter. A little while earlier she had heard that the tide of battle had turned against the French and had written to her father: "We have heard with great joy that Napoleon was present at the battle which was lost. If he would only lose his head as well!" The writer of the words became, ten months after the French troops entered Vienna as conquerors, the bride of the man whose death she now wished.

She was the granddaughter of Marie Antoinette, and by his marriage to her Napoleon believed it would be the salvation of France. A man wiser in the matter than himself had pointed to a Russian marriage, foreseeing renewed hostilities with either Austria or Russia. Napoleon, he said, knew his way to Vienna; he doubted whether he knew the road to St. Petersburg. Napoleon chose to find, as he afterward said, that the marriage was but an abyss strewn with flowers. The marriage led inevitably to the calamitous Russian campaign and to the breakup of his empire. His ruin began with his marriage to the princess who was to be the mother of his child. All France acclaimed the union with joy, which was eclipsed only by the birth of the heir.—St. James' Gazette.

BIRDS' EGGS.

Two infinitesimal white eggs tax the tiny nest of the lovely humming bird.

The catbird in her scrupulous-like nest lays four to six blue green eggs.

Four to six little white eggs are laid in the domestic phoebe bird's beautiful and finished nest.

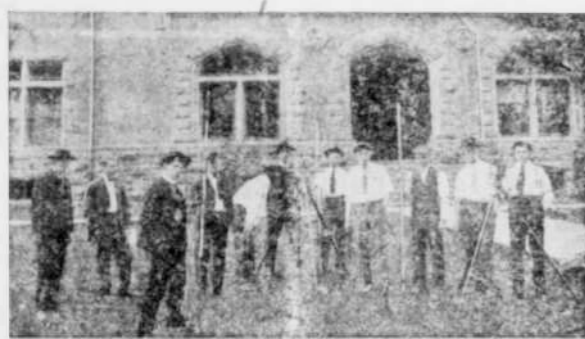

Blue white eggs of the bobolink may actually be stumbled over as one walks along the high grass.

The mocking bird, of romantic fame, lays from four to six speckled green eggs in her loosely done nest.

Two white eggs occupy the mourning dove's home, which stands for the poorest sort of bird housekeeping.

One of the best architects in the world is the oriole. Its graceful nest contains four to six whitish eggs marked with black and brown.

Olive gray eggs with brown spots (five of them) occupy the blue jay's bulky nest in a tree crotch high above the ground.—St. Louis Republic.

Engineering Class of 1907. Now doing special work in Mechanical Drawing.

ADDRESS BY REV. NODELL.

He Speaks Upon the Sacred Things of the Nation and of the Drink Evil.

Rev. Nodell representing the Anti-Saloon League gave a very interesting address at the regular Wednesday chapel exercises.

The subject of Rev. Nodell's address was "The Sacred Things of the Nation." and it was characterized by deep earnestness and intensity. The sacred things of this nation as outlined briefly by the speaker are our manhood and womanhood, our homes, the cradle and the flag, and the cross. Each one of these things is of vital force in our national life and they must be kept pure and unspotted from things that can in any way mar them. Our whole success as a nation depends upon them and anything that will harm them we must overcome and put away from us. Continuing this line of thought the speaker mentioned the great evil of intemperance and showed how its influence affected every one of these sacred things. He brought home to the minds of his hearers our great responsibility to fight and overcome this monstrous evil. His appeal was very earnest to young men and women to throw themselves into this great conflict. The use of well known incidents aptly illustrated the speaker's thoughts.

Rev. Nodell impresses one as an earnest, forceful speaker. He is at present traveling through the state of Oregon as the representative of the Anti-saloon League.

Philomathean.

The Philomatheans met Wednesday evening at the usual time, but after holding a short business meeting adjourned until the next evening, when an interesting program was given. The first number was a vocal solo by Miss Thomas. This was well received as was also the selection chosen as an encore.

The debate "Resolved; That European Immigration is Detrimental to the United States" could not be given in full, since one of the debaters was absent but informal talks were given on the subject by Misses Hoge, Allsworth and Whealdon. Miss Templeton read an instructive paper on "The Religion of the Immigrant." "The Tragedy of the Immigrant" by Miss Holmes told the sad condition of those foreigners who are restricted by our immigration laws from landing. It was well told and held the undivided attention of all. Miss Leabo acted as critic.

Miss Ora Curtis, a former student in the Academy, was married last week to J. S. Thompson of Catlin, Wash.

cluded a number of plates from the mechanical drawing classes in both college and academy. These received much favorable comment on account of their neatness and accuracy. Miss Sewell exhibited several oil sketches taken from the campus and Miss Inez Luce a cast of Della Robbia's "Singing Angel." Mrs. Barber's work was represented by several hand painted cups and plates.

Miss Mary Heidel's "Boyhood," Miss Silverman's "Oasis" and Miss Hawley's "Golden Hour" received a great deal of admiration as did also the poster work of Miss Christine Wilson, Miss Ruby Wilson, Miss Avery and Miss Zumwalt and others.

Be Cheerful.

We have no use for people who are continually fretting. This in some becomes habitual. The weather never suits them. The climate is trying. It is too hot or too cold. It is as common as the air to hear the people grumble. Watch an ordinary coming together of people and see how many minutes it will be before somebody frets, that is, makes more or less complaint about something. It is simply astonishing how much annoyance and discomfort may be found in the course of everyday living. Some people always seem to be hunting for deformities, discords and shadows instead of beauty and harmony, and light. How true it is that if we are cheerful and contented all nature smiles with us; the air seems more balmy, the sky more clear, the earth a brighter green, the trees have a richer foliage, the flowers are more fragrant and the birds sing more sweetly. A habit of cheerfulness enabling one to transmute apparent misfortunes into real blessings is a fortune to a student. If the blind Helen Keller with all her misfortunes can look on the bright side of life and write a book on optimism, how much more cheerful should we be in possession of all our faculties.

Studio Party.

Friday evening Miss Bain and Miss Luce entertained a few friends in the Art Studio at Herrick Hall. The greater part of the evening was spent in making a plaster cast of one of Della Robbia's singing angels modeled by Miss Luce. Each one present came prepared to suggest a name for the baby but none was decided upon definitely. Principal Bates presented it with a silver spoon. Much merriment was caused by the names suggested and all those present were deeply interested in the making of the mould for the cast.

After the mould was made refreshments of chocolate and cake were served. Those present were, Miss Farnham, Prin. Bates, Prof. Chambers, Misses Silverman, Heidel, Leiser, Lowell, Bain and Luce.
