Mr. Bryan's Economy.

From the Washington Star, Ind'.

Economy is a good cry, but to be effective it must be illustrated, so to say. Particulars as to extravagances complained of and as to promised retrenchments must be given.

This is the difficulty with Mr. Bryan's latest campaign deliverance. It is not sufficiently specific. Appropriations have grown. But so has the country. The army and navy are costing more than ever before. But they are doing more work than ever before. Would Mr. Bryan halt the country's growth? Would he reduce the army to the old skeleton figure, and stop all additions to the navy?

Let us see how that sort of retrenchment would work with the Bryan policies in force.

The peerless leader would have us haul down the flag immediately in the Philippines, turn the country over to the natives, and warn the outside world to keep hands off as to the native control. But what would such a warning be worth in the face of the continued growth of the naval power of other nations and the decay of our own? What power would heed it? We should in issuing it simply make ourselves a laughing stock.

Then suppose we should brandish a sword in the face of the Orient, Japan in particular, on the general proposition of Asiatic immigration, inviting trouble and certain to provoke it. If we had cut off naval increase and put that service on short commons, what would inevitably be the result? War, with this government unprepared, and European sympathy scant because of our cheese-paring policy toward our National defense. We should occupy the ridiculous attitude of having made a bluff without the means of supporting it.

As to other things, Mr. Bryan should know, and does know, that there has been as much Democratic as Republican support for pensions, for improving rivers and harbors, for public buildings, for extending rural free delivery, and all such matters. When what is called the "pork barrel" is opened, as many Democratic as Republican arms are thrust in, and both sides draw out as large slices as they can seize.

If Mr. Bryan reaches the White House he will want Congress to do for him, and so he will be obliged to do for Congress. He will find himself powerless if he vetoes appropriations right and left in order to redeem campaign deliverances about economy. Bills will be passed over his vetoes—for appropriation bills are always popular—while measures he desires will find hard sledding, and may not get through at all. Uncle Sam's establishment requires a good deal of money, and stinting it would not be economy, but, in the end, the very opposite.

Gov. Hughes was nominated for governor of New York state on the first ballot. There seems to be no question of his election and the subsequent carrying the state for Taft.

The Taft clubs of this state are not Bourne-Taft, Fulton-Taft nor Cake-Taft. Just plain Taft, that's enough.

The Republicans of Forest Grove are to organize a Taft club. Hurrah!

"BRYAN'S POLICIES DESTRUCTIVE."

Mr. Taft Compares Republican and Democratic Platforms.

(From Mr. Taft's Speech of Acceptance.)

The chief difference between the Republican and the Democratic platforms is the difference which has heretofore been seen between the policies of Mr. Roosevelt and those which have been advocated by the Democratic candidate, Mr. Bryan. Mr. Roosevelt's policies have been progressive and regulative; Mr. Bryan's destructive. Mr. Roosevelt has favored regulation of the business in which evils have grown up so as to stamp out the evils and permit the business to continue. The tendency of Mr. Bryan's proposals has generally been destructive of the business with respect to which he is demanding reform. Mr. Roosevelt would compel the trusts to conduct their business in a lawful manner and secure the benefits of their operation and the maintenance of the prosperity of the country of which they are an important part; while Mr. Bryan would extirpate and destroy the entire business in order to stamp out the evils which they have practiced.
