boys left Portland a year ago this fall, and it is supposed that they undertook to ride down the river in a boat which upset and caused them to drown. A dog which accompanied them appeared at the home of one of the boys some weeks after they left Portland. The finding of Larouge's body clears up the mystery of their disappearance.

Mrs. D. B. Roe of Mountindale, killed a fine deer recently near her home. Her little son went down to the creek and saw the deer. He ran and told his mother, who caught up her rifle and made her way quickly to a place near where the deer was drinking. She shot it through the neck and it fell into the creek. For fear it was not dead Mrs. Roe shot the deer in the head again but it did not move showing that it was killed by the first shot. When her husband arrived home he brought the deer to the house in a wheel barrow and dressed it. It was a fine buck in the blue and weighed 150 pounds after being dressed.

A Great Artist.
On completing a fine painting always puts his name at the bottom; he is proud of it and well he might be for it has taken time, labor, money and patience to produce it.

Likewise with good, honest, well tailored clothing.
