O. C. Donelson of this city, while hunting on the Dudley Mill ranch, shot and killed a big Eastern Oregon jack-rabbit, last Sunday. They are not often met with on this side of the Cascades, and should they get a foothold here would prove to be a great pest. They multiply rapidly and seem to take a special delight in girdling fruit trees. The one shot by Mr. Donelson is the first one noticed in this part of the valley.—Argus.

Austin T. Buxton, Master of the Oregon State Grange, has gone to Washington, D. C., to attend the forty second annual session of the National Grange. He expects to be away during November and part of December. Some important matters are to be brought before the association and Mr. Buxton who is deeply interested in the work of the grange, will take an active part in the deliberations before that body. He is accompanied by Mrs. Buxton.

Persons on the street last Thursday night about 9:30, heard two shots fired behind Callaway's grocery store and Dr. Large's place but upon investigation nothing was found. Those who heard the shots declare they also heard someone groan. The next morning, however, blood was found in several places on the platform and leading off through the wood sheds. The supposition is that someone shot a dog although absolutely no trace was found that would indicate what it was.
