Three times and out!

The labor note was not "delivered."

The Democratic landslide, slid the wrong way.

"Thirty thousand for Taft", wasn't a bad slogan after all.

It is especially gratifying to the moral element of the country that Gov. Hughes was re-elected governor of New York. One of the bitterest political fights of this campaign was waged against Hughes because he sought to stamp out gamblers and race track men in whose grasp the state has been these many years.

Those who have studied panics frequently believe that they come with regularity. That is, every twenty years we are supposed to have a first-class panic, and every ten years a lesser one. We had a big one in 1873. We had another big one in 1893. In between, in 1883 we had a lesser one. A lesser one was due in 1903 but failed to materialize. Was our 1907 panic the minor one, shoved over from 1903, or did we skip the little fellow and get the one due in 1913? If the former is true, it certainly appears that the regularity has been broken, and that we can postpone panics indefinitely. If the later is true then our first-class panic was a mild one, to say the least, and we are getting to the age where we can check and control them. Either way, it looks good to us, if we have confidence in the "recurring depression" theory.

Getting even is a pleasant game to play—at the time. Many a man has exulted as he took a fall out of a neighbor who had treated him unfairly. But the after-effects are not so encouraging. This getting-even business costs money and brings nothing in. Is it worth while to spend money for the sake of revenge? It is like the drinking of intoxicants, which stimulate for the time and then bring reaction and dark brown tastes, when over-indulgence is permitted. And then revenge is a game that never ends. A man does what he should not do to another. The other "gets even." The first man finds it incumbent on him to "get back at" the other, and it develops into an endless chain, and winds up, quite often, in bankruptcy for both. If another has wronged you, recoup yourself, but do not add to your wrongs.

Miss Maud Powell.

Portland music lovers are again to have the pleasure of hearing the greatest woman violinist in the world. Hundreds who were unable to attend last year's recital, will have the opportunity of hearing this wonderful artist. Together with Miss Powell will be heard the world's greatest woman 'cellist, the beautiful Russian girl, Miss May Mukle, and the noted English pianist, Miss Ann Ford. This is without a doubt the most brilliant trio of women instrumental artists that ever toured the United States. The recital in this city will be given at the Hellig Theatre on Wednesday evening, Nov. 25, Thanksgiving eve. It is not saying too much to make the statement that no musical celebrity in years has aroused the enthusiasm that Maud Powell did in this city last season. The Oregonian, Tuesday evening, 24.

The people of Forest Grove will have the opportunity of hearing Miss Powell together with the above named wonderful musicians, at Marsh hall, Tuesday evening November 24th.

Don't Be a Frog.

A frog jumps readily enough when put in warm water, yet a frog can be boiled without a movement if the water is heated slowly enough, says Toledo Grocer and Butcher.

In a physiological experiment at Yale university the water was heated at the rate of .0036 of a degree a second Fahrenheit. The frog never moved, and at the end of two and one half hours was found dead. He had evidently been boiled without noticing it.

There are hundreds of business frogs. They are not sensitive to changing business conditions. The evolution from old time methods of storekeeping to present day bright advertising has not startled them and they die a slow business death without realizing it.

board 4. Whole number enrolled 405.

Six pupils of the sixth grade had a very interesting debate last Friday on the question, Resolved, "That man is not a good creature for the birds according to their point of view. The decision in favor of the affirmative.

The teachers of the school are doing their best to place pupils where they can do the best work and they solicit the cooperation of the parents. To obtain the best results pupils must be regular in attendance and parents should use every effort to keep pupils in school regularly.
