THE MONARCH RANGE

Will Pay For Itself

Because--

It is Built RIGHT---of Malleable Iron and Steel

RIVETING A MONARCH RANGE

There are TWO distinct kinds of steel ranges, widely different, except in one respect—they both have steel bodies.

In the Monarch Range, unbreakable Malleable Iron is used for those parts that are cast or grey iron in all of the "common sort" of steel ranges.

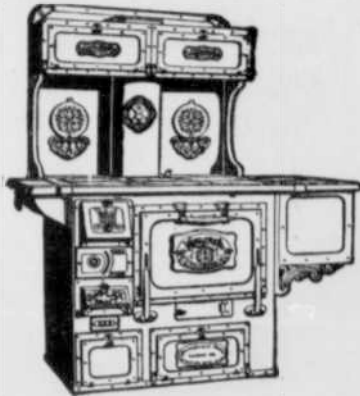

The seams and joints are made by riveting the heavy steel plates of the body and oven to MALLEABLE Iron frames, making seams as solid as those of a steam boiler, that will remain TIGHT for unlimited years.

Such a method of construction is possible only when Malleable Iron is used, and it is largely this "air tightness" that enables the Monarch to do as much work as an ordinary steel range with but one-half the fuel.

It is by actually SAVING a large part of the money ordinarily spent for fuel and repairs that "The Monarch Pays for Itself."

It's easy to see HOW the Monarch pays for itself when you compare its Riveted Air-Tight Construction with the Make-Up of the Ordinary Steel Range!

The GREY iron in the COMMON sort of steel range is too BRITTLE to stand hammering necessary to rivet it to the steel.

So the joints are made with stove bolts and plastered with stove putty in an attempt to make them appear tight.

Because everyone knows that "air leaks" into the flues and firebox WASTE fuel—

And the range must seem to be tight—at least till it is sold. After a little use these seams open up—the expansion and contraction works the nuts loose—the heat warps the iron and steel apart—the putty dries up and falls out.

The range leaks air all over—it WASTES FUEL.

There is no fuel waste with a MONARCH Range.

It utilizes ALL the energy in the fuel—uses about HALF what the other kind of a range requires.

Thus the saving in fuel alone pays the range's entire cost in a remarkably short time.

This "different" CONSTRUCTION effects not only a saving of FUEL, but of hard LABOR and much TIME as well.

There's no stove blacking to be done—no black kettle bottoms to scour—no waiting for a slow fire to get the oven hot. Everything goes smoothly—without a hitch about a Monarch Range.

The satisfaction of using such a range is worth much to a housekeeper.

It's all due to the CONSTRUCTION.

Grove; Mrs. Minnie Gerris, Hillsboro; W. L. Parsons, Dilley and Chas. Parsons of Australia.

Miss Jeannette O. Ferris of Sheridan, who is to lecture in McMinnville on "Bonnie Scotland" in the near future, will speak on the same subject under the auspices of the Woman's Club of this city, sometime during the forepart of May. She was formerly identified with the Michigan Federation of Clubs.

Dr. C. L. Large was remembered by Austin Craig, well known in Washington county newspaper circles, with a neat souvenir containing numerous views from the Philippine Islands, where Mr. Craig is now engaged in teaching. Dr. Large and Mr. Craig are old tillies and the former was proudly showing the souvenir to his friends about town.

P. W. Schubert, of Kent, Wash., master mechanic and inspecting engineer for the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Co., was here last week looking over the machinery of the local plant where he recommended the over hauling of the engine. The company has now six condensed milk plants and Mr. Schubert makes occasional visits to these institutions.

It is understood that the Rev. G. W. Riggs of Park Place, Ore., who had been called by the Hillsboro Congregational church, will not come to the county seat to assume that pastorate. The field at University Park, Portland, appears to have appealed to him more as being a younger church and it is presumed he will go there instead of to Hillsboro as was thought last week.
