"Windy Jim" Discourses

"Speakin' of havin' things handy," remarked "Windy Jim" as he helped himself to the cheese on the counter and sat down on his favorite cracker-box. "Reminds me of when I was a kid an' folks come west to Ne-brass-kee an took up a claim along the Platte".

"There weren't any lumber nor brick them days an' Pa built a sod house of four rooms and ma made the garden 'round the house." "Well ma was near-sighted and in plantin' the garden she didn't see the house and just planted potatoes an' carrots an' onions, an' several other things on the roof of the house".

"Well, we had a monstrous crop that year and everybody was so busy that we didn't get time to dig the potatoes an' things and one mornin' we woke up and darned if we wasn't snowed in". "Well, we didn't get out for three months and when ma wanted to cook anything she just reached up to the ceiling and picked off some potatoes or whatever it was she wanted, an' when it thawed out in the spring the garden was still growin' and ma still pickin' from the bottom." "And the more she picked the more they grewed till the Gosh-darned house was so full of potatoes, onions and things that we just nacherally had to move out." "Anybody got a match."
