Forest Grove To Become Mecca Of Tourists

Dorsey B. Smith, manager of a tourist agency and travel bureau of Portland met with members of the Board of Trade of Forest Grove and presented a proposition whereby tourists will start from Portland at 8:30 a. m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week, coming to Forest Grove for 50 minutes, and then going on to Salem, via Garden Home. Forest Grove and Salem will be the only points visited and the obligation asked of this City is that entertainment for the party while here be provided.

This will take the form of a view of the points of greatest interest which will provide the best advertisement to our locality.

This is a splendid opportunity for our City to gain greater publicity and advertising than has been secured by much more expensive means. Salem will furnish luncheon and pays a bonus in addition to the entertainment asked from the City.

SCHOOL NOTES

The programs at the Lincoln building will be in the day time and at the central building will be in the evening.

Parents having questions to ask, complaints to make or suggestions to offer will report direct to the superintendent for satisfactory results.

The exhibit will consist of regular work in the afternoon the pupils will be dismissed and the patrons are earnestly requested to be present to investigate the work of the year.

All promotions this year will be signed by the superintendent and pupils falling short one or two studies may be continued, to give them a chance to work up through the summer.

Capt. F. S. Barnes received word today that the Portland Archery Club will arrive in this city on the Saturday morning train over the Southern Pacific and will spend the day in shooting over the local course.

J. D. Foote will leave next week for Pearisburg, Va., where he will continue the practice of his profession as a member of the law firm of Williams and Farrier.

A SPRING OPTIMIST.

Now, though the little busy bee
His energies doth bend
To bang me in a tender spot
With his sharp business end,
I do not need to shovel coal
And that burned heaters out,
And ashes—I don't touch 'em now—
By gum, I ought to shout!

Why, yes, that pesky fly is back
To drop into my cup,
And caterpillars by the stack
To drop when I look up,
But, bang it all, what of all this
When I those tight old rubbers miss?
Oh, but they made my sore corns sting!
No more of that! Hooray, it's spring!

You bet I hear that sneaker trill
And bung my bald spot with his drill,
And farmers now sell haymow eggs
From which peep chicks with yellow legs,
But can't you hear the bluebirds sing?
Oh, golly, how they make things ring!
And see those flowers in the sun
Spring just suits me; it does, by gum!

Why, yes, we're just now cleaning house,
And that's nix-cum-er-ous,
And I'm dead tired, black and blue
Marjar's awful sassy too,
But I can swoller this real well
When I hear them spring onions smell
And I hear my Marjar cry,
"Bill, kill some chickens now to fry!"
C. M. BARNITZ

A Celebrated Goat.

On April 28, 1772, there died at Mile End a celebrated goat. She had been twice round the world, somewhat of a feat in those days, once on the discovery ship Dolphin, under Captain Wallis, and once on the Endeavor, under Captain Cook. She was admitted to the privileges of an in pensioner of Greenwich hospital by warrant of the lords of the admiralty, but before she could avail herself of the honor she died. Dr. Johnson wrote a couplet which the distinguished animal for some time wore round her neck.—London Opinion

Physically Not Mentally.

Dick—You were born to be a writer, Charlie.

Charlie (blushing)—Ah, you've seen some of the things I've turned off.

Dick—No; I was thinking what a splendid ear you have for carrying a pen.—Stray Stories.
