

NEWSY GASTON ITEMS

Gathered by the Special Representative of the Press

Harry Ball spent Monday looking at farms.

M. Moak of the Moak Lumber Co., is spending the week in Portland.

Mr. McFall of the Gaston Lumber Co., visited his mill Sunday and Monday.

Rev. N. W. Phelps preached in the Evangelical church Sunday evening.

Fishermen report poor luck the past week, but we know of a few who filled their baskets.

Tim Thompson is rushing to completion the Gaston Water Works. Water was turned on last Monday.

Miss Laura Forsberg spent Sunday and Monday with her parents, returning to her work Monday evening.

The Thompson farm east of town, which consists of 350 acres, has been sub-divided and is being sold in small tracts.

John Satterlee called on Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Koberstein Monday. Mr. Satterlee is associated with the Carman Co. of Portland, and is the inventor of a machine from which he expects to secure motive power derived from weights.

The Rose show on the 26th was a decided success. The floral exhibit was splendid in its entirety. The ladies who had taken it in hand, as well as the judges, showed exceptional exemplary knowledge, quite a few flower growers winning prizes. Mrs. Grace King, the milliner, donated a beautiful trimmed hat, for first prize. A few of the parties winning ribbons were: Mesdames J. D. Bates, Geo. Beal, E. X. Harding, D. Emmerson, F. A. Everest, H. L. Russell, R. R. Harding, Hanna Best and J. H. Wescott.

Our merchants desire to see a bank established at this place and are not only willing but anxious to give such a proposition their patronage—but would take shares in order to assist in the establishment of the same. Other towns no larger and perhaps not doing as much business have banks that are a well paying proposition, and there seems certain in the minds of our business men that it would pay here where the monthly average of business transacted exceeds $10,000 with a rich and prosperous country surrounding it.
