Once More Cupid Triumphs

A pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
F. M. Starrett at their home east of town, this afternoon, when their daughter Lou Christina, became the bride of Charles Daniel Wagner, the marriage service being read by Rev. Hiram Gould, pastor of the Methodist church in this city.

The bride was charmingly gowned in a dress of white Persian lawn, made princess, ornamented with hand embroidery and trimmed with point d'esprit.
She carried a bouquet of white roses, and was unattended. The parlors were prettily decorated with flowers for the occasion, roses of many colors predominating. Many beautiful and costly presents were given the bride by her friends. After the ceremony a wedding luncheon was served to the invited guests, and the happy couple departed for their honeymoon trip to Seaside and San Francisco.

Mrs. Wagner taught school in this vicinity some years ago, and afterwards taught for some years in the Indian schools in Arizona.
She was transferred from there to the Indian schools at Miles, Wash., where she was head teacher. Mr. Wagner is a native of Ohio, and a graduate of the Ohio Northern University. He is engineer in charge of the irrigation system of the Piute Indian reservation in Nevada. After August 1, Mr. and Mrs. Wagner will be at home in Wadsworth, Nevada.

Joint Installation

Wednesday evening witnessed the joint installation of officers for the ensuing year of the local lodges of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion, and an excellent orchestra furnished appropriate music. After the ceremonies a bounteous lunch was served by the ladies, and the gathering broke up at a late hour well satisfied with the evening's entertainment. A number of visiting brothers and sisters, including ourselves, attended the installation.

The I. O. O. F. placed H. D.
Ott in the chair of the Noble Grand and O. C. Schofield in the
