SCHOOL NOTES

Our school now numbers 451. High school enrollment 78 and still more to follow.

Every available space in the Central building is being used.

Twelve more new desks were added to the High School room Saturday.

The Manual Training boys are working with a right good will helping to make furniture for school use.

Our High School rooms are crowded to overflowing. One room now has 44 in it and there are still a few more to come.

There is no doubt now that the public school band will be a success. The boys expect to begin work as soon as lights come on.

Pupils who are absent from school will be required by the teachers to make up the part lost while absent. This will insure no breaks in the work of the year.

The first County Teachers Institute will be at Hillsboro Saturday and our teachers expect to attend. This shows the true school spirit on the part of the teachers.

An order was passed this week that pupils, when dismissed from school, should go home and not stop to play in the school yard. Many parents want their children at home and for this reason all are required to go unless they have permission to remain.

Tardiness seems to be a besetting sin in our school, and in order to encourage pupils to be on time, a picture is offered to the room with the fewest marks. Any room keeping the picture three months in succession may retain it permanently. The following rooms have no tardy marks this month so get pictures. Central Building, Miss Todd's and Miss Stalley's, Lincoln school, Miss Martin's.

J. E. Woell a rancher of above Gales Creek was in the Grove Saturday, and "came through" for fifty-two copies of the PRESS. Mr. Woell makes a specialty of raising cabbages, but says his crop this year is making a poor showing.

The Pacific Monthly's Special Introductory Offer

The Pacific Monthly, of Portland, Oregon, is a beautifully illustrated magazine which gives very full information about the resources and opportunities of the country lying West of the Rockies.
