SCHOOL NOTES

Art Exhibit next week.

Several new pupils registered this week.

There have been a few cases of truancy recently.

The seventh and eighth grades at Lincoln are making the welkin ring by the use of their new song books.

The eighth grade at Central is equipped with new song books and the best possible use is being made of them.

Base ball and basket ball are the talked of games now. New balls are flying about the grounds and good exercise is the result.

Our public school band has started to practice and everything tends toward good music before spring. The boys should be encouraged in this new undertaking.

The High School boys have started a glee club and, while the number is not large, the quality is excellent. Regular practices will be observed after the Art Exhibit next week.

A girl's chorus has been formed in the High School and some splendid work is being done. Mrs. E. E. Williams is director of the chorus and the best of results are anticipated.

The manual training department is overrun with orders for school furniture, and the students will probably have to work over time in order to fill all requisitions. Come in any or every afternoon and see the class at work.

Several have asked for a schedule of the Manual Training and Domestic Art classes. All work is in the afternoon and in each grade while the girls take domestic science or art the boys take manual training. At the Central building the classes are as follows: Monday—1 o'clock, fifth grade; 2:30, tenth grade. Tuesday—1 o'clock, sixth grade; 2:30, eleventh and twelfth grades—cooking. Wednesday—1 o'clock, eighth grade; 2:30 ninth grade. At the Lincoln building: Thursday—1 o'clock, eighth grade; 2:30, seventh grade. Friday—1, sixth grade; 2:30, fifth grade. Visitors are welcome at any time.

Art in the public schools is a matter that has attracted the attention of the best educators of our land. In almost all of our states it is in the school course and Oregon is not in the rear by any means. Art has been in our course for a number of years and the schools are requiring it just as rapidly as they can. Forest Grove has been just a little behind the times but the schools now are having some splendid work along this line. Writing, drawing, both free hand and mechanical, water color painting and charcoal work, all contribute to the work of art. Many pictures are being studied and the artists and conditions under which they painted are discussed. And now that we have a fine display of pictures for next week, it gives our boys and girls a chance to spend a few days with some of the best artists of the world. Art tends to bring out in the child the very best there is in him and helps him to enjoy the best of life and prepare for a larger field of usefulness.

It has been suggested that art does not belong in the public school, but if our schools are to give pupils an elementary training for life work, it should most emphatically give some elementary training in art. Let us be thankful that our children are learning to live and to enjoy what some of us missed.
