Into The Heart of Portland

Oregon Electric trains now run through the retail, hotel and theatre center of Portland to the North Bank Station, 11th and Hoyt streets, stopping inbound at all street intersections. Outbound trains stop at 10th and Stark, 10th and Morrison, 5th and Salmon, 1st and Salmon streets, as well as The North Bank and Jefferson street stations. These city stops are convenient and time saving for Willamette Valley passengers.

Through Tickets East No Portland Transfers

Tickets are sold and baggage checked through to Eastern points. Fares, train service and other details will be furnished on request.

Stingers

A light head beats a heavy heart.

The loafer is always willing to work—a loan.

It's easier to take a day off than putting it back.

The skeptic is one who loses faith in himself.

The better you behave the better you will get along.

The best fighters are sometimes the best peace-makers.

Winter freezes the water but we must cut our own ice.

The pencil is sometimes hard pushed to tell the truth.

The path of duty over the road to happiness runs parallel.

The best way to keep friends is not to use them too often.

We are all ready to acknowledge the corn when the shoe pinches.

Some neighbors don't like it unless you talk about them.

The world doesn't ask how you got there after you arrive.

Some men think they are ambitious if they try to avoid hard work.

Too many office seekers who pretend to be working for their country are merely working it.

A reasonable amount of egotism is good for a man. It keeps him from brooding over his neighbor's success.

When we look back now upon some of the things we used to worry about, we wonder what the lunacy commissions were doing all that time.

The following saying by Abraham Lincoln holds as good today as it did years ago: "Don't whine about your lack of opportunity. There are opportunities to everyone who is able to convince the world by his industry that he is worthy of success."

Take a good deep breath. Do it several times a day. You will be repaid bountifully. The pure, fresh ozone that surrounds us is God's best gift to physical man. Its the elixir of life. It cleanses and enriches the blood. That in turn will tone up the entire system. It will give elasticity to your step, clearness to your eyes, invigorate the fatigued mind, renew your energies. Try it, its free. Try it and keep it up.

Leo Sams, of Warrendale, Ore., was in the Grove last week visiting with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hocking.

BUNKERS, Pacific Ave.

Burglar Scare.

Quite a little excitement prevailed in east part of town last Saturday night, in and about the residence of Mr. Crayton. Mr. Crayton had been away from home working and returning he found the family away and the doors locked. He procured a ladder and entered at an upper window, went to bed and asleep. The family, later in the evening, returned, seen the ladder at the window and surmising that a burglar had entered, aroused the neighbors and sent to Forest Grove for the chief of police. The front door was opened and the officer, with gun in hand, entered, calling out, "is anybody in the house?" was answered by Mr. Crayton from his bed upstairs that there was; the chief accordingly demanded that he come down, but was informed that he was in bed and undressed and not presentable. The chief, followed by the family and neighbors, went upstairs to find the old man snug in bed.
