Oregon Beats Them All.

Oregon is a great state. Strawberries grow as large as Indiana peaches, apples the size of footballs, fir trees so large and so high that one contains enough lumber to build a house, and when it comes to politics Oregon has them all beaten. A republican state, all the good offices are owned by democrats, and most of the republicans in office were appointed by democrats higher-up. Now comes the Fels fund single tax pap-sucker and proposes to be a delegate to the next Republican national convention. Anything will grow in Oregon soil.
