was too obliging. Fresh from the lecture on politeness the street car conductor went on duty resolved to extend courtesy to all. From the car barns up to 99th street he put his resolution into effect. He assisted the feeble and heavy-laden, he smiled serenely under unmerited abuse and he hurried no one unduly. At 98th street he noticed that a woman in the middle seat was preparing to leave the car at the next corner. The child beside her was too big to cause her any particular trouble in alighting, but the conductor had been pleased with the way the woman smiled upon the child, so he hurried forward to help.

The woman stepped down first and the conductor, with one sweep of his arm, set the child down beside her. His signal to go on was followed by a scream, then another and another. "Boo hoo," howled the boy, and "My child! Bring my child back here," cried a woman in the car. Half a block further along the car stopped. "He isn't mine," gasped the woman when she and the boy had caught up with the car. "I only just smiled at him."—New York Sun.

METHODS FOR ERADICATING INJURIOUS BITING INSECTS

Constant and Concerted Warfare Must be Made Against Little Pests—Arsenate of Lead May be Purchased Ready Prepared and Is Quite Convenient to Use—Other Recipes.

(By GLENN W. HERRICK, Mississippi.)

There are many kinds of insects that pester the farmer and fruit grower and all of them, taken together, may be divided into two great groups dependent upon the kind of mouth parts they have and the manner in which they attack plants. The insects of one group have jaws and bite off bits of plants and swallow them. They are known as the biting insects. The members of the second group have a bill or sucking tube which they insert into the tissues of plants and suck out the juices. These are the sucking insects.

The grasshopper is a familiar example of the first class of insects, for it has biting mouth parts, composed of two pairs of jaws, one of which is hard and black and easily seen with the eye. With these jaws the grasshopper bites off pieces of leaves, stems, etc., and swallows them much as a cow or horse would do. Very many insect pests have biting mouth parts like the grasshopper and eat parts of plants. For example, the caterpillars, or "worms," on cotton, tomatoes, cabbage, etc., the June bugs, fig-eaters, potato bugs, etc. All such insects are known as the biting insects.

It is plain that an insect that bites off pieces of leaves and swallows them stands a relatively high chance of being killed by putting some poisonous substance upon the leaves before they are eaten. It is absolutely necessary to know what kind of an insect is causing the injury—whether it is a biting or sucking insect. This is the first point to determine.

Probably Paris green is one of the best known poisons for biting insects. It is rather expensive, difficult to buy unadulterated and is quite liable to burn the foliage of plants if applied too strong.

It can be applied dry as follows:
1 pound of Paris green,
25 pounds of slaked lime or flour.
The two should be thoroughly mixed and may be sifted on the plants from a thin muslin sack, preferably in the morning while the dew is yet on.

Paris green may also be applied in water, which we believe is a better method than the dry one for most plants. Quick lime is added to prevent burning of the foliage and the poison is used in the following proportions:

1 pound of Paris green,
200 to 300 gallons of water,
3 pounds quick lime.
Slake the lime in a little water and add the Paris green. Stir thoroughly and then add the proper amount of water—for potatoes 200 gallons of water, and for peaches 300 gallons.

Arsenate of lead is a combination of arsenic and acetate of lead and is better than Paris green, because it sticks to the foliage better, will not burn the leaves, and remains in suspension longer. It can be made as follows:

11 ounces acetate of lead (white sugar of lead),
4 ounces arsenate of soda,
50 gallons water.
Dissolve the acetate of lead in 4 quarts of water and the arsenate of

TAMWORTH ADAPTED TO BACON

The Tamworth hog is not as popular in the United States as it deserves. A few pigs of this breed were brought over from England about 30 years ago, but until the last three or four years it was not regarded favorably.

The appearance of the Tamworth is somewhat against it. Its rather long head does not impress farmers favorably, and there is a general belief that it costs more to bring a Tamworth to maturity than almost any other type. Experiments show, however, that this claim is based mainly on prejudice, for the Tamworth in Canada has proven itself to be an excellent and economical feeder.

This breed is especially well adapted to bacon, because of its light shoulder, its length of side and a tendency to produce a greater portion of lean meat than many other breeds.

When the Tamworth is crossed on breeds of more fattening tendencies, and with finer bone, say the Berkshire, it makes an excellent bacon hog. It is claimed by some breeders that the Tamworth is the best bacon hog in existence, but this may be taken with a grain of salt.

Damage by Rats.

dilute with 200 gallons of water for spraying.

Arsenate of lime may also be prepared by boiling two pounds of white arsenic and eight pounds of sal soda in two gallons of water for 15 or 20 minutes, or until the arsenic and soda are dissolved. This constitutes a stock solution which may be kept in a sealed jug for a long time. When ready to spray, slake two pounds of quick lime, take one pint of the stock solution and mix them both with 40 gallons of water.

SEASON WOOD BY ELECTRICITY

Method as Pursued in France Described in British Technical Paper—Does Work Well.

The following item from a British technical paper concerns a new process of seasoning wood by electricity in France:

A large tank is filled with a solution containing 10 per cent of borax and 5 per cent of resin, with just a trace of carbonate of soda. In the bottom of the tank is a lead plate which is electrically connected to the positive pole of the dynamo. The timber to be treated is stacked on this plate, and when the tank has been filled another plate is superimposed and connected to the negative pole of the dynamo. When the current is switched on it passes through the stack of wood between the two plates, and in its passage it is said to deposit borax and resin in its place, completely filling up all pores and interstices. When the process is completed the timber is removed and dried, after which it is ready for use. It is claimed that the timber submitted to this treatment, no matter how green it may be, becomes completely seasoned.

Protect the Silo.
Wherever possible the silo should be located in a sheltered place, as it has a great bearing on the extent to which the silage will freeze. A silo that is built on the west side of a barn, where it is exposed to the cold winds, even if it is built with dead air spaces, will freeze more than one built of solid concrete if it is sheltered.
